ST. ANN'S JUBILEE TO BE HELD THIS MONTH

Some Interesting Episodes of Pioneer Days from the Convent Archives

June 25, 27 and 28 will mark the jubilee of the founding of St. Ann's convent school in Victoria, an institution which has grown from a small log shack to the present imposing structure on Humboldt street, during which time a great many of Victoria's ladies have been educated there, regardless of religious beliefs. The celebration of the jubilee of the school has been taken up with enthusiasm by the old pupils who have formed themselves into committees for the better management of the arrangements.

While the old pupils of the convent have naturally taken the initiative in organizing the celebration, the sisters wish it to be distinctly understood that all citizens of Victoria will be welcomed both at the celebration and in helping to make the affair a success by assisting in the planning. The management of the school is proud of the position which it deservedly occupies as a Victorian institution during pioneer times, and they want to see all their friends, irrespective of past affiliation with the school or religious belief. In this connection the old pupils who have not already done so are requested to send in their addresses to the convent.

As at present outlined, the celebration will start by commemorative exercises at Institute hall on the evening of Friday, June 26, to which all are invited. On Saturday afternoon there will be a public reception at the academy, during which refreshments will be served in the grounds. The reception will be from 3 to 6, and will be continued during the evening until 10. On Sunday there will be a high mass of thanksgiving at St. Andrew's cathedral, with a special sermon on the event.

One of the features of St. Ann's academy is the archives, which contain carefully written and detailed accounts of everything that has occurred which affects the convent since the date of its foundation. The system of accounts printed two articles embodying extracts from these, and following will be found a list of the contents of the most interesting anecdotes illustrative of the bygone days of the pioneer.

Annals of Sts. Anne Resuming the topic of the history of St. Ann's convent in its early days, the records in the annals, kept throughout the past fifty years, are as interesting as they are valuable. The first unusual incident in 1858 was the details of an earthquake which occurred during that year. The event caused more than momentary consternation, and not only among the nuns, but among the population, for the adults were equally disturbed. After the trembling of the earth, a severe thunder storm set in, and peals of loud thunder rent the air for several hours. No real damage was done, it is recorded, but every one lived in fear and trembling for several days after the shock and storm.

Setting a Raffle Passing over many little items of record all of which refer to the inner workings of the school itself, at the time, we come to an item of real pioneer-life atmosphere. It is the summary of an unique procedure. The record finds place in the annals of the cloister for one reason alone, viz., the system of tickets drawn at the time. The event caused more than momentary consternation, and not only among the nuns, but among the population, for the adults were equally disturbed.

Royal Application. During the eighth of the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne visited Victoria. The files of the old city papers give lengthy accounts of the visit, and the system of tickets drawn at the time. The event caused more than momentary consternation, and not only among the nuns, but among the population, for the adults were equally disturbed.

What the object of the raffle (a horse) be sold immediately and the proceeds given to an institution of charity within the city. The contestants made no appeal, and the proceeds were delivered by the court to the only orphanage in the city. The sisters were unaware of the case existing, and now feared to be involved in consequence, but the good hearted miners were satisfied and the donation proved a blessing to the orphanage then in a struggling existence.

Amongst the newspaper cuttings preserved in the convent is an interesting appeal on the orphan's behalf, which was published in the Victoria Standard in the house of assembly. Mr. Cosmos' brief but strong address on the same subject is the highest education for women, which marked the latter years of the last century, touched St. Ann's in the year 1880, when the school was founded. The school was founded in 1880, when the school was founded. The school was founded in 1880, when the school was founded.

Girls Defy Governor. In 1888, the Sisterhood having received reinforcements from the chief house of the order, the request of the New Westminster people for a convent school was granted, and, with this event, there came into discussion the necessity of incorporation for the Sisterhood of the province. Application was made in due form to the House of Assembly, but for some inconceivable reason the late Governor Seymour was unable to decide the matter. The bill or petition went to England, but the legal representative for the Sisterhood never received any further news of the petition.

TORPEDO EXPERIMENT Old Monitor Florida Used in Testing Destructive Power—Great Hole Torn in Side Norfolk, Va., June 13.—The monitor Florida was used in testing the power of a torpedo today. Upon arrival at the navy yard the Florida was immediately run into the big stone dry-dock and the water pumped out, in order that a close examination of the damage done by the torpedo might be definitely seen. This examination showed that a clean hole, extending from the superstructure to the bottom of the hull, had been made, and that it was 20 feet in length. The destructive power of the torpedo was the marvel of the examining officers.

It was the opinion of experts that the hole in the hull would have been made in a few minutes at the most, and that with it the ship could have easily been kept afloat indefinitely with the occasional use of the pumps.

CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Doctor on Allan Liner Induces Engaged Misses to Wed

Montreal, June 13.—Dr. Fred G. Ackland, under arrest in London, England, on the charge of bigamy having married Betty Florence Gertrude Satchell in Montreal, while he was already a married man, was surgeon on the Allan liner Pomerania. The young lady lived in London, England, and was engaged to be married to an Englishman living in Manitoba. This discarded lover sent her $500 with which to buy her trousseau and pay her fare from London to Winnipeg. She had about $400 of this amount when she boarded the Pomerania. The steamer landed here on Saturday, and a large party of the passengers took place in St. George's church. As soon as the young woman's name was gone, Ackland fled to the United States, and his arrest followed.

MAKE OVERTURES OF PEACE TO COUNCIL

But South Saanich Will Not Listen to Messrs. McFadden and Mould

(From Sunday's Daily) From communication which was read at the regular fortnightly meeting of the municipal council at South Saanich last evening, it appears that one of the chief troubles of that body is about to be amicably settled, or at least, if the council sees fit to do so, Messrs. McFadden and Mould, concerning whose action in the slaughterhouse on Lot 77, Lake District, the council expressed a vehement objection and is now proposing to take legal action to prevent that company from continuing there, have sent an explanation of their action to the effect that they are willing to honor the council's wishes, and to advise the slaughterhouse, but in the meantime it is necessary to have such a plan. The firm states that it did not wish to erect a slaughterhouse on the present site, but was forced to operate elsewhere.
