MONDAY EVENING, JULY 20.

Unanimous Condemnation.
The proposition made by the Government of Canada to the United States to buy certain reciprocal trade facilities at a certain price, which proposition was coolly submitted to the United States Senate without even a recommendation to accept, has been discussed in the Dominion Board of Trade and unanimously condemned. It found not one advocate among the representatives of commercial Canada. Those who spoke most warmly in favor of reciprocity did not say a word in favor of the terms offered to the Dominion Government by the Ottawa Cabinet. No scheme was ever more thoroughly unacceptable to the people who are to be affected by it. It is absolutely no friends. Protectionists, Free Traders, Canada Firsts, and Empire Firsts are all against it. They condemn it for what it contains and for what it omits. It is justly regarded as destruction of our manufactures, the three years' clause being most unfair to us, and as opening up no new channel of trade. A great many of the arguments were sectional, and some of them selfish, many unwise, and some were all hostile. Nothing was said in favor of protection for our manufactures, for instance, that might not have been more logically and forcibly said in favor of prohibition of foreign manufactures. But then the most radical Free Trader must admit that they were all hostile. Nothing was said in favor of protection for our manufactures, for instance, that might not have been more logically and forcibly said in favor of prohibition of foreign manufactures. But then the most radical Free Trader must admit that they were all hostile. Nothing was said in favor of protection for our manufactures, for instance, that might not have been more logically and forcibly said in favor of prohibition of foreign manufactures.

Then the delegates from the National Board of Trade were invited to speak, and Mr. Nourse, of Boston, Mr. St. John, of New York, Mr. Hawley, of Detroit, responded, their speeches advocating the principle of free trade and expressing their admiration for New Brunswick, the Dominion Board of Trade, and Canada generally. Mr. Mitchell, a Portland gentleman who came to St. John for the New York Tribune, responded to an invitation to speak, and made a good impression on the Board. After doing some extempore points against the hostility shown by the manufacturers of both countries against the reciprocal clause of the Treaty. The grumbling on both sides convinced him that the Treaty was about right. Mr. Mitchell, a Portland gentleman who came to St. John for the New York Tribune, responded to an invitation to speak, and made a good impression on the Board. After doing some extempore points against the hostility shown by the manufacturers of both countries against the reciprocal clause of the Treaty. The report of the Committee on Insolvency was ordered to be printed and sent to the local Boards of Trade. Messrs. Marshall, Drummond, Keays and A. C. Fairweather were appointed a Committee on Fire and Life Insurance. The following resolution was offered by Mr. Robertson, and carried unanimously: That the Dominion Board of Trade views with great satisfaction the United States towards the establishment of an international rate of newspaper postage, and the progress of the same, and the extreme kindness shown by them to the members of the Dominion Board and their friends. Hon. T. R. Jones, on behalf of the St. John Board, tendered thanks. Mr. Doherty (Quebec) seconded by Mr. Spratt (Montreal) moved a vote of thanks to the Lieut-Governor and the Mayors and citizens of St. John and Fredericton for the reception awarded the delegates. Carried unanimously.

The President, in alluding to the cordial reception they had met with, asked that a delegation be sent to Ottawa next January to attend the Dominion Board of Trade session. Mr. A. Joseph (Quebec) and Mr. Hersey (Portland), also spoke in cordial terms of the hospitality extended to them here. Mr. Elder moved and Mr. Robertson seconded the following resolution, which was carried without debate: That this Board regards an international rate of newspaper postage between this country and the United States as most desirable, and that the Council of this Board memorialize the Government of Canada to take steps to procure such international rate of newspaper postage. The Board then adjourned.

At the White Mountains, the Boston Advertiser says, a Dartmouth College student who is to enter the Divinity School at Cambridge, next autumn, is now "head water" at one hotel, and "tail water" at another. He is reported in the Amherst Valley. School teachers who do not think it unadvisable to wear married clothes are the "head water" of the Twin Mountain House, none of whom but could grace his parlors at the conclusion of their toil. Vermont and New Hampshire people believe in the "enough" qualities of independent labor. This is the way a Boston reporter gushed, in the peroration of his account of what was done there on the Fourth. "Mosaic batteries" were in the air with their marbled and serpentine spirals and flights of aerial bombs drawing trails of sapphire flame, exploding and aloft in ether, and dissolving in caustic pines of red, green, blue and variegated stars; and earthward in quivering drops and pellucid streams that float on the vacuum of the air and the day's festivities. Good gracious!

since the old treaty ceased to exist. We are doing well enough and are not suing for this treaty. Free trade reciprocity—based on equal terms—is very desirable, but the present draft is unjust to us, if for no other reason than that it obliges us to build a canal within a certain period, and we are called upon to find 12 feet of water at a place where it is doubtful if 8 feet of water can be found. Mr. Spratt (Montreal) was surprised to find so many of our manufacturers opposed to reciprocity. The manufacturers of the United States are petitioning the United States Senate against the adoption of the Treaty, fearing that their interests would suffer by having to compete with the Canadians, and yet among the greatest cry against the adoption of the Treaty is that its becoming law will kill our manufacturing interests. He was opposed to the provisions obliging us to build canals within a certain period. Mr. Spratt (Kingston) in amendment to the amendment, moved that the first paragraph of Mr. Elder's resolution be adopted and the second be amended so as to refer the whole question to a committee to report upon at the next meeting of the Dominion Board in January next. Mr. Trout gravely declared that his motion could not be killed by the adoption of either of the amendments, without nullifying the reciprocity resolution. ("No, no, amendment declares for reciprocity," and loud laughter. Mr. Trout proceeded to argue in this way, and the Board continued to treat his remarks as humorous. Then the delegates from the National Board of Trade were invited to speak, and Mr. Nourse, of Boston, Mr. St. John, of New York, Mr. Hawley, of Detroit, responded, their speeches advocating the principle of free trade and expressing their admiration for New Brunswick, the Dominion Board of Trade, and Canada generally. In Mr. Savage's military store, Saturday afternoon, a lighted match was carelessly dropped on the dress of Miss Annie Bastin, one of the employees, and the dress was soon in flames. Breaking away from Mr. Savage and others who tried to smother the flames, the frightened and suffering girl ran shrieking into the street. Mr. Saffron, seated there, carried her into his shop, and smothered the flames by wrapping her in his coat, burning his hands and arms severely. Miss Bastin was dangerously burned. Several of Mr. Savage's employees were slightly burned in attempting to aid the sufferer. The injured girl is not so easy to get up as she looks, and is considered to be in great danger.

Revelites.
The statement, published two successive days in the Patriot, that the Rev. Mr. Thompson and Robert Book, Jr., of Halifax, were among the delegates present at the Dominion Board of Trade, is incorrect, as no Halifax delegate presented himself. Mr. T. G. Lawrence, Mr. Queen wharf, Indiantown, keeps a general assortment of groceries and provisions. His stand is very convenient for shipment of goods on board sea river boats, and customers will find him always liberal in his dealing and prompt in business. Give him a call. See advt. Mrs. Lauerger's benefit was well attended. Mr. Robinson's Othello and Mr. Lauerger's Iago were much admired and applauded. Many good Baptists and Methodists set their brethren a good example by attending, and seemed to enjoy the performance immensely. Mr. C. Armstrong and Mr. Jas. McConnel returned on Saturday from the Tabernacle, where they had been on a very successful troupe expedition. The flies, however, made sad havoc with their faces, and their seats in church were doubtless vacant yesterday.

City Police Court.
The pew was well filled with a hard looking lot of prisoners this morning, and many hard looking subjects were gathered there to see judgment passed upon their friends.

James Gordon and James Gordon, Jr., father and son, $4 each for drunkenness. Catharine Deynarr, drunk, paid $8; Eliza Donnelly, drunk, $8; John Ross, drunk, $8; Michael Cashman, drunk, $8; John Fitzgerald, only 16 years old, drunk, $8; Elizabeth Tower, drunk, $8; Patrick Clancy and John Sullivan, two drunken vagrants, two months P. P.; James Tension, drunk, $8; Henry Moulderhous, drunk, $8. "Wm. Welsh, drunk in Sheffield street. Gully." "Yes, sir." "Same fine." "It is the first time I've been drunk in three years," sadly said William as he resumed his seat with the air of a man who had no money to pay his fine and expected to go to the penitentiary for two months. "John Mallin, arrested in Carmarthen street, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, and giving no satisfactory account of yourself. What do you say to it?" Before Mr. Mallin could respond a policeman accused him of having represented himself as from Halifax, and then from Fredericton, and with giving his name as Mitchell. "What do you say?" asked the Magistrate. "Gully," was his feeble response, although it was not very clear what he confessed to being guilty of. "Twenty shillings," said the Magistrate, who probably imposed the fine as a punishment for the man's attempt to bring Halifax into disrepute by sailing from that moral city. "Christian Tension, drunk; fined $8." "Hugh Breenin, drunk." "Gully." "Same fine you."

"John Collins, were you drunk?" "No, sir." An officer swore he was and an "Sarah Bailey, what do you say to a charge of being drunk and wilfully breaking a window in Maryann Richey's house?" "I was not drunk and I broke the window accidentally." Mary Ann Richey stated that the prisoner was drunk and disorderly in her house, was put out, and smashed the window with a brick. "It was a stone that I sent through it," said Sarah, evidently forgetting that it was an accident; and I got the rain in her house Sunday. "It was a brick," said Mary Ann, "and it just escaped the face of me. She got no liquor in my house. I keep none. Your officers may search every bottle in my house. I keep nothing stronger nor a little ginger beer." "Sarah Bailey, you are fined $20 for wilfully breaking the window and $8 for being drunk, or you will go to jail two months for each offence."

"John Bourke, you are charged with assaulting Samuel McCracken. What say you?" "I don't know what I did, Sir; I was drunk." "You are fined $20." Wm. Teulonson, drunk in Carleton, was fined $8. "Daniel Dougherty, here you are back again charged with breaking a public lamp. It was only the other day you were up for breaking into a house while intoxicated. Then I put it to you to be a sober young man, and earn a honest living, and you went to your priest and took the pledge, on your knees before him, not to drink for twelve months. In defiance of all this you are back here. You have been ten times worse than before. I tied hard to save you, for the sake of your poor old mother, but I shall punish you now. You will pay $20 or go to jail for two months. There is a good stone crusher there that will give you a chance to work. If you don't reform you never will be saved, son or body."

Jacob Burnham was asked what he had to say to a charge of being drunk in a house in Carleton, and assaulting policeman Walker. He said he was not drunk at all. He was visiting the woman of the house—"a very nice woman she is, too"—house at which he used to board, and was well received, shaken hands with, and asked to sit down. He had a glass of liquor on—that he wouldn't deny—but he was not drunk or making a noise. The officer came in and ordered him out. He resisted. The officer struck him and cut his head, and he defended himself. Policeman Walker, when asked what he had to say to this, declared that the woman wanted him to put Burnham out, and that he was drunk and making a noise. The Magistrate ordered the woman to be sent for, to see whose story her statement would support, and left the officer on the propensity of green members of the force to exceed their authority. "You are not sover reigns, if you are policemen," he said, "and should keep within the law. But the trouble is that you don't know your duty. You have never read the law defining your powers. Here we have had several cases of unwarranted arrests. You have no right to enter a private house and meddle with its inmates, be they drunk or sober, unless there is a disturbance there."

Officer Walker went to Carleton and got the woman in whose house the prisoner was arrested, and she charged him with having assaulted her. The trial of this charge will take place this afternoon. His name is Babb, and he is just out of the penitentiary. It will be remembered that he attempted to burn the Park Hotel some months ago.

One of the most enterprising and successful manufacturers in this Dominion is R. M. Wanzer, now of world-wide celebrity as the lead and front of the Wanzer Manufacturing Company of Hamilton.

The first sewing machine which he sent out of his factory was known as the "Little Wanzer," which rapidly became very popular because of its superior excellence and reasonable cost. And its popularity was not confined to Canada alone; no "pent up Ulster" would suit the pushing enterprise of the man whose name is here. The whole civilized world was before him for a market, and he and his son did not rest from their travels until they had placed Little Wanzers in the families of every civilized community on the globe. In the East Indies, China, Egypt, Turkey, every country in Europe, North and South America and even some parts of Africa may now be heard the cheery noise of these machines. The welcome given this practical civilization in the homes of all countries prompted the manufacturer to the production of larger machines, adapted to all kinds of work, and as follows now turn out four different sizes, as follows: The Little Wanzer, Wanzer A, Wanzer B, and Wanzer F. The latter is now the latest improvement, and is especially adapted for every description of household and family work, from the finest fabric for ladies wear to the heaviest and more durable cloth for the sterner sex. For a durable machine, easily run and adapted to all kinds of work named the Wanzer F takes precedence of all others. The Wanzer does not only the largest business of any Sewing Machine Company in Canada, probably the largest of any in the world. Their policy has always been a liberal one. By liberal prices, liberal commissions, and liberal use of printer's ink, and the production of a machine fully up to the standard claimed, they have secured success beyond all precedent. These machines were introduced into this market some four or five years ago by D. H. Hall, Esq., who has ever since acted as agent for the company, and we are informed that his sales during that time in the Maritime Provinces have been enormous. Mr. Hall still retains the agency for all the machines manufactured by the Wanzer, the result of which is, however, conducted by his son, C. H. Hall, Germain street. No small degree of success attending the sale of the Wanzer in the Lower Provinces is owing to the confidence inspired, and the enterprise displayed by the agent. Indeed the proprietors seem to have discovered this fact and appreciated it, for only a few days since he was the recipient of a valuable diamond ring from the head of the firm as a token of esteem, etc. Mr. Hall was instructed some time ago to donate six machines to the leading charitable institutions, four of which were disposed of in this city to the following deserving institutions: the Protestant Orphan Asylum, the Catholic do., Y. M. Christian Association, and Old Ladies Home. All persons in want of a sewing machine should call at the agency, 86 Germain st. and see the Wanzer at work.

Academy of Music.
Nannary & McDowall's fine company returned from Halifax on Saturday evening, and re-open the Academy to-night, when no doubt they will attract a crowd of house. In Halifax the company was very successful. The following notice from the Recorder speaks for itself: The season of Temperance Hall closes to-night when "The Homecoming" will be presented, with a splendid afterpiece, the performance being under the patronage of Captain Wells and assisted by H. M. S. Belleroophon. The season has now lasted nearly five weeks, and has been the most successful of any that Halifax has enjoyed. Perhaps the management have not netted much profit, owing to various causes; but they have the satisfaction of knowing that they have established the drama on a pedestal in Halifax at which those who formerly stood aloof throng to look and admire. Nothing but the very best of management, and the most strict propriety combined with undoubted histrionic ability in the company, could have achieved this result, and we believe there is now a feeling evoked which hitherto has never had an existance in Halifax—regret at the departure of a theatrical company. On the return of Messrs. Nannary & McDowall—a few weeks hence they may be assured of a warm welcome.
