FINANCIALLY EMBARRASSED.

"AND are you really so badly broke, my friend?" he said, as he tendered the tramp a penny.

"I'm as badly broke as the ten commandments."

"Well, that means a good deal in New York," and he shelled out a quarter.

SHE WANTED HIM TO SMOKE.

"HAS she no pride, no self-respect? How can she permit that fellow to smoke while they are promenading on Fifth Avenue?"

"Oh, that's Charlie Vanderchump, and she's afraid people wouldn't know it was a man."

STILL UNSETTLED.

FACETIOUS FRIEND—"Well, have you and our wife yet settled as to who is speaker of the house?"

YOUNG HUSBAND—"Not yet. We usually occupy the chair together."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE REASON WHY.

"WHY, Alphonso," said the wife, as she found her husband in the hall strapping up the family umbrellas as if he were about to depart on a journey, "certainly you are not going to take all those down town?"

"Marguerita," he responded firmly, "have you forgotten that this afternoon you give a five o'clock tea?"

"But, Alfie, my guests would never steal—"

"Steal! Who said they would? No, but they would recognize the initials on the handles."—Town Topics.

JUST THE MAN.

BUNKER—"Since I have moved upon the top floor I've struck one of the best tailors I ever had."

HILL—"What are his good points?"

BUNKER—"He is so lame he can't climb."—Clothier and Furnisher.

SOMEWHAT DISCOURAGED.

AFFECTIONATE RELATIVE—"Why do you sit so far off, Cousin Jennie? Come over here on the sofa and sit alongside of me."

COUSIN JENNIE—"I'm thinking that for a distant relative you are near enough already."

NEEDED A SECOND EDITION.

POOLE—"They postponed the races at Gutterberg to-day, on account of the condition of the track."

ROOME—"Was it much worse than usual?"

POOLE—"It was so good they feared it would spoil the jobs they had put up."—Puck.

TOO CLOSE.

DESMITH—"So the Kelly-Brown match is broken off, is it?"

MCGINNIS—"Yes. The Browns objected to Kelly being so darned economical."

"You astonish me."

"Yes! he sent circulars to all the ministers in town asking for their lowest matrimonial terms, and old Brown kicked."
