

THE DAILY POEM

WHEN MA GOES INTO POLITICS.
When Ma goes into politics
There'll be no dirty low-down tricks.
For Ma will see that Pa votes right.
And that there are no strikes in sight.
She'll make the maid and hired man
Adopt the daylight saving plan.

When Ma goes into politics.
She'll trim the lantern's worthless wicks.
And give us cheaper kerosene
And butter 'stead of margarine.
She'll make the big coal Barons hump.
To some cool corner for a lump.

When Ma goes into politics.
The pretenses'll get some kicks.
For Ma will banish all the bees.
And quite outwit each cunning sneer.
Behind her is the women's vote.
I tell you, Ma can row the boat.
Oh! won't some folks be in a fix
When Ma goes into politics?
