

in these vital areas of human concern. For this reason the Canadian Government has lent its full support to efforts by the Red Cross to go further than has heretofore been possible in building a system of legal as well as moral standards of humanitarian behaviour. The Government is extremely gratified at the success achieved at the Istanbul Red Cross Conference, and pledges to do its utmost in following up the decisions reached last week with continued support and concrete action.