Smart Satin Hats To Top Fur Coats

Already the small satin hat has made its London debut. Honors are evenly divided between the bright-colored hats of shot taffeta and the darker colors which are enriched with metallic cloth, gay little flowers, and the glistening stitching of steel beads.

The popularity of the cloche is being successfully disputed by the becoming off-the-face hats, which are variously adorned with ribbon cabochons, taffeta and metallic flowers and touches of fur. The prevailing colors are tete de negre, black, gray and sand.

Chosen at random from this attractive display are: A demure little poke of black Skinner's satin and silver metallic cloth, with touches of fur $5.50

The new Chinese influence is exemplified in a little black hat, whose severity is relieved by metallic cloth in silver and exotic Chinese blue. A brilliant dagger has been thrust through the front $6.50

Moonbeam blue shot taffeta fashions a gay little chapeau, whose brim is outlined with an interesting color triad of maize, rose and apple green; the steel beads which embroider the crown are matched with a narrow steel ribbon $10.75

It's almost a tricorn—the smart little hat, with a sectional crown of taffeta in russet and tete de negre and an appliqued wreath of hand-made taffeta flowers on its jaunty up-tilted brim $10.50
