a very clear statement, that Canada was doing this freely and voluntarily. His whole attitude, his language was so handled as to place Canada on an equal status with Britain and France, our allies, and to act as United States would, and will act, if it enters the war.

Lapointe in his address over the Radio tonight in French did the very same thing. He used the words freely and voluntarily a dozen times. Advised the French Canadians to support France and England freely and voluntarily. Said Canada's defence was now beyond the limits of Canada, and that anything we did was purely for Canada's defence. Not a word about the Empire. Wound up with "Vive le Canada." I was in a restaurant
