What Britain is Doing.

The Chicago Daily News contains striking tribute to the part Great Britain has played in the war, and shows how she is bending her energy to a colossal task. The article is of especial interest as showing the pro-British feeling which has taken the place of the antagonism to Britain in he early days of the war. Here, says the Chicago Daily News, are some of he things Britain is doing:-

"1. Holding the seas for the ships of her allies as well as for her own. "2. Protecting the coasts of her allies as. well as her own.

"3. Struggling in co-operation with the French to smash the Turks and win the Balkans for the allied cause. "4. Rendering great aid to French and Belgian troops in resisting the terrible onslaughts of the Germans on the allied left wing in the west. "5. Making loans and supplying munitions to nearly all her partners in

"6. Pursuing a financial policy in south-eastern Europe likely to promote the cause of the nationalities. "7. Putting into the field more than ten times as many men as she ever promised. "8. Guarding her own soil and peo ple against an invasion, which, if it came-and it is believed to be far from impossible-doubtless would be the most savage, the most unsparing ever known. With how many men? Well, with enough. To hear some people talk, one would suppose that upon Britain were laid the duty of defending every land but her own. "Britain's wealth and sea power and military power are the one sure safeguard against the triumph of Germany's unparalleled war 'machine Without Britain's help France and Russia certainly must have been crushed. Without Britain's wholehearted participation in the war, who will say that Italy would have ventured to challenge the mighty and merciless Germanic coalition? With Britain out of the struggle, would there have been any hope of the Balkan States daring to move? "And Britain-never forget it-was not compelled to go to the aid of France. Come what might, the most that Britain ever promised France were six divisions-120,000 men. She was not in honor bound to send a single soldier more. She could have stayed out of the war. Germany had begged her to stay out of the war. Disgraced she might have been-as Britons think, must have been-if she had left Belgium and France and European liberty to their doom.

"But she could have done this. Few nations are without disgrace, without historical pages they fain would obliterate. Britain was not attacked, France and Russia were attacked. Britain might have awaited the onset -as America is awaiting the onset. Britain might have stood clear, might have husbanded her resources of men and money, might swiftly have prepared, even might have loomed over the stricken adversaries in the end and claimed the hegemony of Europe for herself "Britain did not do so.

"She threw her trident into the scale. She threw her sword into the scale. She threw her gold into the scale-and she is incalculably rich.

"She threw into the balance her impressivle racial record, her prestige, her unrivalled diplomatic skill. She threw-is throwing-will throw into the balance the whole puissance of her empire.

"And all for what? For the principle-the fruits of the principle-of the liberty of the individual against the despotism of the state.

"Britain, one can believe, may be the author of some acts of which she is not proud-may have done some things to cause her, looking back upon them with full light, to wish they had never been done. But in this war this old and proud democracy is unfolding, applying a material strength and a moral splendor that for countless ages after this conflict is stilled will be shining undimmed amid the first glories of history."

WHAT THE NAVY COSTS.

Everyone recognizes that whatever money is expended on the Navy, it is money well spent; but some of the items in the Blue Book which has just een published, containing the annual accounts for shipbuilding and dock-yard transactions for the financial year 1913-1914, will probably startle

some readers.

The total cost of combantant ships on the strength at the present time is given at £174.166.488, and the gradual growth of naval expenditure is seen from the following statistics relative to the votes for dockyards and 1889-90 £14,890,055

ships which have been mentioned during the progress of the war: Iron

Duke, £1,899,915; Lion, £1,970,615; Queen Elizabeth (unfinished cost)

£1,417,566; King George V., £1,778,-133; Ajax, £1,796,945; Queen Mary,

£1,959,797; Princess Royal, £1,967,-972; Tiger (unfinished cost), £1,462,-

Some return, however, is obtained from the sale of old ships. The Royal Oak fetched £36,450, the Royal Sovereign £40,000, and the Ramillies £42,300. Three submarines were sold for £410, £360 and £405 respective-

There are also some interesting figures given in the Blue Book conerning the new aerial service. During the year 1913-14 £244,294 was expended on airships, biplanes, mono-planes, and seaplanes. The airships under construction were Nos. 3 4, 5, 6, 7, 9 and 16, and the highest cost of any one ship was £32,444.
