

WEEK END NOTES.

(I. C. M.)

With this issue we come to the end of our notes for a while but later on we hope to resume our jottings and tell a few more stories. The encouragement which has been given the writer is sufficient guarantee that some little good has been accomplished by his work, and with the desire of doing further good he hopes to continue.

There are many questions that are worthy the columns of our press, and many happenings that give food for comment, and it is gratifying to know that our papers are so liberally assisted by independent correspondents who treat upon current topics. The press has done much for the welfare of the people, and it has championed their cause, and stood out for their rights, and the wholesome public opinion which now exists in our midst is largely due to the press. By wholesome public opinions, we do not mean anything like a one-sided or partisan policy—that cannot be wholesome, but we mean the free and independent thought of the times which rises above parties and which sees the public good as greater than a party. Such a spirit is one of the best assets of a people, and when it is strong and pure the standard of our public life will be the same.

The press is an important factor in creating public opinion, and the press, like a good many other agencies, is just what we the people make it. Every reader of the daily papers has some interest in the tone of the press, and if what is contributed be worthy the people then they should rally round and encourage the editors in their good work. Considering that we are a small population and our source of supply is not large, it is surprising that our dailies do so well as they really do; and that six times a week they cater to the public and keep so up-to-date.

It is with the object of helping the great work of the press that I have written so much and with the hope that some good has been accomplished for the common good, and our beloved country. Like other countries we now stand confronted with the serious conditions of war; and to make the best of the situation is the duty of every man who calls himself a Briton, and of every woman who enjoys the same heritage. This, we believe, is being done and when the records of the war are compiled and its history written it will be found that when danger and stress faced us we shrank not, nor faltered, but held our own and paid the price and did our best.

The writers of the future will have a wide field for research and they will find data for many a thrilling tale, and of many self-sacrificing efforts, and their work will reflect, however, upon the devotion of those who now endure the burdens of the war, and who bear its sorrow in their hearts. The tale could not be told now, the sorrow of ten thousand hearts is too keen, the feelings of ten thousand bosoms are too tender, and the hopes of ten thousand homes too sacred. It would be an intrusion to do so, but time will heal those wounds and then it will be in order to write more fully, and to speak more plainly upon the testing through which the world and the nations and our country are now passing.

Until this time comes let us be patient, and as our people have done so well and have displayed their loyalty to such a marked degree we can justly lay claim to our part in the rejoicing and jubilation of the future. With these thoughts we close our Week-End Notes. We have tried to do our best. We thank all who by word and letter helped us and when later on we again address them we trust that it will be under conditions of peace and continued prosperity.

Enthroned within thy prison, courage high,
Thou darrest threaten when thy pleas are vain;
Thy fearless phrases makes the issues plain.
And men unborn shall hear thy people's cry
Voiced with the force of Christian majesty
O noble pastor of a martyred flock!
Thy ringing words shall teach them not to mock
The conquered, who have taught us how to die!

Behind a rampart of live steel, which Might Hath built about thy countrymen, the foe
Fastens a quivering nation to the Cross.
Bold preacher of the Triumph of the Right,
Thou wilt not leave Thy Belgium in her woe,
And she has kept her Soul—and knows no loss.

The Governorship of New South Wales

We trust that the appointment, announced yesterday, of Sir Walter Davidson, hitherto Governor of Newfoundland, to be Governor of the State of New South Wales will mark the end of the friction that arose between the late Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, and the New South Wales Government. Few positions in the Imperial Service are more delicate than those held by the representatives of the Crown in the self-governing Dominions. Unfailing tact, a keen sense of proportion, savoir faire, and power of adapting means to ends are among the qualities indispensable to the public servants appointed to them. It cannot be said that during Sir Gerald Strickland's tenure of the Governorship of New South Wales he exhibited these qualities in the necessary degree. The record of Sir Walter Davidson in Newfoundland justifies, however, the belief that he will succeed in discharging his functions to the satisfaction of the New South Wales Government and of the Imperial authorities alike. The Governorship of Newfoundland is no sinecure; and it speaks well for the late Governor that the Prime Minister, Sir E. P. Morris, should strongly have deprecated his departure. In a sense, the anxiety of the Newfoundland Government to retain Sir Walter Davidson gives the measure of his fitness for his new post and of the services which it may enable him to render to the State of New South Wales and to the Imperial Government.—London Times Sept. 13.

Denial by Boot and Shoe Workers Union,

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Re the item appearing in last evening's Herald in connection with the Boot and Shoe Workers strike. The statement at the end of the article is misleading. In May last we applied for a small percentage to give men a living wage; that request was completely ignored. We may say that there was absolutely no exception taken to non-union men up to the present date.

A. & S. RODGER'S

Always Had Headaches.

Liver Was Torpid and Biliary Spells Brought Sick Headaches—Lost Much Time, But Is Now Completely Cured.

Newtown, N. B., October 6th.—Here is convincing evidence that however much you may suffer from liver trouble and consequent biliousness there is cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Over-eating is the most common cause of sluggish liver action. You lose your appetite, have distressing bilious spells, usually accompanied by headache and vomiting, the bowels become irregular, constipation and looseness alternate, digestion is upset and you get irritable and down-hearted.

No treatment so quickly awakens the action of the liver and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For this reason this medicine is wonderfully popular and has enormous sales.

Mr. Charles R. Tait, Newtown, N.B., writes: "I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and would often have to stop work for a day or two. I lost many a night's sleep every month with bilious headaches, and although I tried doctors' medicines, it was without success. When I had these headaches I would vomit, and could keep nothing on my stomach."

"I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills from G. M. Fairweather, Druggist of Sussex, N.B., and after taking one box I was so much relieved that I continued to take them until I am now completely cured. My advice to anyone is to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and be completely cured."

Mr. A. S. Mace, J.P., endorses the above statement and says: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Charles R. Tait, and believe his statement in every way to be true and correct."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint. Insist on getting what you ask for.

Salves Don't Cure Eczema.

Applied to skin diseases, medical men are now agreed on this: Eczema, the disease of the skin, is brought about by the use of greasy salves. These salves do not cure the disease, but they make it worse. The only cure for Eczema is a scientific antiseptic.

THE GERMS OUT.—D. D. Prescription is a new remedy which is becoming famous throughout Newfoundland and is a simple wash, containing a scientific antiseptic. It cures Eczema, Bad Leg, Ulcers, and all skin eruptions. It washes away the germs and destroys them, and heals the skin as it has ever done.

Day—this wash will cure. It is of D. D. Prescription. It is everywhere. Recognize the name. D. D. Prescription. T. McMurdo & Co., A. W. Connors, Peter O'Mara.
