

BROOKLYN CAPTURED THIRD GAME IN THE WORLD SERIES

Sherrad Smith, Southpaw, Held Cleveland Helpless and Led Dodgers to a 2 to 1 Victory — Duplicated Grimes' Feat of Wednesday.

New York, Oct. 7.—Sherrad Smith, Brooklyn southpaw, won a place in the baseball hall of fame today when he held Cleveland batters helpless in the third game of 1920 world's series, and led Dodgers to a 2-to-1 victory over the American League pennant winners. Last night the name of Sherrad Smith, aptly named, was on the tongue of every Brooklyn fan. Smith is the hero tonight, for he duplicated Grimes' feat of yesterday and gave the Dodgers their second victory in the series.

Early today baseball historians recalled the uncanny fact that Smith's engagement with Brooklyn is the thirteenth of his professional career. Tonight they are confident that the Southpaw has transferred the "jinx" from his person to the ball. Cleveland, not Brooklyn, felt his baneful influence today. "Sherry" Smith has admittedly won a place with Matthewson, Coombs, McGinnis and Bender of former world's series, and in so doing, the Brooklyn players looked up their pitcher nobly. It was impossible for Cleveland batters today to get a drive through the combinations that shifted with lightning speed from place to place, wherever the ball was hit. Three hits and only three were made off the winning pitcher, Steve O'Neill getting two of three, and Tim Speaker one. Speaker made his hit a double in the fourth. O'Neill followed with a single in the fifth and another in the eighth. But for an error by Wheat in fielding Speaker's double, the game would have been a shut-out. Here is what happened to the Cleveland batters:

Only Five to First

Of the twenty-eight Indians who faced Smith, only five reached first base, three on hits, two on passes. Speaker scored on an error, two were left on base. O'Neill was one of the victims of a double play, and Jameson, who ran for him in the eighth met the same fate. Smith threw 100 balls, of which 29 were strikes, 41 balls, eight foul-strikes, five fouls, five field outs and 18 ground outs. Brooklyn won its game in the first inning. Ray Caldwell, who started for Cleveland, gave away a base on balls, and two hits before Speaker took him out and sent in "Duster" Mails. An error contributed to the two runs won by the Dodgers at the very outset of the ball. Mails, Brooklyn catcher, pitched blazing ball and prevented further scoring, backed up as he was by an impenetrable defense in the field. The game, it was generally admitted, measured up to the best traditions of world's series contests. Although marked by two errors, evenly divided, it was a contest of thrilling individual and combination defensive plays that brought the 25,000 spectators to their feet time and again.

Real Ball Weather

Today's game was the first of the series to be played in real baseball weather, and the fans reacted by showing greater enthusiasm than has been the rule. Bright sunlight, and a welcome absence of wind enabled the fans to throw aside overcoats and sweaters, which figured in the previous events.

As before, the rooting was well divided. Speaker was given greater applause than any other individual player, and while there was plenty of noise, old-timers marked a decided absence of the scenes that usually greet a winning Brooklyn team at Ebbets Field. The fireworks opened in the second inning when right-fielder Griffith made a great running catch off Joe Wood's bat that robbed the Cleveland outfielder of a sure double. A moment later Kasey knocked down Sewell's blazing slash and retired him at first with a throw to Smith. Both players were required to do, their legs repeatedly as they came to the bench. In the third Konetsky and Kiduff figured in another star play. O'Neill's smash fairly tore it way through the hands of the Robins' big first sacker, but the ball was deflected by Konetsky's effort to stop it and shot off toward Kiduff, who scooped it up and flung it back to Smith, who had rushed over to cover the bag.

Fast Double Play

Again in the fifth session the Brooklyn infield figured in a fast double play. Olson knocked down Mails' wicked drive and re-throwing the ball with an effort tossed the ball to Kiduff, forcing O'Neill at second, whereupon Kiduff waited and halted Mails at first. Speaker's players let themselves out in the sixth, when two feats in handling the ball around the crowd to a frenzy. Wilson lifted a foul fly along the right field line and Burns chased the descending sphere clear to the grandstand where he brought up with a slam against the iron railing, but not until he reached in among the spectators occupying a front row box with his gloved hand seared the ball almost in the lap of a woman fan. Myers then singled to left, but when Konetsky hammered a red hot hopper to Wambegans a lightning double play, Wambey to Sewell to Burns, checked what appeared to be another run getting rally. Other plays of almost equal brilliancy marked the progress of the battle, but these were the outstanding defensive features of a contest which will rank well to the fore in the annals of world's series games.

Speaker Still Confident

The outcome of the third game in no way appeared to affect the confidence of Manager Speaker in the ability of his players to win out in the coming battles in Cleveland. "We will win the series," was the confident comment of Speaker as he left Ebbets Field. He declared Cleveland's defeat was due to their team work in the field by Brooklyn.

"The Brooklyn batters were up on their toes and certainly played great ball," he said, "while our men in the field did not do so well today." Manager Speaker praised the work of Shortstop Sewell, who only recently came into major league and predicted that "some day that boy is going to be one of the best."

Manager Robinson, of Brooklyn, declared that his opinion on the final result was still the same as it was before the first game was played. "Just as I thought, two days ago," said Robinson, "the series will be very close. The clubs are very evenly matched, but I think we have the edge on Cleveland in respect to pitchers." He paid a compliment to his players for their gameness and their ability to stage a comeback.

"The thing needed in a world's series," he said, "is nerve, and our boys certainly have plenty of it. Both teams are trying their best to win, and their efforts should stop all talk of baseball scandals."

It may have been a lucky thing for Brooklyn that Manager Speaker at the last moment decided to start Ray Caldwell in the box, for it was while Ray was on the mound that Manager Robinson's boys got their two runs.

Consistent Player

Olson, the Brooklyn shortstop who has proved the most consistent player of either team in reaching first, hit for three games being 8 out of 12, drew a pass in Brooklyn's half of the first. Jimmy Johnston promptly sacrificed him to second and he advanced to third when Sewell fumbled Griffith's grounder. Olson completed the circuit on Wheat's hit to left and Griffith went to the midway. From that point the right fielder scored when Myers hit to short right. "Tris Speaker, with the unintentional aid of Zack Wheat saved his team from a shut out. In the fourth the Cleveland leader hit down the third base line. The smash was ordinarily good for two bases, but Wheat let the ball go through him and it rolled to the far corner of the lot. Speaker continued around the bases and scored so easily that Wheat made no effort to throw the ball home.

Pitching Analysis

The pitching analysis of the Cleveland box men, show that nearly half of the 30 balls thrown by Caldwell in the 1-1-3 inning he performed were wide of the plate. Three went as strikes, four as fouls and two were grounders, one of which was fumbled. The other two were hits that sent in the two runs for Brooklyn. Mails pitched creditably in his 6-2-3 innings. Although his ball total of 38 was almost equal to that of Smith for innings, he held Brooklyn to three hits and no runs. He sent across 19 strikes and received credit for 14 on fouls. Four fouls came after the second strike. The Cleveland southpaw started well, throwing seven balls in the fractional inning and 8 in the second. After that his total was never less than 11, and in the seventh he pitched 23 times, 12 of which were wide of the plate. While, in his one inning, had three balls, 3 strikes, 3 foul strikes and two plain fouls.

Eight Brooklyn men went out in files and ten on grounders, not including the ball Sewell erred on. The ball total for the three Indian pitchers was 50, and the strike total half that number. Brooklyn batters fouled off 21 offerings for strikes. The almost summer-like weather brought out the largest attendance of the series to date. According to the official figures of the National Commission, 25,088 spectators paid admission to see Smith and his team mates turn back the Speaker tribe for the second consecutive time. The collective contribution to the box office was $81,298. This made the total receipts for the first three games $236,511, of which the National Commission receives $28,611.60; the players pool

Overcoat Race At Woodstock

Woodstock, Oct. 7.—There were no overcoats needed at the overcoat race today, as the weather was delightful. About 2,000 people were in attendance, which was disappointing to the management. The winners were College Swift, Roy Volo and Zeida the Great. Roy Volo won in the 2.12 class, closely pressed by Little Anna S. and Peter Setter. Under the rules, after the fourth heat, only winners complete. In the 2.30 class, after P. S. had won a second and a first, and looked like a sure winner, P. S. was distanced in the third heat, and the fight was between Colorado Rose and Zeida the Great, the latter winning. The oldest had picked Colorado Rose to win, but she didn't. A great battle took place between College Swift, Handlin Up and Bravis in the fifth heat of the 2.18 class. Camero drew the latter in late heat, Gerv having been taken down by the judges on request of the owner, Mr. Reed, of Fort Fairfield. Bravis broke in the last quarter in an effort to pass College Swift. Roy Volo won in the 2.12 class. The starter was Frank Power, of Halifax. Judges: Charles Thompson, of Sydney; Dr. McWhorter, of McAdam; and M. Moore, of Houlton. Clerk, Roy C. Tait. It is expected that 10,000 people will attend the races tomorrow, if the weather is fine, as all shavers intend to try and clean up the great Free-For-All class, including such horses as Zom Q. Fern Hal, Lady Grattan, Benali, Roy Volo and others. Races start tomorrow at one o'clock.
