

many are present the animal loses condition, gets pot-bellied, has a rough coat, capricious appetite, shows a tendency to eat dirt, with occasionally a colic or diarrhoea, and presence of worms in the dung. The riddance

STOMACH OF A HORSE.
G.—The gullet (esophagus).

of a horse of these parasites is not very difficult if a thorough effort is made to dislodge them, in order to get the best effects the animal should be starved before giving the drugs, which may be as follows:

Tartar emetic.....	$\frac{1}{2}$ drachm,
Copperas.....	$\frac{1}{2}$ drachm,