

CONVENTION IS TRIBUTE ITSELF TO THE WORK

Baptists at Missionary Conference Yesterday at the First Church.

Perhaps no greater tribute to the progress of Baptist Missionary work has been paid than that at the First Baptist Church, where the annual convention of the Baptist Missionary societies is now being held.

Yesterday was Foreign Mission day when the sessions were principally devoted to addresses and reports and missionaries from the foreign field, India, Bolivia and other foreign fields of work, were laid open to the delegates by earnest words from missionaries who could speak from actual experience of the countries concerned.

Officers Elected. Mrs. John Firstbrook was yesterday re-elected as president of the Society, and Mrs. J. M. Larven of Toronto was appointed first vice-president.

A very illuminating address was given by Miss L. M. Jones, of India, who spoke of the progress which Christianity had made in India in spite of several drawbacks.

Prayer, conducted by Mrs. Herbert Remner of Hartford, closed the session.

The church was crowded to overflowing last night when the third session of the Convention was opened. It was a rousing and great scene and spoke volumes for the Baptist cause in the city.

It was something less than 400 years ago since Bolivia was discovered by the Spaniards, but since England and other European countries had discovered it commercially, much trade had followed and now that the war had broken out, Uncle Sam had seized upon his opportunity to step in at the physiological moment.

Exports were largely rubber and tin, and has increased marvelously in the last eleven years. The exports facilities were not very extensive and they had in Bolivia some twelve railways.
