Paddy Ryan, being interviewed relative to Sullivan, said: "'His lungs were never strong, as was shown in his battle with me at Mississippi City If I had been in even ordinary condition that day I could have beaten him easily. In the seventh round he was gasping for breath, and but for my physical disability which rendered me perfectly heiplass the game would have terminated differently." Then, after a moment's thoughtful hesitation, he added: "I am-honestly sorry if the report is true, for two reasons. One is that I sympathise with him in his illness, and the other is that I have always felt that I w nid some day meet him in the ring again and prove to the public that my failure in Mississippi City was due, as reported to my hernia and poor physical condition; in other words, Sullivan was never a bet er man than I at his best."

It may be doubted whether any domesticated animals have a much better time than those heavy cream-colored beats which, when the queen used to ipen and close parliament, did duty twice a year in irawing the state coach, but have since enjoyed an beolute singular. They are a representative of the open and close parimanen, and any terson year in drawing the state coach, but have since enjoyed an absolute sinccure. They are a representative of the animals which in the days when gais carriages were so frightfully heavy were in demand. A chronicle of 1762 records that "William Beckford, Erq. (father of the virtuoes author) purchased the fine set of Flanders mares lately belonging to Mr. Boreel, ambassador of the States General, to draw the state coach during his mayoralty." The heavy, high-stepping London carriage horses of to-day are chiefly from the Cleveland district of Yorkshire, where they are specially bree for the London market. They are quite unsuited for work in a hilly country.

Detroit to San Francisco. DETROIT, May 2-Yesterday at Paw-Paw, Mich., an immense crowd witnessed the departure of Mrs. May E. Jones, the world's champion female pedestrian, on her long walk to San Francisco, which she expects to reach on Sept. 1, lecturing on her way. She does this to show what woman can do for the elevation of her sex.

(To the Sporting Editor of the World.) Sin: I see it is announced in the Mail that the Canadian association of amateur oarsman are going to give $ 00 towards the annual regatta at O:tawa. May I ask how the association obtained such a handsome balance. If they really have such a sum in hand I think a re-issue of their by-laws and constitution would be in order.

were conversing yesterday in regard to turf matters in general, when the subject of a meeting between Maud S. and St. Juli.n was broached. Nei.her believed there was a pessibility of their being Jrought together, but said Capt. Stone: "I'll tell you that it would, pay a man to buy Maud, if such a thing could be doffe, and arrange a series of races between the two. Suppose there were three contests—one, mile heats in harness: another, mile heats to wagon, and a third two-mile heats, all trotted in different cities. Why, it would be worth $300,000 to the owners of why, it would be worth $300,000 to the owners of those great fivers. Every lover of horse-ficsh from Maine to California would go hundreds of miles to witness such a match, as it would be the greatest battle the sountry ever saw. Thousands of people alone would come from the glorious climate, as they believe over there that St. Julien is about as fast as they make them."

Mr. Hall acquieseed in all this, and said that Chicago slone would give a sum that he could not at present estimate. "I know that if they met all records would be knocked sky high, and that it would be years before such a turf event would be looked upon in America. One could not aggregate them trot."

Mr. Sullivan thought that the only possible way the two could ever be matched would be by st.

with the two contexts and a mixture, and the context of the professional properties over there that St. Julien is about as fast whey make then seed in all this, and said that chief were the the step with the three out of the context of the contex
