S. B. ARDAGH,
Rector of Barrie. (Signed)
The Rev. Dr. Ryerson, Superintendent of Education, C. W.

REPLY. Education Office, Toronto, 23rd March, 1850. SIR,-In reply to your note of the 12th inst., I fear any translation of the Bible comes under the prohibition of the 54th section of the new ool Act. It is the construction I put upon it when I first saw the Act in June last, and was one reason why I expressed my preference to relinquish office rather than administer the new law in the event of its being made the basis of the future system of Elementary Instruction in Upper Canada. This most objectionable section will not be introduced into the School Bill which will be introduced into the Legislature during I have the honor, &c.

(Signed) E. RYERSON. The Rev. S. B. Ardagh, Barrie.

In Mr. Ardagh's statements above quoted he alludes to the proceedings of a County School Convention held last winter at Barrie. And if I shewed a want of "manliness, and candour, and honesty" in quoting Archbishop Whately, why did not Mr. Ardagh tell me so at the timedid he shew me the kindness to invite me to partake of his hospitality at his own house, and then, more than six months afterwards, behind my back, and when I could not be heard, make this valorous attack upon me? The facts are—that Mr. Ardagh insisted that here should be no discretion as to the reading of the Bible by all pupils in our Schools, that the LAW should make it compulsory. On the other hand, I expressed my objection to compul-Niagara. sion in matters of religion; that I did not believe Parliament had the right of compelling me or any body else to read the Bible or go to Church, although I believed it my duty and that of others to do both; that I would do all I could, as I had done, by persuasion, and by providing facilities, to have the Holy Scriptures read by Protestants in all our Schools; that under these offluences and facilities, the Scriptures had been ntroduced into 2,000 out of the 3,000 of our Schools; that the true way to get the Scriptures read by Protestant children in all our Schools was for the Clergy and other friends of the Bible to employ their influence and exertions for that purpose in each School Section, and not by com-pulsory law; that if the Legislature should Proceed to make the reading of the Scripture compulsory by all the pupils of our Schools, it must assume the power of determining the version of the Scriptures to be used; for, as Archbishop hately had shewn, (in answering the same ob ection against the National School System in reland,) the Scriptures as given by God to man consisted chiefly of Hebrew and Greek manu-scripts, while what was used in ours and other andern languages as the Bible was a translation of those manuscripts; and, however satisfactory the common English version of the Bible was to s, its authority was not acknowledged by all Thus my advocacy of persuasion instead of legal compulsion, in the religious matter of reading le Scriptures in our Schools, and my reference one of the many difficulties, as stated by Archbishop Whately and known to every man of ^{co}mmon intelligence, in invoking such legal ^{co}mpulsion, is represented by Mr. Ardagh as a on on my part of our English version of the Bible, a disregard of its use in our Schools, and a dishonest quoting of Archbishop Whately

I am, Sir, Your obedient servant, E. RYERSON.

ANOTHER ILLUSTRATION OF VOLUNTARYISM .-There was once a poor preacher who supplied an equally poor congregation up somewhere in the woods, under a contract to have so much rye for a year's preaching, if they saw fit to retain him for a year. He was very fearful that he should get the sack prematutely, and did all he knew how to fend off that appalling calamity; among other precautions, going round to the leading members of his congregation to learn how his preaching suited them. "Brethren, said he anxiously, "just tell me frankly how you like my doctrine; and if you don't like it, let me know, let me know what doctrine I shall preach to please you—for I must have that rye.—M'Kenzie's Message.

RAILWAY BRIDGE AT NIAGARA.-This Bridge when completed will be one of the greatest Me-hanical achievements in the world. The Bridge will consist of two parts, suspended from two cables, a covered one for common travel, and above that, on its roof, an open track for the rail-road. The Bridge will be 800 feet long, hung by wire ropes five feet apart, to four huge wire cab'es stretching from shore to shore with a John R. Gemmill, of Port Sarnia, to be Clerk considerable deflection over the tops of towers 60 the County Court of the County of Lambton. If the cables are to be 9 to 4 inches in ameter, each formed of 3,390 strands of wire. Operations have already been commenced on the Canada shore. If this Suspension Bridge is successful, it will be accomplishing what has been pronounced by the celebrated Mr. Stephenson, to be impracticable. It is be done next June. This kind of bridge on the suspen-ion principle is much cheaper than a Tubular Bridge, the cost of t, to be sure, will exceed 62,509 pounds, but the ost of the tubular bridge at Montreal is estumat-

The four o'clock express train from New York on Monday evening when near Tarrytown, was stopped by the breaking of the forward wheels of the locomotive. The train was at the time on one of the causeways crossing the river, with water on both sides, and just where the train was, the banks on each side were about eight feet high. The forward driving wheel on the right side was off the track. The rod connecting the wheel with the other on the same side was bent like a hoop, and the wheel had three spokes broken. On the left of the engine, one of the large wheels was lying on the ground under the tender, broken to fragments, and it probably checked the locomotive from plunging down the bank, or, what would have been worse, from moving forward one hundred feet further, upon a timber bridge, when great loss of life must

THE FEARFUL SHIPWRECK ON BARRA HEAD. FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The Annie Jane, Captain Mason, from Liverpool, bound for Quebec, with 500 emigrants and fron rails, left the former port some six weeks After being at sea three weeks, she returned to Liverpool with loss of mizenmast and other spars. At this time 100 emigrants left After being refitted she proceeded to sea again with six additional able seamen, as she was found short of hands. For 13 days nothing occurred, except that the ship met rough weather, till the 15th of September, when the ship was overtaken in a gale, and lost her mainmast. Captain Mason or ered the ship to be put before the wind till a temporary mast was rected, and intended to make for Liverpool, but was advised by a sea captain, who went from Liverpool as a passenger, to try and make for his destination. The ship hove-to for eight days, and lost all her upper spars, becoming quite unmanageable. She was ordered to run before the wind on the 23rd of September, and came in sight of Barra lighthouse on Wedne the 28th. The captain and crew struggled hard to get to windward of the island, but as the evening approached, it was clear that the island could not be weathered. The ship's head was therefore directed towards a flat sandy beach, and she struck about twelve o'clock at night with such fearful violence that all her framework started, shutting in her cabin doors so that have followed. The night was very dark .- the passengers then in the cabin could not get Another huge breaker struck on her quarter, and the poop deck sank, crushing some 200 emigrants to death. In ten minutes more the ship was in pieces. It was most heartrending to hear the shrieks of 300 human beings struggling for life. The poop's deck by this time floated, and 100 of the emigrants and pasengers found standing room on this fragment many of them perished with cold, or were smothered under the trampling of others. About day-break the tide ebbed, and left the fragment high and dry, when 102 walked ashore 348 having been drowned or killed in fifteen minutes the previous night. The great success which has attended the first year of this institution, has encouraged Mrs. Poetter to leave nothing undone that can add to the advantages already offered in her School. In consequence of the increase in her pupils, she has engaged another Music Master, (an English Professor from Boston,) who has been highly recommended as a finished musician. Mrs. Poetter has during the past year taken her more advanced pupils through a course of English Studies, which have prepared them to give their time next year only to the higher branches of English Literature, and the French, Italian and German languages, in which they have already made some proficiency. Mrs. Poetter will take this opportunity of expressing the pleasure she has felt at the kind and satisfactory letters she has received from many of the parents, and she trusts that her system, combining home comforts with the advantages of a sound and finished education on such very moderate terms, will continue to be appreciated and encouraged. The School will re-open on the 5th of Sept. for Boarders.
