Theatrical

"Rupert of Hentzau" at the Grand Theatre.
The situation in the last act of "Rupert of Hentzau," the dramatization by himself of Anthony Hope's latest success, is said to be something entirely new in romantic drama. The King and his double, Rudolf Rassendyll, Queen Flavia and the others familiar in the earlier story, pass through even more exciting experiences in the new play, resulting in the death of the King at the hands of the villainous Rupert of Hentzau, and Rupert's end by his own hand after a thrilling combat with Rudolf, who is rescued by the soldier and populace and hailed mistakenly by them as King. That series of scenes in which Rudolf finds himself absolutely the King, and is urged by the soldiers and the Queen to retain the scepter and live a lie, is dramatic and poetical, touched with the rarest charm of romance, lifted above mere stagecraft and contrivance, and true to the best there is in human nature. The climax is obvious. There is only one way out for Rassendyll. He must fight down the temptation to accept his pleasant fate, to remain and reign King with Flavia as Queen, yet he must not in honor desert Flavia, or leave unsupported the officers who have worked for and with him. So, feeling to live as the King, he must die as the monarch, and the tableau which closes the story and the play is as unique as the situation which leads up to it is fascinating. As the King's heroic substitute Mr. Harry Leighton is said to sustain the requirements of this difficult double role as admirably as in his earlier success in the first story.

Mr. Samuel J. Bishop at the Grand on Wednesday, accompanied by Master Danny Campbell, the famous choir boy soloist, and Mr. William Buckley, Canada's greatest pianist and organist, should draw a large audience.

John Fay Palmer on Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night.
The Euclid Avenue Opera House was crowded last night to witness the initial production of John Fay Palmer's play, "The Last Days of Pompeii." Readers of this historical romance were highly delighted with the dramatic feast served up for them. All the classic characters of the story appeared, bringing with them, personages. The unholy love and passion, mysticism and sensuality of the character of the Egyptian were brought forth in a highly artistic manner by Mr. Palmer. The love of Glaucus for Ione, the quaint and interesting character of Nydia, the blind girl, and her struggling love for Glaucus Apocides, the young priest, wavering between Pagan religion and the new thought which had entered the world at this time, "Christianity"; the weird Witch of Vesuvius, and a score of other characters were stage pictures, delightfully drawn. The play follows the book closely. It is in fact an accurate presentation of Bulwer's famous story. The scenic, dramatic and mechanical effects introduced, with the rich costumes, added much to the success of the production. Mr. Palmer is gifted by Nature with a tall figure, classic cast of features and a resonant voice. His characterization of "Pharaoh" will rank among the masterpieces of acting on the stage to-day.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

San Francisco Minstrels at the Grand Saturday night.
The San Francisco Minstrels at Opera House Tuesday evening were favored with a grand send-off and gave an entertainment that was highly satisfactory to those in attendance. The best feature of the program was the club singing by Mr. McVey which was fully appreciated by the contortion acts of Mr. LaMore. The musical part of the program was very good and the jokes up-to-date, a rare thing in a minstrel entertainment.—Oldtown Chronicle.

Parole for Elton.
Lansing, Mich., Oct. 11.—Lansing friends of Big Bert Elton, the former well-known first baseman for the Hamilton, Canadian League, baseball team, who is serving out a three years' sentence at Marquette prison for robbery at Port Huron, are interesting themselves in an effort to get a parole for him. Elton has a high opinion of himself, and the fact that it was more his associates' fault than his that he is now serving time. When Deputy Sheriff Behrendt was in Marquette, the deputy warden told him that Elton is a model prisoner, and that he would appreciate anything that could be done in his behalf. He believed Elton had been sufficiently punished.

FOOTBALL

CHATHAM TAKES FIRST.
Chatham, 2; Sandwich, 0!

"With Laurie captaining the Chatham team they can't lose," said Vice-President Al. Stone, who was asked his opinion prior to the first match of the Peninsula League schedule between Chatham and Sandwich.

The result proved Mr. Stone to be a good prophet, Saturday's game on Tecumseh Park ending with the foregoing score.

In the early part of the game the first accident of the season occurred, the result of which will be that Mort Sheldon, one of the best forwards on the local team, will be laid up for some weeks, probably for the whole season. Mort ran into Williams, the Sandwich heavy full back, breaking his collarbone and dislocating his shoulder.

The game was not an exciting one, although the teams were pretty well matched, both, however, showing lack of practice. The game was clean throughout and there was very little rough playing.

Mercer scored Chatham's first goal from a pretty drop by Sissons. Sandwich claimed a foul on one of Chatham's men and protested the goal, but it did them no good, as Jinks, not long after, put the ball between the flags with an elegant shot.

All the Chatham boys put up a good game, considering the very little practice they have had. Sissons was very conspicuous and put up a star game at half-back.

The Sandwich defence was good, but their forward line was somewhat weak, but there is not a doubt but that they will figure in the first division of the league.

The teams were lined up as follows:—

Sandwich.
Goal—Robinson.
Backs—Ternan (captain) and Williams.
Halves—Hill, E. Beeman, J. Beeman.
Right Wing—Hinds and Doble.
Centre—Orton.
Left Wing—A. Beeman and McLeod.
Chatham.

Goal—Sowerby.
Backs—Courtney and Wilson.
Halves—Sissons, Laurie (captain) and Piggott.
Right Wing—Anderson and Angus.
Centre—Fetterley.
Left Wing—Mercer, Sheldon and Jinks.
Referee—Abram, Darrell.

BASEBALL

CALLS IT ALL OFF.

There will be no game on Thursday next between the Aberdeens and the Pete McAuley baseball team, because Manager Jack Austin says he thought, having read it in The Planet, that Manager McAuley had dropped out of baseball and had given up hope. He, therefore, disbanded his team. And that his (Austin's) pitcher refuses to play against any team until they get a reputation.

"He knows," continued Mr. Austin, "that a number of our best players are out of town and not available for a game at this time of the year. If a game at this time of the year, if he wanted a game why didn't he speak up a week ago when the challenge was in the paper. We will still be in the game next season and will give players all the games they desire. I am awfully sorry that he went to the trouble of holding a meeting. The weather is very unsteady and a game could not be arranged for any date ahead—and look at the expense. Pete would be put to it if it happened to rain just before the game. All his imported players would have to go away with his good money for nothing. I feel for Pete and would not like to have anything like this to happen."

"Well, old boy, good-bye for the present, but I will be with you in 1903."

"Rube" Waddell leads the list of American League pitchers with 23 won and 7 lost, giving him a per cent. of 76. Bernhard comes second with 76.
