THE RICHEST DENTIST IN THE WORLD
How the American Doctor Evans Gained Wealth and Honors From the London Frack.
Dr Evans hails from Philadelphia. He is of Welsh extraction, and belongs to a family half Quaker, half Methodist, who were well-respected folks in the city founded by Penn.
Dr. Evans became a dentist, and took a wife whom he was very young man. He came to Europe to assist his countryman, Brewster, who had been asked to look after the teeth of the prince-president, and had more business than he could well attend to. Evans was an extremely handsome and well-made little man. His features, though large, were not neatly on almost to give them a pretty character. An English tailor dressed him in the best style. He always in the daytime looked the man of business, although it was easy to see that he was used to rub shoulders with the foremost personages of the world.
A tincture of American independence ran through his quiet manner. In smiling, he showed, as if unintentionally—and it may be said to have been a habit—and it was not more than a white and even set of teeth. A small and nicely-shaped hand manipulated instruments of torture with firm determination, and with a gentlemanly kindness in the manner, and with something in the face which expressed an obliging disposition. Soon after the outbreak of the war, Brewster sold his business to Dr. Evans. It included a virtual monopoly of court practice, which, as the new emperor was omnipotent, soon brought a throng of patients to the office at the Rue de la Paix. It had got out that Evans was in high favor at the Tuileries. The emperor, who hated Jews, and dreaded being in high favor with Josephine, his mother and grandmother, prematurely toothless, liked his dentist's quiet and civil way of discharging his morning duties.
The doctor attended daily when in Paris at 8 a.m., at the emperor's toilet, and then proceeded to the dressing room of the empress. Eugenie, poor French woman, had a facility, but never like a well educated mentally crippled woman, who had been in the hands of her inebriated husband, and therefore agreed to let her to chat in English—a tongue of which she was quite mistress—about the news of the town and the court, and about the court, with an air of truthfulness that was refreshing to ears tired of flattery. He also treated the teeth of the empress, and she was very kind to him, and they were pearls of great price, and kept them for seventeen years in excellent condition.
Napoleon III, was on the throne, unable to give up his carnal habits, which he pursued through. For instance when the czar had a bad tooth and sent Evans, his brother, King Leopold, the queen of Holland, Prince Metternich and Nigra were all sent to find out what was brewing at St. Petersburg. The fortunate dentist's account of the revelations he had made, and the capitals to royal teeth. Unwittingly he had done so. He had studied anatomy, and studied snuff boxes, rings, pins and valuable furs.
Evans' success was in many an instance pushed so far as to send him to London, a royal or imperial patient, excited expressly for him. The empress then (Queen Eugenie) did not send him to London, but she gave the doctor two superb Dresden vases, with painted views on them of the Potsdam Schloss and Stolzenfels. The doctor has every kind of decoration except the insignia of the English and Prussian orders and the golden fleece.
Under the emperor's Evans remained a citizen of the United States, and he was an American in feeling. During the civil war he went in strongly for the North. Thurlow Weed, to whom Evans was a friend, and his charming daughter, took care to secure the operation at the Tuileries of Evans. The dentist had a quick eye to take the emperor, whose resolution he increased when the court, interested in the doctor's affairs, wanted the blockade of the Southern ports to be lifted, and where Evans was the only faniliar of the imperial couple who acted in a brave and courageous manner. On September 4 the empress was deserted by all the high members of the household and the high functionaries. Even her cousin, M. de Lesseps, who had been in the emperor's confidence, and where his counsel which was not heeded, but which owed the success of the Suez canal to her, did not remain at her side. In her desolation she thought, when she quitted the Tuileries the Italian minister put her and Mme. Lebreton into a cab, of driving to the house of Dr. Evans. The ride was a happy one. Her majesty arrived in her dressing gown. Mrs. Evans was at the seaside; the doctor was out.
When he returned, he saw the fugitives had not been recognized, and treated her as if she had been driven by an aching tooth to call upon him at his private residence. The doctor's wife, who had been forced to obtain a change of raiment for the empress, who, with her lady, was taken by the doctor in his own carriage to the Norman coast. A good friend in adversity to the imperial couple, Evans had, when they were triumphant, the courage to give them wholesome but unpalatable advice. He was a thoroughly able organization of the Prussian army, he again and again warned the emperor and empress that in going to war with Germany they would court ruin. The empress probably remembered this advice when she was sitting in his house awaiting his return home.
American Millionaires.
From the New York Sun.
It is a sorrowful paradox that the free republic of America, the home of labor and the land of promise to the oppressed of all nations should head the world in monopolies. What other nation on the face of the globe can show a list like this:
Vanderbilt.....$200,000,000
Carnegie.....100,000,000
Stanford.....10,000,000
Huntington.....10,000,000

Thirteen men thus own $500,000,000.
An Egg Problem.
There is an egg problem which is said to be very afflicting to the small mathematicians of neighboring cities. Here it is: Two men enter a grocery with 50 eggs each. The groceryman agrees to pay one at the rate of 1 cent for 2 eggs, and the other 1 cent for 3 eggs, which is 2 cents for every 5 eggs. It is also agreed that they will sell these eggs at the rate of 1 cent for 10 cents for his eggs and the other 10 cents for his eggs. A third man comes in for eggs and the groceryman says, "I will sell these eggs at the rate of 1 cent for 10 cents, that is, 1 cent for 2 eggs." They were sold, and it is plain that they only brought 24 cents. The groceryman will get 1 cent in the transaction. How does this occur?

A Praiseworthy object.
"None name it but to praise." This is true of that unsurpassed remedy, "Hag-Hammer," which cures pain and inflammation, whether from sprain, burn, bruise or frost bite, lame back, rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat, cough, deafness, and is for internal and external use.
Hence these things do they cry so much as "Hag-Hammer" do they cry little by at the theatre, referring to the actors on the stage. "Because they see so many dead men in the audience," replied the editor, scowling at the rival editor in the next row.
The laws of the Medes and Persians were not more immutable than those of nature. If we transgress them we suffer. Some are more heinous, however, we break them inadvertently. Diseases frequently take the form of Dyspepsia, indigestion and Bilethemia, which can be easily repaired with Nutritional and Lymann's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, the Great Blood Purifier and renovator of the system.
A loving couple in Iowa were, says the local chronicler, separated by "a cold cloud of frozen rain." It is evident that it was not the harsh question that disturbed them. However cold or frozen had been, it has never been described as a real sin.
A Secret for the ladies.
The great secret of beauty is pure blood. Eruptions and all blotches that disfigure the face may be quickly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. Annie Heath of Portland certifies that she was cured by this remedy after suffering for two years.
A facetious boy asked one of his playmates how a hardware dealer differed from a bootmaker. The latter, somewhat puzzled, said he did not know. "Why," said the other, "because one sold the nails and the other nailed the soles."
Mr. T. C. Burchard, public school teacher, Norfolk, Virginia, writes: "During the fall of 1881 I was much troubled with Bilethemia and Dyspepsia, and part of the time was unable to attend to the duties of my profession. Northrop & Lymann's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure was recommended to me, and I have much pleasure in saying one bottle. I have not had a return of my ailment since, and have gained fifteen pounds in weight."
"You sat up until 11 o'clock last night?" "Yes, father. Well, haven't I told you that I wouldn't permit any young man to remain in my house after 10?" "You were late, father, but last night I was trying the Henry V. kite."
A Wonderful Change.
Rev. W. E. Gifford, white pastor of M. E. church, Bedford, suffered from chronic dyspepsia so badly as to render life almost a torment. Three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him.
By the aid of a telephone a banjo player was heard twenty-five miles. There is a great advantage in having an audience at this distance. If the music is intensely pleasing, the listeners are not aware of the distance. Evans' rills won't carry twenty-five miles.
Mr. James A. Anlow, Newcastle, N. B., writes: "Mrs. Anlow was troubled with rheumatism, and until she took Northrop & Lymann's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda had little or no appetite; but after taking a bottle of the two she gained appetite and had a relish for food, which was quite a help to her in keeping up against the disease. As we are out of your aid cannot procure any here, she is taking another Emulsion; but as she prefers your preparation to any in the market, I will kindly ship you some at once and oblige."
Mrs. B. came to town last week from Louisiana on an excursion, and when she asked why she was in such a hurry to leave she replied, "I've got to go; you see how low ticket prices are."
This is reliable.
R. N. Wheeler, merchant of Everton, was cured of a severe attack of inflammation of the lungs by Hygiena's Pectoral Balm. This great throat and lung healer cures weak lungs, coughs, bronchitis, and all chest complaints.
The female correspondents at Washington city have organized a press club. The members desire to distinctly understand that the organization is not to embrace males. The males will experience a sense of relief at the announcement.
"All ladies who may be troubled with nervous prostration, who suffer from irritability, who have a sense of weariness and a feeling of lassitude; who are languid in the morning; in whom the appetite for food is capricious and sleep proper hours, uncertain, should have recourse to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."
The crippled beggar receives no sympathy from Mr. J. of this city, who always replies to an appeal—"A lame excuse, sir; a lame excuse."
Popularity.
Why they are popular. The reason that National Pills are so universally popular is because they are certain in their action, mild and painless in their operation, and never leave the bowels constipated. They are sugar coated and contain no poison.
Some men who swore off drinking at the first of the year haven't weakened yet, they'll find Nixen weak before the week is out.
G. A. Dixon, Franklin, Ont., says: "I was cured of chronic bronchitis that had troubled him for seven years, by the use of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil."
First small girl—"I know what I'm going to be when I grow up." Second ditto—"What are you going to be when you grow up?" First small girl—"A widder."
A Remarkable Fact.
It is a remarkable fact that W. A. Edgers, of Franklin, who was so far gone with liver and kidney complaint that his life was despaired of, was cured with bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. At one time he lay a fortnight without an operation of the bowels.
"Ma, don't you remember that one day, a few years ago, you crooned?" "Yes, my dear, I have a faint recollection of it."
A. B. De Rocher, Archambaultville, P. Q., writes: "Thirteen years ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism in the hand, from which I nearly constantly suffered until after having used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for nine days, losing the use of the hand, when I was completely cured and have only used half a bottle."
