Sometimes, the most obvious choice gets overlooked.

Canadian National is so broad, so diverse, so integral a part of Canadian life that, paradoxically, it is sometimes not perceived as offering viable career opportunities to today's graduates.

People sometimes think of CN as only a railway, and therefore too specialized for them. Or they see CN as so diverse that the possibilities for personal specialization may be limited.

Neither view is quite correct. CN is far more than a railway, although its rail operations are among the most dynamic in the world.

And CN is indeed one of the largest and most progressive companies in the world in transportation and communications, two fields in which new ideas, up-to-date scientific, engineering and management techniques are of crucial importance.

CN is actively seeking out university graduates with the skills, zest and goals to match the demands of the company's future. If your qualifications are in engineering, computer science, economics, business administration—or in other related disciplines—you may be exactly the kind of man or woman CN needs.

Ask for a copy of the CN Graduate Opportunities booklet, available now from your placement centre. It sets out in more detail how you might fit in at CN. And how CN may be exactly the kind of organization you've been looking for. In less obvious places.
