

In our democracies any neglect of the citizen's right to health opportunity dishonours the concept on which our countries were founded -- that we should organize our society for the good of all. Any failure to do our part to help other peoples to good health weakens world citizenship. Recent progress gives us confidence that within the limits of this century we can achieve a new measure of freedom from disease in our countries while helping to unite the world in search of good health.

---

S/A