Douglas C. Barnard said he had seen the defendant early in August of this year. He had gone to Mr. Rand for optical treatment. He had received none because Mr. Rand had told him he could get lenses in the company. There had been optical instruments there. To Mr. Porter he said he had given evidence before the council at the request of Mr. Boyaner or Mr. Goldfeather. He told them that Mr. Rand had refused to do business with him. William G. Stears, optometrist, said he had been present at the hearing before the council. He had seen prescriptions given by Mr. Rand and filled. This was before August 2. To Mr. Porter he said he had laid charges against Mr. Rand, but did not think it was as far back as May. He had met Mr. Barnard early in August. The meeting had been incidental. He had not asked Mr. Barnard to go to Mr. Rand's office. The case was postponed until Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

CHARGE HOTEL LAW VIOLATED

George Galbraith Proceeded
Against in Police Court—
Dog Case Postponed.

George Galbraith was charged this morning in the police court, with being the keeper of a lodging house at King street, acquired by law. He said he knew of people who had stayed there without registering. He had met Roy Doherty in Union street this morning and he had said he had the key of the Empress house.

To Mr. Barry he said a man named Canty had stayed there without registering. He had not inspected any other lodging house register. Canty was the only man he had personal knowledge of. The register was produced.

Policeman Coughlan corroborated the previous evidence with reference to going to the hotel. He had been to the hotel previously on a liquor raid. Some time ago he had seen a man and woman going into the hotel about a cord which opened the door. He noticed one entry in the register, "Sullivan, City." He remarked it to the accused, who merely laughed.

Roy Doherty said he roomed at the Empress house. He was a steamship clerk. He had been staying there since May 10. John Ryan had been in there but had never stayed there. Canty had stayed there two nights recently. He had been registered. Frank O'Neill had stayed there over night more than once.

The case was postponed until Monday at two o'clock.

The case in which Galbraith is charged with throwing a dog from a window was postponed until Monday afternoon at 2.30.

TWO FOR ST. JOHN ON MONTCALM

C. P. Steamship Brings 1012
to Quebec

Some Children for Catholic Home and House Servants for Winnipeg—Chief Justice Mathers Speaks of Conditions in Germany.

Quebec, Oct. 14.—The Canadian Pacific 16-000-ton liner, Capt. W. Rennie, O. B. R., from Liverpool, with 1012 passengers, docked at Quebec yesterday morning. The majority of passengers in both classes were returned Canadians. Among the new settlers in the third class were sixteen children for the St. Joseph's Catholic Home in Ottawa, and thirty house servants who came out under the auspices of the Salvation Army and are destined for Winnipeg.

Among the cabin passengers were Lady B. MacMaster, widow of Sir Donald MacMaster, Major Hopburn, who brought to Canada the body of the late A. W. Hepburn, who died in England; Capt. M. W. Flinnett of Toronto, promoter of the Dumbells Theatrical Company; Chief Justice Mathers of Winnipeg, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Mathers, returning after a three months' holiday tour of Europe, and Miss Helen Downey and Miss R. MacCormack of St. John.

Chief Justice Mathers said he spent most of his time on a visit to his brother-in-law, R. D. Wall, former mayor of Winnipeg and now British commissioner in the Saar Valley. Speaking of Germany, he said that everybody was working in that country. There were business activities everywhere, but owing to the depression of the market, Germany, generally speaking, was badly handicapped. For instance, the mark was continually depreciating, and while Germany had to sell her goods for export and be paid for them in marks, she had to pay for her raw material in gold or the value in dollars.

This phase of the situation had the effect of demoralizing industrial conditions in Germany, for the reason that the German manufacturers and commercial interests generally could never tell where they were to account of their terrible handicap in rate of exchange.

M. Justice Mathers said his brother-in-law and his associates were doing excellent work in the Saar Valley. The commission was obliged in their administration to take account of the well as distribute food to the poor. The French owned the Saar Valley coal mines and paid the German laborers in these mines twenty francs a day. At the time the franc was four times the value of the mark, and they lived in opulence while the German laborer employed by the German industrial and business activities was being paid twenty marks a day.

The chief justice said that in Germany he noticed that the business is being carried on at a very low level. The dollar value on account of the continual depreciation of the mark. The people realized this, however, and the storekeepers were in that way not knowing where they stood in regard to their profits by the depreciation of the mark. Consequently they were days when the merchants closed their stores altogether.

Chief Justice Mathers, speaking of the feeling of the people in Germany towards the Allies, said the Germans hate the French, but show no feeling towards the English. Strange to say, the French hated the English, and he was afraid that if these conditions continued it would mean the ending of the Entente Cordiale.

HORSE GOES OVER THE NORTH WHARF

Fire Department Called—
Two Animals in Difficulties in That Vicinity.

By a coincidence, two iron gray horses, each owned by a man named Johnston, got into difficulties in the vicinity of Market square this morning, between 11 o'clock and noon.

The first commotion ensued when a big truck horse, owned by H. A. Johnston, drawing a sloven loaded with bags of sugar, skidded and fell over the cap of the North Market wharf, opposite the office of J. Hunter White. The animal was proceeding in the direction of Smythe street when, turning out to pass another vehicle, it slipped on the pavement and went over the wharf.

The front wheels of the sloven brought up against the timber piece which tops the wharf and the horse hung suspended between pavement and the mud flat below by only his harness.

A call was sent in for the fire department and ropes were placed about the horse's breast and neck and he was lowered to the bottom of the slip. Until the ropes were fastened, which was not until some minutes after the accident happened, the animal hung head downward, causing blood to issue from his nose. As the harness was cut away he turned a complete somersault and was suspended for a few minutes head upward until lowered to the bottom. He was led away apparently none the worse for his experience. Commissioner Thornton, who was present, warned the driver not to place so large a load on his vehicle.

The second horse, owned by Joseph Johnston, and also an iron gray, developed blind staggers in Dock street a few minutes after the other animal had been taken away, but he recovered soon afterwards. There were some who were of the opinion that this was the same horse which went over the wharf, and at least one lively argument on the subject followed.

Have You "Sold" Yourself To Yourself?

PRETTY MUCH EVERYBODY is selling something—Goods, Knowledge, Experience, Ability.

The successful salesman MUST have confidence in two things—first, in himself; second, in that which he is selling.

It is generally admitted that an important factor in self-confidence is self-respect, and nothing is more productive of self-respect than the knowledge that you are properly dressed.

The cost of correct appearance is very moderate if you use good judgment in buying clothes, and this is easily settled by selecting "Scovill's Clothes" that have successfully stood the test of thirty-four years' service to St. John men.
