The March Canadian Magazine is a memorial issue with several new pictures of the Queen, handsome plates of the new King and the new Queen, and other portraits and photographs of historical and present value. Dr. Parkin, C. M. G., writes of "Victoria and the Victorian Age." The Hon. G. W. Ross, premier of Ontario, summarizes in a short article the "Growth of the British Empire." Prof. Clark, D. C. L., writes of "The Death of the Queen." Arthur H. A. Colquhoun of "The Queen's Prime Ministers," and Richard T. Lancelot of "The Prince of Wales' Visit to Canada." E. J. Toker, of the census staff of 1891, gives some interesting reminiscences under the title "How a Census is Taken." Among the lighter articles are "A Honey-Moon in a Sailing Dinghy," and short stories by W. A. Fraser, Esther Talbot Kingsmill and Harold J. Temple Hill. Every article, story and poem in the number is written by a Canadian. The cover in black and purple is suitable to the occasion and is perhaps the only cover of a Canadian periodical to be printed in the royal mourning colors.

"Has Mr. Goodcatch been to see you lately?" asked the girl in the pale blue taffeta silk waist.

"Not since a week ago last night," replied the girl in pink. "He said our parlor was so brilliantly lighted it hurt his eyes."

"And didn't you tell him to turn down the gas?"

"No, I didn't think of that."

"Well, that's precisely where you dropped your watermelon."—Chicago Tribune.

"Yes, I consider my life a failure."

"Oh, Henry, how sad! Why should you say that?"

"I spend all my time making money enough to buy food and clothes, and the food disagrees with me and my clothes don't fit."—Life.

"Did you see much of that old party?" said one highwayman to another.

"Got all he has," was the reply.

"That is right. He who is worth doing at all is worth doing well."—Detroit Free Press.

"Tell me," said the poor church mouse, "how is it that you're always so chipper? Nothing ever seems to worry you?"

"Well," replied the squirrel, scratching his tail until the end of it brushed the top of his head, "you see, I never have any trouble in making both ends meet."—Philadelphia Press.
