In the afternoon, a number of them visited the points of interest in and around the city, and on Wednesday went to St. John by steamer. The weather interferred greatly with their enjoyment of things while in by grand lodge officers: this city, it being very rainy. A BILL OF FARE. - A Fredericton hotel-keeper, noted for giving good dinners, could not explain the broad smile which illumined each guest's face the other day as he examined the printed bill of fare, until he had inspected the bill himself. Then he found that the intelligent printer had served up apple pie and strawberry pie under the head of "vegetables," placing sliced beets, cabbage and green peas under "pastry." THE CENTRAL RAILWAY. - The adjourned annual meeting of the central railway company was held at the office of W. T. Whitehead, Wednesday afternoon, when the following officers were elected: C. Ford Stephens, Philadelphia, president; John P. Ilsley, and Stephen E. Haas, of Philadelphia, Count de Bury, C. N. Skinner, M. P., and F. E. Barker, Q. C., of St. John; and W. P. eague matches came off on Satuaday last. Fredericton cannot, of course, produce such teams as are to be found in the larger cities of the Dominion, though a few of its marksmen are of the hignest rank. Another disadvantage is the range over which the local shooting is done which, though in other respects a good one, is greatly exposed to the wind, whereby fine scoring is made difficult. In Saturday's match a baffling fishtail wind prevailed which bothered the cracks greatly. Local interest in these matches chiefly centres in the contest between the 71st battalion team and that of the Infantry school. The school won the first match of the season, lost the second, and gained the third on Saturday, through chaplain of the order, who took his text their superior shooting at 400 yards, though from Deuteronony 37 chapter and 2nd headed at both the other ranges.
