Ritualism continues as bold and obtrusive as ever. It is expected that a number of Ritualistic clergymen will go to Kome to the Council and ask the Pope to receive them there.

The following are the latest statistics of the English Presbyterian Church: communicants, 22,000; income for congregational purposes, £38,000; total receipts, £65,000; congregations 120. The Church has a vigorous mission to the Jews, besides a mission to China.

The Protestants of Germany are to hold a General Conference in autumn, as an offset to the Pope's great Council.

In Brazil where the Roman Catholics carried on a keen persecution last year, the Protestants have peace, under the protection of the supreme government.

The negotiations for Union, as far as the Committees were concerned, concluded harmoniously and satisfactorily some weeks ago. Much anxiety will be felt to learn the course to be taken by the supreme courts.
