Honor to Whom Honor.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ACADIAN: Dear Sir,—I feel that I cannot allow the letter appearing in last week's issue of THE ACADIAN and signed 'Cox' to pass without correction. The writer has implied that the Boy Scout Bardsmen are 'shirker,' not 'workers.' I hope that she is a stranger to this town, or surely she would know that without exception all members of the Band and practically all members of the Rank and File are working and working hard. The Scouts have subscribed over $4000 to the Burs and Give Campaign and a number of them—particularly the Bardsmen—are enrolled as 'Soldiers of the Soil.' Thirty-two members of our troops are at the front, and we have received letters from several of them congratulating Scouts here on being 'workers' and not 'shirkers.' Yours truly, MARJORIE E. BROWN

A Former Acadia Professor

Prof. Harold Garnet Black, a Nova Scotian, who was Professor of English in Acadia College for a time, was the principal in a brilliant wedding at Santa Ana, California, recently. His bride was Miss Ursula Mae Lee, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Edward Lee, a graduate of Cornell College, Iowa, and of U.S.C., Los Angeles, and for several years she has taught in the public schools in Santa Ana. Prof. Black taught school in Santa Ana for two years and is at present on the staff of the Sacramento High School. The wedding took place in the First Methodist church, which was transferred into a bower of bloom. At intervals about the balcony were hung graceful baskets filled with gorgeous hydrangeas and greenery, and the altar was banked with feathery bamboo and a profusion of wild grasses. Wicker baskets filled with collected vases added to the prettiness.

Mrs. T. A. Toomey, of Clinton, Iowa, sister of the bride, presided at the organ, and played a delightful program. Miss Annie Snow sweetly sang 'At Dawning,' and Mrs. Toomey turned to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March as the bridal party entered the church. First walked the maid of honor, Miss Muriel Lee, youngest sister of the bride, winsome in a gown of pink organza and carrying a cluster of Cecile Brunner roses. She was followed by the little flower maiden, Miss Velda Prazier, cousin of the bride, clad in crispy white, with pink trimmings, and carrying a basket from which she scattered rose petals in the pathway of the bride. Miss Lee entered leaning upon the arm of her father, and she made a beautiful picture in her wedding robe of white beaded Georgette crepe, with her bridal veil gracefully draped about the head. The bridal procession was met at the altar by the groom, his groomsmen, Randolph Patton, of Orange, and the assisting clergyman—Rev. Harcourt W. Peck Rev. Edward Lee, father of the bride, read the marriage ceremony, using the ring.

Professor and Mrs. Black left for a trip to Honeyland for a week's stay. They will return to Santa Ana for a visit, and on their way north will stop at Yosemite, planning to be at home in Sacramento September 1.

Red Cross Notes.

There will be a meeting of the Red Cross Society Saturday, August 3rd, at 3 p. m. All members are asked to attend.

Red Cross Knitters are urged to avoid making knots in the feet of socks for soldiers, these cause blisters which may lead to blood poisoning; also to knit the fit-on heel as it is smooth and easy and has no tight edge of the old fashioned heel. We are asked to thoroughly wash all socks before sending them to be packed.

Mrs. Judson Pulsifer, of Greenwich, gave a most enjoyable lawn party Thursday evening, July 25th. The proceeds were given to the Red Cross and amounted to $31. Mrs. Pulsifer intends giving a number of these parties and we wish her all success.

Financial statement for July: Amount on deposit, $72.12; Receipts, 117.65; Expenditure, 20.86.

Her: 'Why did you feel to recognize me in the street today?' She: 'I didn't see you.' Her: 'That's strange. I saw you twice.' She: 'Oh, that probably accounts for it. I never notice a man in that condition.'

A 'Rara Avis.'

C. A. Patriquin brought into town on Wednesday a real curiosity in the form of a pure white robin which he found near his home the day before. Those who first saw the strange bird were attracted by the apparent excitement among the feathered inhabitants of the orchard, who were apparently amazed at the young stranger's appearance. Bird students in the neighborhood are unable to learn of any precedent.
