[TO THE EDITORS OF THE STAR.]

DEAR SIRS,—

I had the pleasure of witnessing an interesting contest at the Alexandra Park, on Wednesday last, between the Alexandra Cricket Club of this town and the Victoria Club of Carbonear. Although no large scores were made, the game was well contested. The bowling was remarkably good, and that of Paterson and Nelson very effective. The style of Sprague's bowling was admired very much, although it did not succeed in taking many wickets. The batting was rather inferior, and a good many of the players had to be content with their "egg." The only stands made were of Nicholl for 11; Murphy, 11; and S. Taylor, 10. I was sorry to see the cause for dissatisfaction that characterised the second innings—leaving a doubt as to who actually won. I would humbly suggest that the match remain drawn, and that the return match decide who will be victors.

DOUGLAS,

July 5th.

IN MEMORIAM.

JAMES MEECH, DIED 2ND MARCH, 1872.

Oh! dearest friend, I cannot think That thou,—just in your bloom,— Art called away from earth to rest Within the silent tomb.

To me it seems an idle dream Some fancy of the brain To think I'll never hear your voice Nor see your face again.

Oh when the pensive twilight hour Around its gloom does shed A dreary voice sounds in my ear, And whispers, thou art dead.

They tell me it is wrong to weep That I will meet you by-and-by In that blessed world that knows no grief, Those realms of bliss beyond the sky.

Yes! sorry is a stranger there; All, all is peace and joy and love; Dear husband we shall meet again, And ever dwell with God above.
