

Educational Weekly

Vol. I.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1885.

Number 4.

About three months ago the publishers of THE SCHOOL SUPPLEMENT offered Six Hundred Dollars in prizes for the best sets of examples in Arithmetic—the whole subject having been divided into convenient departments. This offer was made known to about a quarter of a million teachers. Bundles of Arithmetic manuscript came to hand from all parts of the world. Never before was there such a great educational competition. Never before did any one publishing house have at its disposal such a grand collection of Arithmetic examples. The cream of these is now embodied in the book announced below.

READY FOR MAILING FEBRUARY 2nd, 1885.

AND REPRESENTING

The United States and Canada, England, Scotland, Ireland, Australia and India.

THE PLAN.—The plan of the work is novel and original. It is especially adapted to the requirements of American and Canadian teachers and schools.

3,000 EXAMPLES.—“The New Arithmetic” contains over 3,000 of the best examples received. Every example is new, sensible and practical. There is not a single poor example or problem in the book.

THE GRADING.—Every teacher of arithmetic will be delighted with the method of grading. The book contains most valuable work for every grade of pupil from the primary school to the university.

NEW METHODS.—In addition to the new examples and problems, there are many new methods explained, the greater number of which have never before appeared in any Arithmetic.

ORIGINALITY.—Teachers will find in the whole collection something better than the old-time hackneyed examples which have been copied from one book to another for centuries.

THE BEST WAY TO SECURE A COPY.

Although the expense of preparing this book has been something enormous, yet the publishers are determined to carry out their original plan, and mail a copy FREE to every subscriber to their paper—THE SCHOOL SUPPLEMENT—on the day of publication. The price of the paper is ONE DOLLAR a year.

DON'T MAKE ANY MISTAKE.

ONE DOLLAR pays for THE SCHOOL SUPPLEMENT for one year and for one copy of THE NEW ARITHMETIC. The paper will be mailed at once and the book will be forwarded post free on February 2nd.
