It is hard to make most of the farmers realize that there is a great possibility of them not being able to get what commercial fertilizer they will require this spring.

Make the Men U Beat Umen

The above sign appeared on a London shop and attracted considerable attention.

This is a motto which one needs to bear in mind in these days when wheat and meat and sugar and potatoes are assuming an importance which they never had in the memory of this generation. Food has been plentiful for so long that it is hard to make the general public realize the genuine need for economy.

The papers are full of advice and suggestions re food economy, and warnings as to the future if we are careless and extravagant, but so far even the high prices have not made the average person conscious of any real pinch.

Do we realize the importance of real win the war economy?

Backward Season Forty Years Ago.

Moncton, June 2—Mr. Joseph P. Goguen, of Painsec Settlement, Moncton Parish, in discussing the backward season with some friends states that he remembers a somewhat similar season about 35 or 40 years ago. The spring weather was very late and backward for seeding, with continual rainy weather away into the middle of June. The farmers were greatly discouraged and some thought it would be useless to farm that spring. He remembers, he says, that the priest who took charge of his locality, at service one Sunday in the month referred to, strongly urged his parishioners not to hesitate but to plant and sow all they could "and Providence would do the rest."

The neighbors accepted the advice tendered and they had excellent crops both in roots and grain, and a fine fall for harvesting.

Amnesty for Sinn Feiners.

London, June 2nd.—The Daily Chronicle says it has reason to believe that the Government is about to grant amnesty to all Sinn Feiners now in prison. The paper believes this would be apt to create favorable atmosphere for the coming Home Rule convention, in which it says the Sinn Feiners will be represented.

Possibility of Palestine for Jews Starts Controversy.

London, May 29—A controversy has arisen which promises to be of unusual interest and length. It is well summarized in a Times editorial this morning, entitled The Future of the Jews.

The article substantially in full is as follows: "The important controversy which has sprung up in our columns as to the future of the Jews deserves sympathetic attention. The war has given prominence to many questions which seemed formerly outside the range of practical politics. None of them is more interesting than the effect of Zionism—the settlement of the Jewish nationality in Palestine—upon the future of the Jewish people. In a statement from a conjoint committee of the board of deputies of British Jews and the Anglo-Jewish Association, exception is taken to a Zionist community in a political sense. In the opinion of the committee, such plans are part and parcel of a wider Zionist theory, which regards all Jewish communities in the world as constituting one homeless nationality incapable of complete social and political identification with the nations among whom they dwell. Against this theory the committee strongly protest.

The committee claim they are fully alive to the special meaning of Palestine for the Jewish race. They are anxious that in Palestine civil and religious liberties for Jews be secured, but affirm that emancipated Jews in this country have no separate national aspirations in a political sense. Such Jews regard themselves primarily as a religious community, and have always based their claims on political equality with their fellow citizens of other creeds on this assumption.

They fear lest the establishment of a Jewish nationality in Palestine may stamp the Jews as strangers in their native lands and undermine their hard-won positions as citizens and nations in those lands. The committee proceeds to argue that since the Jewish religion is the only certain test of a Jew, the Jewish nationality must be founded on and limited by religion. It follows, they believe, that the Jewish nationality would be obliged to express itself politically by religious intolerance, and would thus undermine the very principle the Jews has invoked to secure emancipation.

War Time Prohibition if Coalition Comes?

Ottawa, June 5—A broad hint from Premier Borden that, in the event of the formation of a coalition Government, the question of national war-time prohibition would engage the attention of the new Ministry, was conveyed to Parliament to-day when Hon. Charles Marcl urged that this policy be adopted. Mr. Marcl said he had received many communications on the subject, and earnestly advocated national prohibition.

Sir Robert Borden replied that at the present time the Minister of Justice, Hon. C. J. Doherty, had under consideration "some suggestions made to him respecting amendments to the bill passed last year." The Premier thought it not unlikely in event of possible developments, that the suggestions would raise a wider question. "I am not in a position to make an announcement at present," concluded Sir Robert.

Cost of Producing a Barrel of Flour.

Some twenty firms sent in replies to the city council at Calgary in answer to the queries sent out by that body demanding information as to the cost and selling price of flour on March 26 last, and six months prior to that date, under the Dominion statute providing for investigations into the high cost of living. A perusal of the figures sent in by the various firms shows that the council is just about as far off as ever it was from obtaining any complete data which will reveal the information really desired.

The cost of producing flour, exclusive of the cost of the wheat, varies in the different mills. In the Western Canada Flour mills, for instance, the estimated cost of production per barrel has varied from 98c to $1.22 a barrel during the six months prior to March 26; while the Robin Hood Company declare that its production costs vary from $1.12 to $2.68 per barrel.

The Canadian Government will here after have both an eastern and a western manager. The Eastern Manager is C. A. Hayes, with headquarters at Moncton. F. P. Brady is Manager of the Western Division with headquarters at Cochrane, Sask. The division is at the St. Lawrence River.

Their decision is expected in the course of the next few days.

HE WAS SCARED

It was in the churchyard. The morning sun shone brightly and the dew was still on the grass.

"Ah, this is the weather that makes things spring up," remarked a passer by casually to an old gentleman seated on a bench.

"Hush!" replied the old gentleman. "I've got three wives buried here."

AMERICAN SHIP DOWNED HUN SUB.

PARIS, June 7—The American steamer Silvershell has had a battle with a submarine in the Mediterranean. After an exchange of sixty shots the submarine disappeared. Details of the fight were made public today by the ministry of marine. The Silvershell, commanded by Captain Tom Charlton, sighted the submarine on May 30. In the running fight which followed the American boat proved speedier than its enemy and seemed also to be the master in gunfire. The disappearance of the submarine was sudden.

JOFFRE'S REQUEST

Send us more men," is the request of Marshal Joffre, made to the people of Canada, on behalf of France. "We need a half a million more men before July," is the request of General Robertson, made on behalf of the Empire.

Canadians, in the light of all our protestations about the underlying causes of this war, remain indifferent to these requests? Can we see our British kinsmen slaughtered and heroic France bled white, while thousands of our young men remain at home in security and ease?

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary needs. Even those who possess the splendid dictionary in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired."—Albert S. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ. April 28, 1911.
