in the United States, distributed among ten states and one territory, representing an invested capital of $20,958,519, and producing 71,427 long tons of beet sugar, valued at $7,323,857. This small product for the large amount of capital invested was due largely to the fact that the census year was a disastrous one for the incorporated companies, and two by in-dividuals. In addition to the factories operated in the census year, six were under construction. The capital invested in new factories is $3,800,000, making a total of $24,758,519 for the new industry in the year 1900

pleasures of a bicycle tour than by the use of the camera. I venture to say that fully 50 per cent of our best customers are accomplished cyclists, and nine-tenths of the pictures made by them are made while in cycling costume. Photography, of course, owes much of its growth to the attractions of the pastime itself, but I believe it has been taken up by many
