The patience of those who know the truth has been justly exhausted. Nothing short of this last righteeus and resolute action could in my opinion have enforced and ensured the enactment of further laws to supplement our most defective statute on this terrible subject."

Prof. Jas. Bruce, who has consented to sit on the committee of investigation, expressed the opinion yesterday that the difficulties of passing any opposed legislation like this bill through the commons are such as nothing but the pressure of a thoroughly aroused popular sentiment can overcome.

REPULSED BY THE POLICE.

CLEVELAND, O., July 15 .- The antici pated collision between strikers and police occurred this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting was held in Newburgh, and several reporters who entered were savagely thrown out. After the meeting 700 men, mostly Poles and Bohemians, formed into line and marched to the plate mill, into line and marched to the plate mill, which was in operation. The men in the plate mills were opposed to stopping work but were forced out finally by the foreigners and remained idle until yesterday, when the mill resumed operations. The mob increased in numbers as it progressed, and when it arrived at the mill it aggregated at least 1000 men. The aggregated at least 1000 men. The strikers were armed with clubs studded with nails, pieces of iron and large stones. The fifty policemen on duty were supplied with maces twenty two inches long and self-acting revolvers. Thirty-four nome to rest, preparatory to going on duty to night. They started down Ætna street and met the strikers. They turned and double-quicked it to the mill. They were hooted and stoned by the strikers. Deputy Superintendent MoMahon cave the order to fall in and a line was formed about thirty feet from the mill gate. The mob approached and McMahon asked what was wanted. One of the leaders replied that they were determined o close the mill. The police officers with them. The men in the rear ranks be-gan to throw stones. There was considerable hard talk, a push forward the two forces met. The strikers threw stones, slag and cinders, and flourished their clubs. The policemen used their maces and drove the strikers back inch by inch. The strikers fell by the score or recled away with blood streaming down their faces. They poured a terrific shower of stones, however, into their clubs to any advantage. Finally their clubs to any advantage. Finally their clubs to any advantage. Finally they fell back rapidly, and the police seeing the opportunity charged on a run, yelling the opportunity of the and then a rush. The police advanced and the two forces met. The strikers threw as fast as possible. The mob broke and ran, but the police kept up an untiring whack, until every striker was driven out of sight of the mill.

Six policemen and thirty-five strikers were wounded, some fatally. Only seven arrests were made.

This would necessitate a day's sojourn in Owen Sound. The address to be presented to the men will be written by Prof. Goldwin Smith. Telegrams have been received from several points outside the city asking for timely notice of the arrival, so that it is expected that large numbers of people from a distance will be in town to join in the welcome. If the railroads would run excursion trains there is no doubt but that thousands of our neighbors would be in Toronto from Saturday till Monday or Tuesday.

andurance to obtain this legal proof. The evidence is certain. In publishing statements so detailed and often so vivid he will encounter, as he has done, a great deal of obloquy, but on the other hand he has the fullest support of a very large number of men of all classes and of the highest influence in England. It should be easy to criticise articles of such a nature for all those who desire to hush up so atrocious an evil. I find expressions and narratives on which to fasten, but it would be ungenerous, cowardly and cruel to assail a man who has sacrificed himself to expose in the hope of checking, if not extirpating, an evil of portentous magnitude. It is to be further remembered that since 1881 every attempt to obtain a needed legal enactment has been continually and vexatiously defeated. Yet in 1881 a committee of the house of lords published a follo blue book detailing in the minutest particulars with irrefragable proof the enormities of this abominable traffic. Year after year the bill proposed to parliament has been weakened, defeated or talked out. The patience of those who know the truth has been justly exhausted. From the Chicago News.

The pressure of hard times begins to tell most emphatically upon the railroad interest of the country. Even the great New York Central could Excely aqueeze out one-half of 1 per cent. as its last dividend. At the same time rates on the trunk lines have come down to a point at which even the bankrupt roads, which are operated so as to merely meet their running expenses, cannot afford to any longer go on. That which most troubles the managers of the trunk lines at the present time is that, while they are doing a large business, as respects quantities carried, they fail to make any profit thereon on account of the extremely low rates. It now, with them, has come to the simple question "How long can we continue the present system without a total suspension of dividends?" One important fact connected with this threatened suspension of dividends is that it will make railway securities, heretofore considered first-class, ties, heretofore considered first-class, almost altogether unavailable as collateral for loans by backers and trust companies.
This would most unfavorably affect not only the money market but the status of some of our strongest moneyed institutions.

The orator of the day was Hon. James Carter of New York city. He said if the Greeks had lived by the falls they would have paid them divine honors, and said that this great natural wonder and the park just dedicated alongside constituted a fitting pledge of everlasting amity between the great republic and its powerful and monarchical neighbor.

Governor Robinson of Ontario then followed in a speech that was elequent and witty and in good contrast to his sober predecessors. He congratulated the citizens of the great state of New York on the event of the day, and hoped to see the day when a similar celebration would take place on his side of the river—unless, indeed, before that time Ontario had annexed New York. He pointed out in happy terms the difference that existed happy terms the difference that existed between himself and Gov.
