WITH THE FAIR SEX.

A REMARKABLE JOURNALIST.

The youngest editor in the United States is Ethel Stout, a native of the State of Ohio, but now a resident of Florida. She was born in 1882, and has been an editor two years. Her father is a newspaper man. When 8 years old she expressed a wish for a paper of her own. Her father told her if she would set the type he would do the printing for her. She began at once a temperance paper, The Midget, at Delaware, Ohio, and in a short time got to be quite an expert compositor, She did her own editing, and now the paper is a quarto, published at Melbourne, Indian River, Fla., and has a circulation of nearly 10,000. Ethel is an enthustast, and gives one-tenth of all her income to the temperance cause. A REMARKABLE JOURNALIST.

WOMAN'S COURAGE.

WOMAN'S COURAGE.

Woman's courage is a thing of marvelous inconsistencies. There is Mrs. French Sheldon, who braved the caunibal wilds of Africa, yet cannot overcome her fear of cows. "I was in a land," she says, "where women sold for five beads, cows for ten, and only a woman can understand what I suffered to preserve a calm demeanor surrounded by cows," The average woman is afraid of a mouse, yet she will take her remeant of life in hand, brave contagion and carefully nurse loathsome fellow-beings in time of need. She is afraid to wear an old-fashioned gown, afraid of Mrs. Grundy and afraid of her oldest daughter, but she will bravely set about supporting the three fatherless little ones by taking in boarders or washing. A woman is afraid to soil her hands blacking the stove, but will risk her white soul over French literature.—[Boston Traveler.

PRETTY AND PLUCKY.

PRETTY AND PLUCKY.

The pluckiest school teacher in Connectiont, and as pretty as she is brave, is Miss Effle Walcott, of Newton. She teaches a small district school in Land's End, two miles from the Hawleyville station on the Housatonic Railroad. She lives in Newtown and goes to Hawleyville on the train every morning. On Wednesday, the day of the recent blizzard, she found that there would be no train, owing to the road being block-aded with snow. Wrapping her clock closely about her, pinning her skirt up to the height of her knees, with a pair of rubber boots on her feet, she started out and walked the distance from Newtown to Hawleyville, a little over ten miles, and then to the schoolhouse, two miles further on. She suffered no inconvenience from the remarkable walk, and won the hearts of the district committee by her plucky exhibition of endurance.—[New York Sun.

WOMEN AS WARRIORS.

There have been many women warriors in the world, but there have been very few whose deeds were such as to claim the adthe world, but there have been very few whose deeds were such as to claim the admiration of the country for any great length of time. Seldom, indeed, has a woman warrior been gracefully recognized by her Government. Within the memory of our grandparents there lived in England a woman named Hannah Snell, who, when but a girl, took the strange resolution of enlisting as a soldier. She served as a marine on one of the vessels of a fleet bound for the East Indies, and showed so much courage that she was repeatedly promoted. Her sex was unknown, and therefore it could never be claimed that Hannah Snell's success was due to partiality or favoritism. Once, when dangerously wounded, she extracted the ball herself, fearing that she might be discovered and discharged. After long service she returned to her native home at Worcester, England, where her advertures soon became spread abroad. The Government, on investigation of her really great career, granted her a pension of £20. She died full of years and laden with honors in an inn near Wapping.

"That makes no difference," said the conductor; "I couldn't allow my own dog here. Dogs must ride in the baggage car. I'll fasten him all right for you—"
"Don't you touch my dog, sir!" said the young woman, excitedly. "I will trust him to no one!" and with indignant tread she marched to the baggage car, tied her dog, and returned. About 50 miles further on,

Miss Eleanor Dean, of Boston, landed a 126-pound tarpon with rod and reel the other day in Florida.

SOCIAL PROGRESS.

WOULD BE TOO DREADFUL Mrs. Stowe was asked why she didn't write a book on temperance, like "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on slavery. She replied: "I have thought of doing so, but it would be too dreadful to read."

A COMPARISON.

Great Britain, with 35,000,000 people, spends as much for intoxicating beverages as the United States with 65,000,000. But her bequests for religious, educational and charitable purposes, exclusive of Baron Hirsch's benefactions, reached $15,500,000, as against $7,000,000 in the United States. Much of this difference is to be accounted to the contract of the states. for by the large amounts given in the latte country during the life of the benefactor.

GOOD TESTIMONY.

William Howett, the celebrated English William Howett, the celebrated English poet, became an active temperance worker after years of the moderate use of spirits, and he gave the following reasons for his preference to total abstinence, which constitute a good text for a temperance address: "1. My head is clearer. 2. My health is better. 3. My heart is lighten 4. My purse is heavier." Mr. Howett spoke from actual experience, just as did the great Rev. Sydney Smith, and his testimony is well worth repeating often.

SOLD THEMSELVES CHEAPLY. SOLD THEMSELVES CHEAPLY. According to M. Martin, ex-agent of the Panama Canal Company, the man who in 1888 brought to the public attention the scandals of official corruption, enormous quantities of wine were used by M. de Lesseps to bribe Parliament men and make them amenable to reason. He did not, according to Martin, invite these men to his house or hotel to have a friendly drink, mellow them and get them to make all sorts of promises, as men will do in their cups. He simply sent them the wine with his compliments, and they took it with all that it implied. The brands most used were Tokay, Chateau Yquem and Lafitte. Tokay, Chateau Yquem and Lafitte.

"SUM OF ALL VILLAINIES." "SUM OF ALL VILLAINIES."

Why should this "sum of all villainies" receive any more protection from law than gambling and the social evil, with which it is always associated, and of which it is the parent vice? The licensing of an evil is in itself an evil. Every vote cast for license is a complicity with it and its fruits. We are all coming with Dr. Cuyler to see that license is not only a "ghastly failure," but with the great churches to recognize that "it cannot be licensed without ain." With that conviction in our minds not as an "It cannot be licensed without sin." With that conviction in our minds not as an "ignorant conscientiousness," but as a demonstrated truth, we shall no longer tamper with expediency, but be ready for duty.—[National Temperance Advocate.

A WORLD'S "DRUNK."

A WORLD'S "DRUNK."

Chleago barkeepers have formed a "union" and will sak for increased wages during the Columbian Exposition. The company leasing the restaurant rights proposes to open S5 places on the fair grounds for the sale of liquor, and 50,000 barrels of beer have already been contracted for from a single brewery. West Side saloon-keepers are agitating for a higher license because, they say, with the present $500 fee, the city will be overrun with a crowd of new liquor-dealers who will scoop in all the extra profits from the exposition. Bless us! what a mistake we have been making. We thought it was to be a world's fair; is it, instead, to be a world's drunk!—[N. Y. Voice.

HAD HER OWN WAY.

It is sometimes better to permit public servants to have their own way than to go through life with a theory that every such person is a public enemy. The Chicago News tells a story of a young woman who entered a railway train with a poodle clasped tenderly in her arms.

"Madam," said the conductor, as he punched her ticket, "I am very sorry, but you can't have your dog in this car. It's against the rules."
"I shall hold him in my lap all the way," she replied, "and he will not disturb any one."

"That makes no difference," said the

THE PROGRESS OF REFORM.

Reforms move slowly, but as long as they move forward at all there is hope for final victory. For many years the efforts of hundreds of good men and women have been directed towards the abolition of intoxicating liquor at the New Year's receptions, which are such a prominent feature of social life in this city, and although success has not yet been achieved, the result is encouraging. Every year the success has not yet been achieved, the result is encouraging. Every year the number of houses at which wine is served to callers is fewer than the year before, which encourages those who are striving to have this great temptation to the young men removed to hope that the time is not far distant when young ladies will consider it a disgrace to offer their gentlemen callers intoxicating liquor.—[Christian Intelli-

FATAL FASCINATION.

FATAL FASCINATION.

Archdeacon Farrar is to-day one of the best known and most honored ministers in England and chaplain of the House of Commons. He is an earnest temperance worker. Recently in a public address he gave this experience: "At the entrance of one of our college chapels lies a nameless grave; that grave covers the mortal remains of one of the most promising fellows, ruined through drink. I received not very long ago a letter from an old school fellow, a clergyman, who, after long and arduous labor, was in want of clothes and almost food. I inquired the cause; it was drink. A few weeks ago a wretched clergyman came to me in deplorable misery, who had dragged down his family with him into ruin. What had ruined him? Drink. When I was at Cambridge one of the most promising scholars was a youth, who, years ago, died in a London hospital, penuliess, of delirium tremens, through drink. When I was at King's College I used to sit next to a handsome youth who grew up to be a brilliant writer; he died in the prime of life, a victim to drink. I once knew an eloquent philanthropist, who was a very miserable man. The world never knew the curse Failing Health, a victim to drink. I once knew an eloquent philanthropist, who was a very miserable man. The world never knew the curse which was on him, but his friends knew that it was drink. And why is it that these tragedies are daily happening? It is through the fatal fascination, the seductive screery of drink, against which Scriptures often warns. It is because drink is one of the surest of the devil's ways to man, and of man's ways to the devil."

St. Marguerite. The French Government has ordered that Charles de Lesseps shall be imprisoned in the fortress of the Island of St. Marguerite. In recent years St. Marguerite has been best known as the place of confinement selected for Gen. Bazaine, and whence he best known as the place of connements selected for Gen. Bazaine, and whence he managed to escape. But it has a historical record, the Man of the Iron Mask having been imprissed there, and imparting to the fortress something of a grim and mysterious character. The island of the Mediterranean, one of the Lerine group, is not a desirable place of residence. Its only inhabitants are the garrison and a few fishermen's families, and the climate is changesable and at seasons unhealthy. The French people generally regard the selection of St. Marguerite as the destination of Charles & Lesseps with disfavor. The castle has long been used as a prison of State, and the general opinion is that there is a secret desire to get rid permanently of those who are sentenced to confinement there.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Stomach Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk. This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strength-ener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

vervous diseases.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child on the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a convent state of debility of the brain supply marrow, and perves is the general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary fool does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves, For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve foot be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis prontain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous de-
