The Government Cannot be Returned.

No man of ordinary sagacity would contemplate the possibility of the return of the present Government. The forces that are arrayed against them are strong and determined Strong because they have united these forces in their common interest. which is a degire to save the country complete ruin. Determined because they have suffered sorely from destructive legislation introduced by Coaker and sanctioned by Squires and his associates. The merchants have been seriously interfered with and their business interests shattered, if not wholly destroyed, by Coaker's interference with the Trade and Fisheries. The fishermen have found themselves practically ruined, supplies for the fishery have been curtailed and the fish markets have become so demoralized that they cannot get a living price for the product of the fisheries. The laborers find themselves out of employment their families in want, because Coaker blocked the channels of trade by insane legislation. The mechanics are idle for similar reasons. The country which was flourishing in 1919 under Cashin is now reduced to a state bordering on bankruptcy. In the face of all this Squires and Coaker have the audacity to come before the country and the merchants whom they have ruined seeking their support. They say in effect, "We know that we have made a mess of things, that we have jeopardized your business, but what about it? We can make you forget all about this and throw dust in your eyes by a Humber Deal. Put us back to power to finish our work. Once we get back to office it will not worry us if we finish you too." They say to the fishermen, "Yes, we have ruined the fish markets and impoverished the fishermen, but forget it, give us a few more years to finish our work." To the laborers they say, "We know you have had a hard time, but we believe that when we preach a Humber Deal to you without telling you what the terms of it are, or what pay you are going to get, that you will swallow it all, bait book and sinker, and we want to get back to finish our work. Above all, we want those trips to Europe again to enjoy ourselves with a good time in the most costly hotels at your expense." It-is inconceivable that those people who have suf-

AND NOW THEY MUST PAY THE PRICE OF THEIR TREACHERY.

When Small, Warren, Foote and Cheeseman are confounded with conditions on the West Coast, and when their constituents ask them why they permitted Coaker to ruin them and their industry, what answer can they give? They probably will say that Coaker was responsible, that having the Union members behind him he was strong enough to force his views upon the Government. But is this excuse good enough for those members of the West Coast who were elected not to back Mr. Coaker but to protect the industries of their constituencies. Whatever came, they should not have allowed Coaker to dominate everything to the detriment of the interests of those whose interests they were elected to protect. If Coaker is responsible for the conditions that now exist, what excuse can they give for again supporting the Government - Squires, Coaker and their policy. They know that Coaker is again seeking control. They know that he has Union candidates in several districts, and they know, and the people all know, that if the party is elected with a majority Coaker will again control the Government in the same way as he has controlled it the past three years. Where then is the security for the fishermen in electing men who must do as Coaker orders them, mere puppets and pawns who dare not refuse to support him even to the destruction of their own constituents. The people of the West Coast realize the danger of electing Coaker candidates. They know that Small, Warren, Foote and Cheeseman are candidates who must support Coaker in the future as they have done in the past if he should get power, but they will take no chances and gravel with good will for every man. will turn them down.
