Putting Through Work.—A certain deacon of Dumbarton was in the habit of sacrificing very freely to the jolly god. One forenoon being Bacch is potenus, he accidentally thrust his elbow through the minister's window. The clergyman was out instantly, and lectured him on the sin and folly of his conduct, and the ruin of health and character that would follow preseverance in it. "Ou ay," said the deacon, "that's a' very fine; but my plan is to pit by my drinking when I'm young an' strong, an' no be seen gaun stottin' aboot and half fu,' when my heid's white as snaw."

Old Pete's Conscience.—The colored brother who is conscious of the infirmities of man, and aspires to a higher and a purer life, is seldom without words to express his emotions, albeit sometimes in phrase more direct and blunt than elegant. So it was with an old negro elegant. So it was with an old negro named Pete, who was very much trousuch a great sinner!" "But, Pete," said his master, "you are foolish to take so much at heart. You never see me troubled about my sins." "I know de reason, massa," said Pete: "when you go out duck-shooting, and kill one bird and wound anoder, don't you run after de wounded duck!" "Yes, Pete;" and the master woodsard when the woodsard was the woodsard when the woodsard when the woodsard was the woodsard was the woodsard when the woodsard was the woodsard was the woodsard was the woodsard when the woodsard was the woodsard was the woodsard when the woodsard was the master wondered what was con next. Patrons of Husbandry.

The farmers in the Western and South-ern States have a secret society called the "Patrons of Husbandry." They have adopted a rallying hymn entitled "The Hand that Holds the Bread." The note of the organization is expressed in the following stanza of the song:—
Brothers of the plow!

The power is with you; The power is with you;
The world in expectation waits
For action prompt and true.
Oppression stalks abroad,
Monopolies abound,
Their giant hands already clutch
The tillers of the ground.

Chorne Awake, then, awakel The great world must be fed,

And Heaven gives the power the "Hand that Holds the Bread." Did you ever think that what SATAN'S ALTERATIVE.—A plain-speaking country minister was asked one day how it happened that, considering the good example supposed to be set before them, so many ministers' sons should turn out ne'er-do-weels.
