CENTER BRUCE.

Major Clark is not worrying over the possible outcome of his election trial. His conscience is easy, and his sleep is undisturbed. At the examination for discovery Mr. Clark testified that he did not become a candidate definitely until the day Dr. Stewart became a candidate, which was just two weeks before the election. He was not the candidate of any convention but ran on his personal responsibility. Explaining his lack of committees he said that he had no organizers assisting him and he had not time to organize committees. Questioned as to the smallness of his election expenses, $73, he said that they were not one cent more than advertised; that having held no public meetings, he had no expenses for speakers, printing, hall rent, brass bands, etc. He also testified that he had received financial assistance, but had returned it at once with thanks. Questioned closely as to whom he expected to work for him and take out the vote he said that he had not worried about that; that he knew the temper of the people and felt sure the vote would come out, mentioning the case of Huron Township where he had not set foot during the campaign, but which increased the vote polled and raised his majority from 79 to 105. As to who his workers or canvassers were he could in most cases speak only from judgment, not from knowledge.

BIG BATTLES.

The newspaper remows who know all about battles, sieges, routs, casualties and such things, are busy comparing the battle of Liaoyang with the other great slaughters of history. Some there are who hold that in regard to the number of men engaged, the duration of the fight, and the butcher's bill, Liaoyang establishes a new record. Others take the view that Liaoyang was, comparatively speaking a trivial affair. It is pointed out that Richard I. and other crusaders besieged Acre for two years, with a loss of over three hundred thousand soldiers, and when it was afterwards retaken by the Saracens sixty thousand Christians perished. Thirty thousand Frenchmen fell at Crecy; twelve thousand Frenchmen were killed at Blenheim, and thirteen thousand were taken prisoners, while at Malplaquet, the allies alone lost eighteen thousand men. At Jena and Auerstadt the Prussians, who were defeated, lost twenty thousand, killed and wounded, nearly as many prisoners, and two hundred field pieces; while the French lost fourteen thousand men. At Asterlitz, the allies lost thirty thousand in killed and wounded, and thousands were taken prisoners. At Sedan, Marshal Mac-Mahon had about a hundred and fifty thousand men, and the Germans about two hundred and fifty thousand sion as to fine player's identity. Inmen, or about four hundred thousand men altogether. In that battle twenty-five thousand French prisoners were taken, eighty-three thousand lied by Chatham was made before the surrendered the next day, together with seventy mitrailleuses, four hundred and the seventy mitrailleuses and the seventy mitrailleuse and the seventy mitrailleuses and the sev dred field pieces, and a hundred and fifty fortress guns. As for classic battles, Darius had three hundred thousand men at Marathon, Xerxes lost two hundred thousand of his trops at Athens, where he is declared to the Executive went on with the mathave had a million; at Granicus the Persian army numbered six hundred thousand foot and twenty thousand horse; while three hundred thousand Goths were slain in one battle by the Romans. And so on. There is one battle of antiquity, however, which battle of antiquity, however, which all the writers seem to have over- President.—Toronto Globe. looked, and yet it makes all the other efforts at human destruction look feeble. It was fought between Abijah, King of Judah, and Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon and son of David, in the eighteenth year of Jereboam's reign. Abijah set the battle in array with an army of 400,000 chosen, men, as many as the Japanese and the Russians together had at Liaoyang; while Jeroboam also set the battle in array with 800,000 chosen men, being mighty men of valor. The result of the few words by the veracious chronicler. Abijah opened the battle with a speech and a prayer; Jereboam tried the effect of an ambushment, but it failed. The men of Judah gave a shout, and the children of Israel fled. "And Abijah and his people slew them with great slaughter, so there fell down slain of Israel 500, there fell down slain of Israel 500, and the rest of the acts of Abijah and his ways ard his sayings are written in the story of the prophet Iddo, which story is, however, not available at the present time. ### FOOTBALL

A very interesting game of foot-ball was played on Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon, when a team from St. Paul's Sunday School, Har-wich, defeated the First Presbyterian Sunday School team by a score of

2 to 1.
There is much rivalry between these two teams and every year they play a game for a silver cup. Rev. Mr. MacGillivray and James McCor-mick are the two managers of the teams, and they were both on hand on Saturday to cheer their little fellows. Quite a large crowd of lady spectators from St. Paul's was pres-ent, and they made themselves heard when the St. Paul's team was ahead.

The game was a good one, but the St. Paul's boys were too strong for their opponents. One good feature of the game was that it was entirely free from roughness. Referee Robin-son, the Tecumseh lacrosse team's son, the Tecumseh lacrosse team's goal keeper, had no chance to send anyone to the fence. The final score was 2-1 for St. Paul's. Both Mr. McGillivray and Mr. Mc-Cormick take a great interest in their boys, and for this they are to be complimented. They have decided to make this an annual game for a different cup each year, to be play-ed on the occasion of the annual Sun-day School picnic, which will be giv-en jointly by the St. Paul's and the First Presbyterian Sunday schools. The following was the line-up on

St. Paul's Sunday School — Goal, L. McNaughton; Backs, Ferguson and Zinc; Half Backs, W. Hill, D. Houston and L. Lowes; Forwards, D. Ferguson, Norman Woods, R. Proctor, R. Denn, And D. Bischorough Down and D. Riseborough.

WILL PLAY THE GAME OVER. At the meeting of the C. L. A. judijary last night at the Iroquois Treumseh protest against John White of Brantford was sustained, and the memorable game of Aug. 27, which ended when Referee Chitty was toppled off his feet by a Tecumseh player, and which was subsequantly given to Brantford, will be replayed at the Island. The room was pretty well filled when Harry Gillespie took the chair, President Frank not arriving until some minutes after the proceedings started. The members present were: J. C. Miller, Orlilia; F. Babcock, Chatham; F. E. Ellis, Oshawa: Browning, Aurora, and Secretary

The protest of Chatham against Marshall, of Orillia, was withdrawn. Mr. Miller, of Orillia, asked that the expenses incurred by his club in sendexpenses incurred by as club in send-ing Marshall down to defend the mat-ter be paid by Chatham. In connec-tion with Orillia's protest in regard to the goal scored by Chatham, which made the final game for the intermediate championship a tic, Referee Waghorne reported that he blew his whistle for an Orillia foul as a Chatham player shot the rubber into the net. Mr. Miller, of Orillia, claimed net. Mr. Miller, of Orillia, claimed that his contention was established. The ball was dead when the referee blew his whistle, and, consequently, Orillia won by 1 to 0. He asked that the intermediate championship be awarded to the Orillia club. On Chatham's behalf, Mr. Babcock pointed out that the charge against Marahall was laid under a misangrehenshall was laid under a misapprehenbefore the committee. They had not deposited the necessary $25 with the Secretary, as required by the rules, and were, therefore, not in a position to defend the protest. Mr. Babcock put in a check for the amount, and

The Executive decided to accept the referee's report declaring the a tie and to allow the Orillia club expenses for Marshall's transportation to Toronto. The tie was ordered to be broken on neutral grounds, place and time to be mutually agreed upon.

This has been a busy year in house building in Chatham and many new residences have been added to chis Some of these new houses are city. Some of these new houses are original in design and have added added to the beauty of the city. Amongst these may be mentioned the new residences of James Wright on Murray street and of Jno. W. Powers, William street. These two houses are very pretty and were designed by E. Blake Arnold, of the Blonde Co.

Here is a valuable suggestion from the New York Press: "Did you know that a hat is one of the best life pre-servers? Hold it either way. If you can possibly have the presence of mind, after falling into the water, place the brim under your chin so that the hollow will be upward, and that the hollow will be upward, and it will keep your head above the surface as long as you can hold it. Or turn it over, just as you wear it, and hold on to the brim with both hands lightly. The air in the crown will give it buoyancy enough to keep you afloat.

Yes, of course, Gilbert supplies the best. Call him up at 119 for your next order of coal or wood. mws A novelty in the dairying business is just now being placed before On-tario butter makers. It is the 've-neering of butter with a coating of neering of butter with a coating on sugar. This is being done on a large scale now in England. The butter is first salidified in cold storage, and then painted over with a hot solu-tion of melted sugar. This enamels the butter and renders it impervious to atmospheric influence. This is of particular importance to the On-tario buttermakers just now, as the Danish and Russian buttermakers are flooding the British market with their product, to the serious detri-ment of the Canadian article.

GOOD ROADS At the Cowanville Cheese Board the other day President S. W. Foster remarked:

"The farmer is, in many respects, a remarkably short-sighed individual. He will drive uncomplainingly over He will drive uncomplainingly over roads which add greatly to the cost of conducting his business, because he cannot appreciate the economy of spending money in providing first class highways. In the same way he will, without a protest, allow one of his neighbors to send tainted milk to the factory though that tainted milk may affect the quality of the factory's product so that the return he receives for his own milk, which he handles carefully, is materially he receives for his own milk, which he handles carefully, is materially lessened. If a neighbor was to move back a line fence half a dozen feet during the night in order to annex a part of his own oat crop he would howl, but he will, fully aware of the fact, allow that neighbor to send tainted milk to the factory and accept a smaller return than he should receive without a murmur. If he receive without a murmur. If he blames anyone it is the market. If the latter objects to the tainted milk as conditions are at present, the patron has only to say that the maker at the next factory will be glad to get it, and the fear of losing a pateron makes him accept it. As Mr. Foster reasons, if the makers were licensed and made responsible for the purity of the milk received by them the man who, through indifference or carelessness, brought tainted milk to the factory, would be specially com-pelled to mend his ways for lack of a market, because one licensed maker would not do what another had re-fused to do."

Referring to the road remarks of Mr. Foster, Judge Houston said there was a good deal in it. "Take for instance the Raleigh-Harwich Town Line," pointed bur Mr. Houston. "That road is 15 minutes heavier between Charing Cross and Chatham tween Charing Cross and Chatham than it was 30 years ago. The farmers pay too little attention to the roads and are satisfied annually to scrape the mud out of the ditches and spoil the roads. If they would spend the energy wasted in this way on securing gravel, they would have roads that would benefit them financially as well as being a pleasure one easy chair, one oak rocker, two cially as well as being a pleasur to drive on."
