Catastrophe at Carleton U

BY CHRIS NAKASH

This story is a partial rewrite of a story appearing in today's Charlatan, Carleton's untversity paper. The original story was written by Karen Gregory and David Butler.

The Panda game, an annual traditional football game between Carleton University and the Untversity of Ottawa turned out to be a disaster last Saturday at Landsdown Park.
During the half-time of the game, an excesstve number of people converged on the rallings in sections C and D of Carleton's side of the stands. The bullt up pressure caused a fifteen foot section of the railing to snap and collapse. What resulted was a steady stream of spectators falling 13 feet to the tarmac below. (on field level)
"l saw people falling, it was just like a waterfall of people." said Richard Baskin, a spectator at the game. "All of a sudden it was just like dominos", described David Loker, a fourth year geography student at Carleton. Loker remains in Ottawa General Hospital with a broken neck at the sixth vertibrae, a swollen face, lacerations, bruises all over his body and a large bump on the back of his head. His condition is improving.

A total of forty people were infured, thirty-eight of them requiring hospital treatment. As of Wednesday, nine people were still in hospital, one in critical condition after undergoing brain surgery Saturday evening. Ten people were arrested by the police at the game, and ten more the week before at a party, on alcohol related charges

There is an investigation under way to determine the cause of the accident, as well as the future of the Panda Game.

Another winning year for the Redsticks.
By virtue of their 9-0-1 record, the Sticks have again won the right to host the AUAA's which will happen this Saturday and Sunday at Chapman Field.
The team, which has only allowed three goals while scoring ten times that many, has played confidently throughout the season, and seems unconcerned that other members of the league view the Redsticks as the team to beat.

However, due to the goalkeeper, has been Redsticks' dominance in the awesome throughout the league, the team will have to season. She hasn't been called work hard during the AUAAs. on to make many saves this "I think the team to beat will year, but when the time has be ourselves," says Coach come she is equal to the task, loyce Slipp.
Overall, Coach Slipp is not as impressed with this year's league as she has been with teams in the past, citing a general deterioration in quality, including that of her own. 'We've done well because of our name... (we) can play poorly and still win.
But, of course, the team isn't without a "few bright spots." Sheila Bell, starting making some key saves a crucial points in the game. Coach Slipp says she has Na tional Team potential.
Another key performer for the Sticks is forward Carla Reeves, whose twelve goals in ten games far exceeds the out put of any other player. She is always prominent in front of the opposing team's net driving hard for the ball and creating scoring opportunities She is complemented well by perience which is a big plus, forward Cathy Whalen whose and of the team, Coach Slipp six goal output is a direct out- remarks, "we have had a lot come of her knowledge of of players playing really well." where to position herself The tournament promises to around the net, and she has be exciting and fan support for many assists from her good one of our best campus teams stickwork on the wing. would be welcomed
