Records Come After Interest

Of Team Is Johnson's Own Creed

By Walter Johnson.

In hanging out the many records chart you have made, particularly your effect at the you have made, particularly your ever given a thought to the fact while pitching?

PORT DOVER TIES CAYUGA

Records have never entered into my pitching in the slightest. That is as far as setually trying to create the record.

Nature endowed me with a great fast ball. I have simply pitched to the beat of my ability, and the records that fast ball. I have simply pitched to the beat of my ability, and the records that fast ball. I have simply pitched to the beat of my ability, and the records that has been standing for years, est such a happening as his goal.

The big thing is to always give your the my carry of the first period. The second was score to wan, regardless of how you pitch. I the first period. The second was score to be for your best for the your best for the way regardless of his chance to break some records.

No one at the ringside saw the blow strick. After the count he walked to the backward to the floor, taking the full count.

No one at the ringside saw the blow to the teams looked to be pretty much and the provided a real rough and tumble previoudance that the same has been standing to make a shary star that it did not travel most of the manner in which the match Norfolk was thit. However, all star mix with the Thistes, and with the first with the Thistes, and with the Thistes, and with the way the score went last.

Nature endowed me with a great fast ball. I have Less of my ability, and the records that a credited to me simply happened. It is all very nice to break some record that has been standing for years, but I don't think a pitcher should ever set such a happening as his goal.

The big thing is to always give your best efforts to your club. Try your best to win, regardless of how you pitch. I get a great deal more satisfaction winning a hall game 10 to 9, in which I have been hit hard, rather than losing a 1 to 0 affair, in which I have pitched well-nigh perfect ball.

Without any ego, I am positive that there have been two or three occasions furing my career where I might have moken the strike-out record had I one the limit to the very end. I recall one game in which I had 10 trike-outs in five innings. I was at my est. In the sixth inning my club got in a six-run lead and I eased up, geting only two strike-outs in the last our innings. In the final game of this year, when strike out two strike-outs in the last our innings. In the final game of this year, when strike out two strike-outs in the last our innings. Faber, who recently underwent an operation for the an injured knee, says the leg feels as an well as ever again. For several years lin his bad knee has affected his pitching an stride. Faber says he feels certain he will be able to get more stuff than ever on the ball. That will be bad news to American League batters.

Aside from piling up a record for consecutive games covering a period of six years, Scott has also produced another record for that period, by leading the short fielders in fielding for six consecutive years.

Scott, who is one of the most remarkable shortstops in the history of the game, also holds a few other records in the fielding line.

In 1919 Scott played 138 games and made only 17 errors. When one considers the importance of the shortstopp is called upon to the stands up year after year after year under the strain without the slightest semblance of a break.

In addition, Scott is a player who is constantly taking chances. No drive is too difficult for him to attempt to so easy that he is seldom given the receit that his work deserves.

A shortstop is called upon to make in possible for him to perform when less more touch plays than any other player would make such plays and escape linjury.

Of course, Scott is not invulnerable. He is often injured, but his love of the game and old determination make it possible for him to perform when less more touch plays than any other player would be under a doctor's care.

A shortstop is called upon to make the fielder handling player in more ways than one.
