

ANY DYSPEPTIC CAN GET WELL

By Taking "Fruit-a-tives" Says Capt. Swan

Life is very miserable to those who suffer with indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach and biliousness. This letter from Captain Swan (one of the best known skippers on the Great Lakes) tells how to get quick relief from stomach trouble.

PORT BURWELL, Ont., May 8th, 1913. "A man has a poor chance of living and enjoying life when he cannot eat. That was what was wrong with me. Loss of appetite and indigestion was brought on by constipation. I have had trouble with these diseases for years. I lost a great deal of flesh and suffered constantly. For the last couple of years, I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" and have been so pleased with the results that I have recommended them on many occasions to friends and acquaintances. I am sure that "Fruit-a-tives" have helped me greatly. By following the diet rules and taking "Fruit-a-tives" according to directions, any person with dyspepsia will get benefit."

Seventy-Five Miles of Roses

The Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, Cal., are getting ready for the crowds that will visit that state next year—exposition year. They have just started to spend the sum of $400,000 in beautifying the roadways of that county. The first thing they will undertake is the planting of the seventy-five miles of roadway in the county with climbing roses. On either side of the road climbing roses will be planted, and to realize what this means one must have seen roses in bloom in California. They will also create at Exposition Park a wild flower show on a grand scale.

Drives Asthma Like Magic. The immediate help from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy seems like magic. Nevertheless it is only a natural remedy used in a natural way. The smoke or vapor, reaching the most remote passage of the affected tubes, brushes aside the trouble and opens a way for fresh air to enter. It is sold by dealers throughout the land.

A Wonderful Lamp

The St. Mary's Argus thus refers to a lamp that was displayed at a recent Hydro exhibition in that town. "This lamp," it says, "is known as the nitrogen electric lamp. It is different from the ordinary electric lamp in that its bulb contains nitrogen which seems to have the effect of giving a greater amount of light at a less expense and use of power. An ordinary Tungsten lamp uses 11 watts per candle. A 100 watt nitrogen lamp gives 200 candle power and a 100 watt Tungsten lamp gives 80 candle power. The 100 watt nitrogen is the smallest in use and gives the best satisfaction."

An Oil That is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over thirty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this hemisphere. There is nothing equal to it.

Dutton will organize a local chapter of the Daughters of the Empire.

William Frances died at Mount Brydges on August 29, aged 81, after a lengthy illness. He was one of the very early settlers of Caradoc, moving there in 1839 from his birthplace near Toronto, and the later years of his life were spent in making a collection of articles used in pioneer life. He accumulated perhaps the best sugar collection in Canada.

A NIGHT OF TERROR

Peculiar Experience With a Deadly Mexican Tarantula.

PENNY IN A DARK BEDROOM.

The Trying Ordeal Through Which a Woman Tourist Passed in a Hotel at Vera Cruz—Awaiting the Bite That Meant Madness and Then Death.

The tarantula is much larger in Mexico than in Italy. His four pairs of fuzzy legs, his speckled bulging belly, his abnormally fat head, armed with vicious nippers and equipped with eight eyes arranged in transverse rows, suffice to fill you with a wholesome desire to give him the right of way without ado.

Owing to the fact that he has an unwelcome habit of leaving his own realm in the tropical vines to make sociable little visitations to the corners of your bedroom it had always been my custom to search every nook and cranny of my sleeping room before retiring for the night. Twice had I seen native laborers, peons, in the agony of death due to a tarantula bite. So it was not surprising that this creeping thing headed my list of the many dangers to be shunned in Mexico.

I had just reached Vera Cruz from Mexico City, very tired, and decided to seek my room early in the evening, which, indeed, is the only safe and proper thing for an unaccompanied woman in Mexico to do. That part of the diligencias in which my room was located was evidently undergoing repairs, for a pile of timbers was included in the furnishing of my apartments.

No particular reason occurred to me why I should investigate this lumber, and, little realizing that it might shelter lurking danger, I flung my weary head on the dirty pillow. But as I lay quietly dozing off to sleep I suddenly heard a soft little noise, which one might describe as a cross between a hum and a hiss.

As a precaution against the many venomous things that creep and crawl even in the well beaten paths of Mexico I had made a careful study of the arachnids, to which class the tarantulas belong. I recognized that soft unostentatious warning that announced a roommate as undesirable as one could well wish.

Cautiously I stretched out my hand to see if by chance there were some matches on the little stand near my bed, with the result that I knocked the unlighted candle upon the floor. That was enough for my mettlesome roommate; he had been personally insulted by the noise, and suddenly in the utter darkness, that black stillness which one feels in a strange room, I detected a sickening odor, the warning of the angry tarantula.

I strained my ears to detect the soft, characteristic click that the male, the deadliest of the species, employs as a fancy trill to his malicious song. My blood chilled as I heard his muffled hum-click, hum-click, hum—apparently not three feet away. I held my breath, incidentally my nose, and lay wondering how long it would be ere I should feel his big fuzzy feet sneaking up the side of my neck or before his soft woolly body would light upon my face. It was not at all comforting to remember that one of a tarantula's eccentricities is to find his way to a point on the ceiling directly over the object of his anger and then to drop unceremoniously upon his victim.

It was the only time in my life when I longed for the bliss of ignorance. Would to heaven I had not studied this hideous horror of the tropics! But I had. Moreover, I had seen the awful effects of his worse than fatal bite, whose work of destruction was mercilessly long drawn out.

If the bite of a male tarantula infects a large artery it throws the victim into a dreadful state of crazed nerves. The incipient stages of the poisoning are accompanied by accentuated melancholia, followed by a shattering of the mentality. On gradually absorbing the venom the unfortunate subject reels and raves in a mad whirl until he swoons from pure exhaustion. The tarantella, the graceful Italian dance so often described in musical literature, derives its name from this hideous poisoning.

All this and more darted through my mind as I lay there in the darkness wondering if I, too, were doomed to die like a dervish. As the night wore on the buzzing grew less sedulous. I lay motionless during the thousand years till dawn, which came at last, a divinely soft, blue, shimmering shaft of light, which made things faintly visible. Cautiously I drew myself up to a sitting posture and craned my neck in a searching survey about my chamber of horrors.

There, in torture worse than mine, hung my roommate, four of his legs pinned beneath the timbers. There he sprawled, a mated but angry prisoner. His eight eyes winked me a militant "Good mo" and I forthwith returned the compliment with the slender shaft of my hatpin.—New York Sun.

The Easiest Way.
"I want the wages of a man; that's all I'm asking," said the "Votes For Women" orator.
"Then," said a man as he arose to speak, "I contend it isn't a vote that the lady wants. All she has to do is to get married."

Prefer loss before unjust gain, for that brings grief but once; this fever.—Child.

SUMMER TOKENS.

Souvenirs From Vacationists to Stay at Home Friends.

INEXPENSIVE GIFTS BEST.

Seaside Novelties That Are Always Popular—Dainty and Attractive Remembrances That Convey a Delicate Compliment to the Recipient.

Every summer journey, even if it be only to the next state, is productive of souvenirs for the friends at home. Something characteristic of the place you are visiting is usually a good choice.

If you pass the summer at a seaside place, for instance, make part of your diversion the gathering of shells. Arrange the rarest of them for some small boy who is collecting shells or who keeps curios of all sorts, as small boys have a habit of doing. Put the rest in little chintz bags or baskets for the various small children of your acquaintance.

Perhaps you are especially interested in some children's hospital or home. If so make bags of shells for the children in this institution.

For the rather proud old lady who lives in a boarding house, with a canary as her beloved companion, gather clean sand when the tide is low and pack it neatly into boxes—enough to last throughout the winter as a covering for the bird's cage floor.

For the young mother buy lace from the peddlers who always haunt seaside places with lace to sell.

Perhaps some one you know is especially interested in sailboats. For her make a collection of pictures of sailboats—snapshots with your own camera, postcards of sailboats, photographs bought at a seaside shop, etc.

For the botanist collect specimens of the flora of the locality. Press all the flowers and leaves you can find and label them carefully. They will prove an interesting addition to a botanical collection.

For the housewife the little tray illustrated here would make a gift much liked. The flowers and butterflies are a charming suggestion of summer.

An embroidery of this style might be purchased and then arranged in the tray frame.

Pressed wild flowers or mounted seaweeds combined with tiny shells may be attractively arranged for the decoration of these frame trays.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Cure.

Did you ever think as a hearse passed by that it would not be long until you or I would be taking a ride in that black plumed hack. And never remember the coming back? Did you ever think as you strive for gold that a dead man's hand can't a dollar hold? No matter how much you earn or save, You must leave it all when you go to the grave.

It is better to buy a cheap bouquet, For a living soul this very day Than a bushel of roses, white and red, To place on his casket when he is dead.
