E. HAYES REED, Observer.

Why is a person said "to be called over the coals"? The older form of the expression is "hauled over the coals" and "called over the coals" seems to be a corruption of this. "To call" or "haul" a person "over the coals" is to take him to task for shortcomings, to scold him. Jamieson supposes the proverb to refer to the "ordure by fire" one form of which consisted in making the accused walk over burning embers, but it is much more probable that it originated in an even less defensible medieval practice. Whenever a king or baron wanted money he generally got it out of the Jews, torturing these unhappy persons till they revealed the locality of their treasure, or made the loan required by their tortures. For this purpose their teeth were often drawn out one by one—a tooth a day, but a common torture was to haul them over the coals of a slow fire. Another proverbial expression for a scolding or tormenting—to "give one a roasting"—probably comes from the same practice. In "Fynshoe," Front de Bouff threatens to haul Isaac of York, a Jew, over the coals.

The New York State Senate yesterday adopted a resolution congratulating Purcell upon "his magnificent victory and complete vindication in the investigation of the charges preferred against him by the London Times."

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER THE PUREST AND BEST.

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour, as a preservative, nothing else whatever. It is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonium phosphate, lime, and all the adulterants so frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the moist of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food. It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cases, full weight. CLEVELAND BROTHERS, ALBANY, N. Y.

The Hamilton Bridge and Tool Company has recently completed the construction of the steel viaduct over the Don at North Toronto for the Canadian Pacific Railway. The bridge is about 1,200 feet long. There are seventeen plate girder spans of 30 feet each, twelve spans of 45 feet each, and one lattice girder 100 feet long. The height from the water is about 75 feet, and the piers rise from a pier of masonry four feet square. The structure is 100 feet wide, and is what is called a deck bridge, the door being laid on top of the girders, and the roadway extending on either side. The total weight is 1,514,985 pounds. About 40 men have been employed all winter, and the work will be completed about the middle of March.

The last of the series of missionary meetings in connection with the English churches in the city and suburbs was held in St. Paul's Cathedral last night. The opening services were conducted by the rector, Very Rev. Dean Innes and Rev. W. T. Hill. The Right Reverend the bishop of Huron presided and addressed the meeting, both at the opening and the close, in his usual eloquent and earnest style. Rev. Principal Fowell, of this city, and Rev. R. Ker, of Stratford, both advocated the cause of missions at home and abroad in pleasing and forcible terms. There was a good attendance, and a liberal offering was taken up at the close.

Mrs. Samuel Kew, of 21 Rectory street, dropped down on the Hamilton road yesterday evening, about a quarter to 7 o'clock, and was carried into Mr. William Bechtel's house, but died in less than three minutes. She only spoke once, to tell those who lifted her up that she was dying. Mrs. Kew had been on a visit in the afternoon to a niece who lived on the same street, and was within a block of her home when she fell. She was about 35 years of age, and leaves a husband and five young children. Her illness was the cause of death. Doctors were called, but their aid was powerless to save her life.
