MALCOLM, KERR AND MACGOWAN WILL TURN OUT FOR TROJANS

TEAM WILL BE STRENGTHENED IN GAMES HERE

Will Have Heavy Scrim and Expect to Win Against Moncton and Mt. A.

ALTHOUGH the other teams in the New Brunswick Rugby league have been tramping to a greater or lesser extent on the local Trojans, it does not necessarily mean that the games here with the Moncton and Mount Allison pigskin chasers will be a walkover for the visitors, as it was announced this morning by Walter Guiding, manager of the local boys, that his team would be very much strengthened for the two league games to be played here on Saturday and Monday next.

One man who is expected to add much strength to the team is "Beet" Malcolm, who has been prevailed upon to turn out and help the Trojans win at least one game. "Beet" will appear in either the scrim or three-quarter line, and no doubt will make his presence felt. Another who will turn out is "Les" Kerr, well known local athlete, who also is a strong heavy man. Allan MacGowan, a well known local player, is a third who is expected to participate and keep the Orange and Black in the race. In fact, the team will put a strong line-up on the field on both Saturday, when they play Mount Allison, and on Thanksgiving Day, when they meet the Moncton team. It was said that the Trojans would have a scrim that would average 180 pounds and that it would take a mighty good team to push it around.

MAY PLAY CANUCKS

The Trojans also are anxious to meet the Canucks, leaders of the City league. A meeting between these teams would be interesting, as the Canucks would give the Trojans a hard fight if they met. Arrangements are under way to bring these teams together, and it is expected that they will clash in the near future, probably on Saturday, November 13.

PLYLE CONTRADICTS VERSION OF TILDEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—"Big Bill" Tilden's version of why he didn't turn professional this year doesn't agree with that of C. C. Pyle. According to the promoter's decision, Pyle refused to double a "substantial offer" made by the former champion.

"Big Bill" he rejected the offer after Pyle had doubled it because he (Tilden) preferred to stay amateur and try to win back his laurels. Pyle further avers that he turned down an earlier suggestion to lend financial aid to Tilden's dramatic venture.

Gibson Will Lead Kaplan

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

DONIE BUSH has been named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. . . . We haven't heard yet whether he signed a non-exclusive clause or not.

MR. BUSH will have to be mighty careful where Poppa Clarke sits on the players' bench next summer. . . . It might be advisable for him to get Poppa a nice velvet plush cushion, a reading lamp and a reserved section.

THE Pirates lost the championship last summer because some of the boys objected to Poppa sitting on the bench and making nasty cracks about the misplaced credence in their athletic doings.

ACTING as spokesmen for the conscientious objectors, Max Carey, the offside evangelist, told Poppa to dust off his toupee, braid his beard, try a new lumbago cure and pipe down.

AS A DIRECT and comical record, Signor Carey was exiled to portridge diet and denied the privilege of listening to Giddy and Dusty.

BACK in the old days, when Bill Bryan was just beginning to break into the headlines and folks were beginning to think that young Harry Thaw never would amount to much, Poppa Clarke used to be the queen's ankle.

ONCE you've slept in the presidential suite, it's hard to get used to a cotton mattress in a flop house.

POPPA CLARKE wouldn't let any of the 1926 Pirates forget that he used to be a roaring cannon on the Gettysburg front, and a sure catch of a flyball when first bounce into rebuffs was out.

THAT was in the days when the well-tailored Continentals in bleachers gurgled: "Get from behind those lace curtains, Felix, we know you!"

THE good Poppa evidently wants to win back his laurels. Pyle further avers that he turned down an earlier suggestion to lend financial aid to Tilden's dramatic venture.

AT ANY rate, managing the well-tailored Continentals in bleachers gurgled: "Get from behind those lace curtains, Felix, we know you!"

STEVE DECATUR wanted his country right or wrong, but Poppa Clarke evidently wants his yesses both ways, in the order named.

RIGHT SWING PROVES HANDY

Punch to Jaw Gets Back $182 for Gorgous Georges

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Georges Carpentier just missed being the victim of a confidence man a few days ago in a Paris bar, but he got his own back up and landed a right-hand swing to the chin of the would-be defrauder before he called a policeman and collected his money back.

Georges was fairly taken in by an elegant young man who claimed half a dozen mutual acquaintances. There was talk of big business and an invitation to dinner.

On the way the young man had a payment to make and, being just a little short touched Georges for $182. They drove to the Crillon Hotel, where the young man was staying.

Georges would be so patient as to wait in the cab, his host would refill his pocketbook.

But Georges did not wait in the cab. He got out and walked to the corner of the Place de la Concorde just in time to see his young friend slipping out by a door of the hotel into rue Boissy d'Anglais.

Georges can still run and he is not above fighting for $182. He caught his man in a snappy way and just to teach him better manners and to prevent any kind of trouble gave him one to the jaw. Then he called a policeman, explained that it was not his usual habit to fight in the street, and asked the man of the law to search the pockets of his victim. Thereupon the "don" was promptly repaid.

Harry Persson Loses On Foul To Gorman

BRET HARTE STORY

The Idyl of Red Gulch Seen in Film at Gaiety Theatre

Bret Harte's famous story, "The Idyl of Red Gulch," recently screened for Harry Carey's eye as star, was shown at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday under the title of "The Man From Red Gulch." It created a splendid impression because of its beauty, charm and thrill. Mr. Carey is seen as Sandy, a gold miner, whose life is devoted to bringing to justice the murderer of his brother. That in this process he should meet and win the love of a charming woman, portrayed by Harriet Hammond, is quite logical. The production is in every respect a delightful one.

The supporting players, notably Mark Hamilton, Frank Campana, Lee Shumway, Lloyd Lloyd and Frank Norcross, acquitted themselves artistically. The picture is well worth seeing.

BOTH CONFIDENT OF FIGHT RESULT

Barber and Donovan Will Both Be Under Weight Limit of 126 Pounds

George Barber, who arrived in Saint John yesterday for his fight tonight with Louis Donovan, said today that he was in first-class shape and would scale 124 pounds this afternoon when the boys weigh in. It was rumored about town that Donovan was over weight, it being said that 130 pounds was the best he could make. When asked this morning regarding his weight, Louis said that his best fighting weight was about 124 pounds, and he expected to scale 125½ when he weighed in. The articles call for a weight of 126 pounds. Barber, in conversation with a Times reporter, said that he was willing to concede a couple of pounds if necessary. He appeared confident of the outcome and will not have any kick regarding his handling while in the ring, as Harry Day, the local trainer, has been engaged to look after his interests.
