THUMB NAIL MAN TALKS.

Pritchett's Evidence in the Lone Conspiracy Case.

Said He Was Engaged to Instruct Officers to Manipulate Ballots.

Left Canada to Avoid Arrest and Was Paid While He Was Away.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Upon condition that the Crown would andertake to show the existence of a constitute via the people in Dominion and Provincial elections, Judge Winchester yesterday consanted to proceed trial of John O'Gorman, W. J. Mulloy, Daniel Wylie and George Reid, four defendants, went on after a good deal of argument between counselfor the Crown and defence. His Honor expressed some doubts as to his jurisdiction, and at intervals observed that if the opposing counsel could not agree upon the points of procedure at issue he would send the case to the Criminal Assizes, which opened yesterday.

John G. Pritchett, an ex-Alderman of John G. Pritchett, an ex-Alderman of London, and now a congractor, one of the chief witnesses for the Crown, was on the witness stand most of the sitting, detailing his alleged connection with "ballot-switching" and other alleged crimes in the elections in South-Ontario, Brockville, Hastings, West Huron and West Elgin. The man was granted the protection of the court, although he was told that in the event of a charge of perjury being preferred against him the evidence might be used at his trial. His examination was not concluded at the hour of adjournment. Pritchett will examination was not concluded at the hour of adjournment. Pritchett will take the stand again this morning.

The evidence of Pritchett has only involved the defendant O'Gorman thus far in the alleged conspiracy. Bail was accepted for the appearance of the four defendants this morning.

John G. Pritchett said he came on to the Walker House here at the time of the South Ontario election at the instance of John O'Gorman, one of the defendants, and met, besides Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. Alexander Smith, the former Liberal organizer. Liberal organizer.

"What were you to do in the elec-tion?" asked Mr. Staunton.
"I was to show how to manipulate ballots," replied Mr. Pritchett, who, con-"I was to show how to manipulate ballots," replied Mr. Pritchett, who, continuing, explained that he was to spoil the ballots with a piece of lead inserted under the finger-nail. The process was shown to his Honor, after which the trip to South Ontario was detailed. Deputy returning officers whom he had seen in the riding and who were shown how to spoil ballots were referred to by Mr. Pritchett, who also told of a drive he had taken with Mr. James Vance, another Liberal organizer, to a man in Pickering, who had not then received his appointment as a returning officer. Pritchett said he paid over to a man at the Whitby Hotel the sum of $59, being directed by a man named Brant. A number of people, Pritchett said, got $4, and one or two $6. For his work in the campaign he received over $100 and expenses. Pritchett said he met Tom Lewis, a London hotelman, in the riding, and he was also told that "Conny" O'Gorman (now dead) would be there, too.

The Brockville Election.

Pritchett claimed he was also engag ed by O'Gorman to go down to Brock-ville, and on the way he stopped off at the Walker House here, and was told he would receive his instructions from Mr. would receive his instructions from Mr. Smith, the organizer in the riding. Pritchett said he was to instruct the deputies how to switch ballots, and each time the deputy was to receive, he said, not more than $5 if the original ballot was produced. The witness was handed two hallots, and told to explain to the court how he "switched" them. The trick was executed so well that even the Crown counsel was deceived. The man on the witness-stand told His Honor he found a pad of ballots in his room at the hotel. At the election, he said, he acted at a booth where Mr. Jones was the deputy, and where, he said, some "switching" was done. Pritchett took credit for having successfully obstructed the view, so that the opposing scrutineer could not letter the allocal was not proved that the supposing scrutineer. Drit that the opposing scrutineer could not detect the alleged wrongdoing. Prit-chett also said he had contradicted Mr. Jones when the latter had, it is claimed, desired payment for manipulating twelve ballots. On the way back to To-ronto Pritchett said he was paid $75 by O'Gorman.

Deputies Not Approachable.

Pritchett then gave a history of the election in West Huron, when Messrs. Holmes and MsLean were the candidates, and when O'Gorman, he said, ask, ed him to go. A couple of deputies were seen, but were found not to be approachable. One man named Farr, Pritchett said, was instructed in switching at the instance of two Liberal workers, Messrs. Horton and Grant, Where Pritchett acted as scrutineer, the Conservachett acted as scrutineer, the Conserv tive representative detected something tive representative detected something wrong in the holding of the hands in the pockets, but Pritchett explained that he was satisfied the deputy was within his rights. The witness admitted taking part in the celebration of the victory, and Mr. Staunton was bringing out in evidence the parties who were in the hack with Pritchett when His Honor made the observation "that no jury was present."

made the observation "that no jury was present."
Pritchett, continuing his evidence, explained he went down to Hastings on the strength of a telegram from Toronto, being told to see Mr. James Vance in the riding. One deputy was instructed in switching, and Pritchett said he acted as scrutineer to a deputy who would not "stand for doing anything wrong." The witness also recalled the West Elgin election, in which he acted as a deputy returning officer under the name of Johnston. Pritchett admitted switching ten or twelve ballots, and smiled when he said he had given the first Liberal majority ever recorded at the booth, which was between Fingal and St. Thomas.

After this election, at the Huron Hotel in London. Pritchett said John O'Gorman: told him he would have to get out of town or be arrested the next morning. While away he said he was to get 8100, and left the city that night for Detroit. In all he received while away $025, and returned to London when his allowances were cut down to $50 a month.

ceived after leaving London. The money he got came from London.

Mr. U. A. Buchner, a London barrister, and the returning officer at the Hyman-Gruy election, was examined early, it being reported to His Honor that he was ill. He made the apointment of deputies and chose Jeremiah Collins, whose appointment was protested by Mr. J. P. Moore, agent for the Conservative candidate. The choice of Mr. Percy Brackvin was also questioned, but they were allowed to act, as no exception was taken to them in writing and not till after the ballot-boxes had been given out. In answer to Mr. Johnston, the returning officer said there was nothing wrong about the election. Mr. Buchner said Mr. Meredith, a Conservative, had suggested that the Conservatives name half the returning officers, but as it was the custom for the party in power to names them he accepted the responsibility.

SUSPECTED BANK ROBBERS

Two Men Arrested by Montreal Police

at St. Lambert.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—The two men captured last night at St. Lambert by the Montreal detectives were examined today. One gave his name as John Brown of Berlin, Ont., aged 35 years, and the other as Thomas Hudson, aged nineteen years, a Scotchman by birth, for years a resident of Lindsay. When questioned by Chief Carpenter the men told of having wandered all over the continent in company with many of the most famous burglars and safe-crackers on the continent, and the local police are satisfied that the men are dangerous characters. Both men were plentifully supplied with 44 and 38 calibre cartridges, but their revolvers were thrown away when the police cornered them. At their camp quantities of soap and nitroglycerine, such as is used by safe-crackers, were found.

Before Judge Lafontains to-day they pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy and were remanded for a week. It is thought that they are responsible for the bank robbery at Napierville on Friday night.

THREW AWAY $175.

Ottawa, Ont.—Some horny-handed philosopher once remarked that there was no such thing as luck. Another misguided thinker stated that money could not buy health. Both of these fallacies have been exploded here in Ottawa. Certainly, when a man loses $175, and then finds something worth many times that amount—he is lucky. And when a man is suffering from disease, and can get relief by buying a certain medicine, then money buys happiness as well as health. At least, that is the way Mr. M. Dery looks at it. "Having suffered for over a year with dyspepsia and indigestion, I spent over $175 for doctors, without relief. Hearing of "Fruit-a-tives," he continues in his letter, "I decided to try them. The result is, that I am completely cured after using only two boxes. I cannot praise Fruit-a-tives enough, and I would not be without them in the house."

Good digestion requires strong stomeach muscles and plenty of gastric juice. This dissolving fluid is taken from the blood. If blood is poisoned by constitation—sick kidneys—or weak skin action—then gastric juice will be weak. "Fruit-a-tives" act on the three great the candian Geological Survey, who was and skin—keep these organs healthy—literations and this content of the strength of honor, was introduced by Mr. Cy warman, the toastmaster, as follows:

KAISER'S VISIT TO ENGLAND RE-VIVES DISCUSSION OF SCHEME.

Hinted That the Emperor May be Again Looking to Britain for Financial Aid -France and Russia Would Probably

London, Nov. 18.-The presence of the German Emperor in England has revived the discussion of the Bagdad railway scheme. The concession was obtained some years ago from the Turkish Government by a German company, which, however, lacked the funds to utilize it. England, France funds to utilize it. England, France and Austria were successively appealed to for aid. Britain declined because it was said that the road, which is intended to form a short route from the Levant to the Persian Gulf, would endanger her trade with India, and might be used for strategic purposes by an enemy in operating against British possessions in Asia. France declined because the line was condemned in St. Petersburg as a menace to Russian interests in the near East, and France did not wish to antagonize her ally. Austria declined to help her partner in the Driebund because she did not have the money.

OUTLAY ON GERMAN NAVY.

Estimates for Next Year Increased by $15,000,000.

Berlin, Nov. 18.—The Imperial navy estimates provide for the outlay in 190° of $85,000,000, which is $15,000,000 more than in 1907. There will be a progressive increase in the estimates until in 1912, when they will reach $97,500,000. During the next four years Germany will lay down annually three battleships, which will not be smaller than the British Dreadnought, and a huge armored cruiser similar to the 19,000-ton ship now building at Hamburg.

It is figured that Germany will have in 1918 38 first-class battleships, of which 24 will be of the Dreadnought class, and eight of the 19,000-ton cruisers Each battleship and cruiser will cost $9,125,000. This high price is largely due to the armament, which will be immensely strong. The present estimate allots $1,750,000 for submatines, and this amount will be the future annual outlay on boats of this type. Twelve new torpedo-boat destroyers will be built each year.

sin the near East, and France did not wish to antagonize her ally. Austria declined to help her partner in the Driebund because she did not have the money.

Germany, it is said, is still eager to interest British financiers in the project, and the Kajser's visit may have been prompted by a desire to further his plans for opening up Asia Minor. It is argued in some quarters that as the Bagdad railway will certainly be built in time Britain should not repeat the error committed when she left France to cut the Suez Canal, and obstinately shut the door against German overtures concerning a scheme the importance of which in opening up Asia can hardly be overestimated. In any event, however, it should not be forgotten that the line would be controlled from Wilhelmstrasse, and Britain's furthering such control by financial aid would certainly be considered an unfriendly act in St. Petersburg, and possibly also in Paris, where Anglo-French good-fellowship is still subordinate to the practical bonds of the dual alliance.
