You know, sir, that it has been the practice of our party for many years to ignore just such men as I have described, and for the Reform Government of Ontario, to select for the more lucrative offices their near relatives. So persistently have our old principles of Reform Government in fertilizer. But some will say "Oh! should be built in everybody's kitchen, clover seed is so expensive I can't afford to annually buy so much." Well, really good things are usually expensive, and done up in exceedingly small parcels as well; and as for the "afford," we must ask ourselves can we afford to ultimately ruin our farm? Can we cease to raise wheat, which we positively must, if we do not continue clover? If we can do this, then we need not sow clover but it we must. But some will say we will sow timothy instead of clover, as it is so much cheaper. So it is, but it would be built in everybody's kitchen, the same success, which has crowned his the same success, which has crowned his efforts heretofore, may attend him in his new situation.

We have received from the publisher, wm. Bryce, of Toronto, a handsomely bound and interesting volume, entitled "From Sea to Sea." being a descriptive work of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. There are numerous photoas a crop of wheat yielding 30 bushels per acre, besides returning almost nothing to the soil, in root of any value, and it also makes the soil solid and unsuitable for any crop that may follow, while the very opposite may be said of clover. Much of the failure of fall wheat of late years is owing to the diminution of the amount of clover sown, and without we turn right about face it is hard to say From our own correspondent. The practice is a most vicious one, in many respects besides those I mention, and particularly destructive to the party whose leaders plums themselves on their purity. In the selection of either of the neck and neck racers, you mention, to fill the vacant office, there can be no injury Jone to any individual, any party, or to the public at large. Either of them can perform the duties well and the means they may use to secure the position, will surely be honorable. Besides publishing this letter I ask you to give it your keenest criticism, for the method of filling public offices, is an important public question, and also a vital party question. Fally recognized as such by the Conservatives, to them it is the very soul of their statesmanship; whereas the grasping by our members and party leaders of that which does not belong to them, discourages the most able and deserving of the reform rank and file, to whom such favors rightly and professedly belong. There is considerable drunkenness round the Nile since the tavern opened. Of course as there is no license, no whiskey is sold at our hotel. It's the strong smell of the whiskey sold there before the Scott Act was repealed, that does the mischief. If whiskey was being sold, the county Inspector would pay the tavern a visit, but with such law-abiding citizens as unlicensed hotolkeepers, the inspector's office is a sinecure. The Crook's Act is a beautiful Act, and it is beautifully enforced at the Nile. Three men had to be carted home drunk, from the taveru two months ago, but, as we said, it was the Scott Act aroma that ingers about the place did the damage.
