

A RACKING COUGH

AFFLICTED THE SUFFERER FOR TWENTY YEARS.

OFTEN SAT UP IN BED COUGHING THE WHOLE NIGHT LONG—DOCTORS ULTIMATELY TOLD HIM THE TROUBLE WAS DEVELOPING INTO CONSUMPTION—HOW RELIEF WAS OBTAINED.

From the Times, Picton, Ont.

Nothing racks the body more than a severe cough. If it is allowed to run for any length of time, it is very hard to get rid of, and often leads to that most dreaded of all diseases—consumption. Such a sufferer was Mr. Thomas Jinks, of Prince Edward county. Mr. Jinks relates the following facts to a Picton Times reporter: "I am sixty-seven years of age, and for the last twenty years I have had a bad cough. I was troubled with catarrh, which started in my head, but later spread to my stomach, leaving me dyspeptic. For two years I was troubled with pains in the stomach, and was not able to raise my arms above my head without experiencing severe pains about my short ribs and stomach. Then my kidneys began to trouble me and at times I could not get out of a chair without help. My limbs and my feet were often so swollen that I was unable to lace my boots, but as soon as the swelling went down I was but a mere shadow. My wrists and arms were so shrunken that I could span them with ease. My cough racked my whole body. I have sat up in bed and coughed the whole night long. I tried several doctors without success. They finally told me I was in the first stage of consumption. In the spring of 1899, a little pamphlet was thrown in the hall door telling about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. Before finishing the second box, I noted a change and after using them for a couple of months, I was completely cured and the cough had left me. At present my health is as good as I can wish for, and I can truly say through all my suffering, I never got any permanent relief until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Mr. Jinks added that it was not in his own case alone that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had proved of advantage in his family. His daughter, Miss Mildred, was in very poor health, and scarcely able to go around. In fact, her friends feared her trouble was developing into dropsy. She used five boxes of the pills and is now enjoying the very best of health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such apparently hopeless cases as Mr. Jinks, because they make new, rich red blood, and thus reach the root of the trouble. These pills are the only medicine offered the public that can show a record of such marvellous cures after doctors had failed. If you are at all unwell, this medicine will restore you to health, but be sure you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for pale people," on the wrapper around each box.

Miss Kittish—I believe that Mr. Whiffart is scarcely human. Miss Brock—He deliberates a great deal in his speech, humming and having a great deal. I know he says "er—er" every few words, but what has that to do with it? Well, you know that the error is human.

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure Backache, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 73 years old, I now am able to do all my housework." It overcomes Constipation, improves Appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at J. E. Richards' drug store.

Get what you ask for.

When you ask for any of Dr. Chase's Remedies look for his portrait and signature on the box, otherwise you may get an imitation. Beware of the druggist who tries to induce you to take something said to be "just as good." If he substitutes medicines he will substitute drugs in prescription. Insist on getting what you ask for and remember that there are no family remedies to be compared to those of Dr. A. W. Chase, author of the famous Recipe Book.

QUEEN VICTORIA RALLIED.

Her Majesty Astonished All and Pleased Her Physicians.

Monday Evening Emperor William Was Admitted to the Sick Chamber and Had a Brief Conversation With His Grandmother—Queen Then Fell Asleep in the Arms of the Princess of Wales—Reassuring Bulletin at 5 a.m.

East Coves, Monday, Jan. 21, 6 a.m.—A telephone message from Osborne House to the lodge gate says that most of the members of the royal family are lying down within easy call of the sick room. No further rally is expected. Osborne House, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.—The Queen has rallied slightly. Since midnight Her Majesty has taken more food and has had some refreshing sleep. There is no further loss of strength. The symptoms which give rise to most anxiety are those which point to a local obstruction in the brain circulation. (Signed) James Reid, R. Douglas Powell, Thomas Barlow.

Just Holding Her Own.

Coves, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21, 12.15 p.m.—The Queen is just holding her own.

Coves, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21, 12.15 p.m.—The Queen's slight rally of this morning was followed by a gradual sinking, which, if continued, will result in her speedy death. No surprise will be felt here if her death is announced at any moment.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

Continued, will result in her speedy death. No surprise will be felt here if her death is announced at any moment.

Emperor and Prince Arrive. Coves, Jan. 21, 12.15 p.m.—Shortly before this announcement was made Emperor William, the Prince of Wales and their party drove up to Osborne House. A good sized crowd had met them as they disembarked at Coves. Naturally there was no cheering, but the men present took off their hats, and the German Emperor cordially and frequently responded by bowing. They drove to Osborne House in open carriages.

Grief of the Prince.

The Prince of Wales appeared to be half dazed and the Duke of York's eyes were red, while the Duchess of Connaught never ceased crying. There was intense relief at Osborne on the arrival of the Imperial and Royal party, for several times during the morning it was feared the Queen would not live to hear of the Prince of Wales' return.

Paralysis Nearing Vital Parts. Coves, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21, 4.30 p.m.—A slight improvement is said to be visible in the Queen's condition, but there is no hope of anything but a fatal ending. The night is awaited with the greatest anxiety. Paralysis is spreading to vital parts. Nourishment is being artificially administered. The Palace is packed. There is scarcely room for the Emperor and Germany and his staff. With the exception of newspaper correspondents, there are only a few people outside the gates.

Home Secretary Re-Summoned. London, Jan. 21.—The Secretary of State for Home Affairs, Mr. C. T. Ritchie, who had temporarily left Osborne, has been re-summoned.

London, Jan. 21, 4.47 p.m.—Although no official bulletin has been issued since 11 o'clock, a telephone message, timed at Osborne House 4 p.m., says:

"The Queen is very slightly better."

There is little trouble, however, in the rally proving permanent.

Improvement Maintained.

Osborne House, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21, 5 p.m.—The following official bulletin has been posted:

"The slight improvement of the morning is maintained. (Signed) James Reid, R. Douglas Powell, Thomas Barlow."

Slightly Rallied.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The British Embassy has received the following cablegram from Lord Lansdowne, the British Minister of Foreign Affairs: "The Queen has slightly rallied since midnight."

Spoke to Emperor William.

London, Jan. 21.—(Evening)—A special despatch from Coves this evening says Emperor William was admitted to the Queen's presence at about 5 o'clock. She spoke a few words to him, and after two or three minutes he withdrew. The Queen took a little nourishment, and fell asleep in the arms of the Princess of Wales.

Slightly Improved.

Coves, Jan. 21.—(7 p.m.)—The Queen's condition is slightly improved.

No Change at Midnight.

Coves, Jan. 22.—(12.30 a.m.)—The following is the full text of the bulletin issued at midnight: "There is no material change in the Queen's condition. The slight improvement of the morning has been maintained throughout the day. The food has been taken fairly well and some tranquil sleep secured."

No Further Bulletins.

Coves, Isle of Wight, Jan. 22.—(5 a.m.)—Up to this hour no further bulletin has been issued.

The correspondent of the Associated Press here is informed that the Queen's condition has undergone no change.

Expected to Live Till Thursday. Coves, Jan. 22.—(5 a.m.)—The Queen is expected to live until Thursday morning unless unexpected complications occur.

"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN."

Emperor William, With Bared Head, Listened to the National Anthem.

London, Jan. 21.—On his arrival at Portsmouth Emperor William was met by a guard of honor. The party, however, dispensed with the usual formalities, and immediately went on board the Royal yacht Albatross. As the yacht started for Coves the band of the flagship, the first-class battleship Majestic, struck up the national anthem, and Emperor William and his Royal relatives reverently bared their heads.

Object of the Kaiser's Visit.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—(1 p.m.)—The Foreign Office has received information since Emperor William's arrival at Osborne House, that the condition of the Queen is hopeless. The Associated Press learns that the object of the Emperor's visit was to deliver special parting messages on behalf of himself and his mother, but it is believed at the British Embassy here, that the Queen has been unconscious since Wednesday night, but the members of the royal family have cancelled all invitations and acceptances.

Cabinet Meets.

London, Jan. 21.—The inner circle of the Cabinet has been in session this afternoon in connection with the official procedure in case of Her Majesty's death.

MAY LIVE FOR DAYS YET.

No Great Change Noted in the Condition of the Venerated Patient.

Coves, Isle of Wight, Jan. 22.—(1 a.m.)—Another day in the Victorian era, now so rapidly drawing to a close, passed without any great change in the condition of Queen Victoria. The slight improvement, so frequently mentioned in the official bulletins, merely indicates a postponement of the inevitable. The end may be a matter of days or only hours, but the members of the royal family, who are now dragging out a weary visit at Osborne House, know that the death of Her Majesty is merely a question of a short time. The most notable feature of yesterday was the satisfactory portion the Queen spent in consciousness, which still remained early in the afternoon, and still retained at 10 p.m. At that hour she had not seen Emperor William. the contrary notwithstanding. Royalty as Osborne thus had a chance to recuperate from the terrible ordeal undergone during the early hours of Monday.

Family Called Four Times.

The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed that the members of the royal family were called to a room adjoining the Queen's bedchamber no less than four times yesterday morning and were kept in momentary expectation of being summoned to witness the end up to half past five. Her Majesty's physicians then had only a vestige of hope that they would be able to keep the Queen's feeble life in existence until the Prince of Wales arrived. To secure this result they resorted to the frequent use of brandy and champagne. These stimulants, used to an extent which only the greatest emergency justified, worked their process, and when the Prince of Wales and Emperor William entered the castle grounds at 11.30 a.m. they found the Queen a trifle better than had been expected.

Desperate Remedies Discontinued.

The desperate remedies employed Monday morning to enable Her Majesty to live until her eldest son's arrival will not be used again to the satisfaction of the physicians. It is feared that the remedy might be almost worse than the disease. They trust to prolong the life by moderate application of stimulants, combined with the nourishment as can be assimilated. Such expedients as were employed during Sunday evening and Monday morning are not considered justifiable.

The Rally Astonished All.

The Queen's rally astonished no one more than her physicians. At 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, they heard her ask for chicken broth, their amazement at that entailed their anxiety. Privately, however, they build no false hopes. These fading signs of what has been one of the strongest constitutions with which a woman was ever created.

Despite the favorable afternoon, the doctors dreaded greatly the period between 6 o'clock and midnight, when the Queen safely passed they seemed hopeful of Her Majesty living at least another day.

According to present arrangements, the Queen will be taken to the palace at 11 o'clock, in the event of death, to be sent to the Lord Mayor of London.

Not a Time for Noisy Demonstration.

Never has Emperor William arrived at Osborne House in such a state of excitement. No salutes were fired, no cheers were given. The men of the guardship Australia silently manned her sides. The crowd was equally undemonstrative, the people contenting themselves with baring their heads. It was a greeting given to the grandson of the Queen, rather than to the ruler of a great ally.

Special Cabinet Train Ready.

London, Jan. 22.—(3.30 a.m.)—A special train is held in readiness to convey the members of the royal family to any place in England with no little celerity. The men of the guardship Australia silently manned her sides. The crowd was equally undemonstrative, the people contenting themselves with baring their heads. It was a greeting given to the grandson of the Queen, rather than to the ruler of a great ally.

Touching Tribute From Detroit.

Detroit, Jan. 21.—Mayor Maybury this morning paid a touching tribute to King Edward, the late monarch, by having the Boers did not operate to stay the Mayor's expression of honor for Queen Victoria. "This is the hour of death," said Mayor Maybury this morning, "and such things as the wrongs of the Boers should not be remembered. The Queen is a noble woman, one who will be a notable figure in history; her life as a wife and mother has endeared her to the whole world, irrespective of religious or political differences. She was not a Catholic, but a Protestant and a defender of the faith, but that does not prevent her from being a noble woman, one who will be a notable figure in history. She was not a Catholic, but a Protestant and a defender of the faith, but that does not prevent her from being a noble woman, one who will be a notable figure in history."

Decapitated by a Train.

Port Hope, Jan. 22.—Michael Hughes, an old and respected citizen of this town, was knocked down by the shunting engine in the Midland division yards here yesterday morning, and his head completely severed from the body.

THE PIG IN IRELAND.

Known as "the Gentleman That Pays the Rent." "Yes," said Tom Delany, "the wages are better now than they used to be. I'm getting 15 shillings a week now, and before it was only 10 shillings. I do not get employed regularly for seven months. What do I do during the winter? The best I can, faith. I do get an odd job at 1 shilling 6 pence a day repairing roads or stone breaking, and I have my own half acre at the back of the cottage there, which keeps me in praties and a little cabbage."

"Have you got a pig?" I asked.

"Bedad, I have, and a fine wan, too," said Tom in delight, as if very proud of his possession. "Come and see her." He brought me through a little gateway in the low wall which bordered his half acre allotment (a term, by the way, of which he did not know the meaning when I mentioned it), into a well kept little garden growing cabbages and potatoes. In a piggy in a garden I saw the pig—a fine fat wan indeed—grunting contentedly as she lay on her litter of straw.

"Will you kill her and eat her yourself?" I asked.

"Oh, faith, no!" he said laughingly. "She'll go to the market at Kilmacshane as this day week, please God, and I hope to get 5 or 6 pound for her, which will pay me rent and help bring me over the winter."

Of course, if I were an English tourist I would have expected to find the pig taking his ease in the coolest corner by the kitchen fire, "enjoyin," as the peasant once said, "all the inconveniences that an animal can aspire to."

The pig is known as "the gentleman that pays the rent," and was the property of William Carleton who first gave expression to the saying in one of his stories—and while the statement is not true as regards Irish agriculturists generally, for it is horned cattle, sheep and horses that pay most of the rents in Ireland, the pig has always played a very important part in the social economy of the small farmer and the agricultural laborer. Even their proverbs make that clear. "You're on the pig's back" means prosperity; "The pig is on your back" indicates misfortune.—Nineteenth Century.
