

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

THIS committee comprises a body of men who are able and willing workers, either on Committee or off it. Their faithfulness in response to so many calls during the operations is praiseworthy. A great deal of the work, i. e., brick, sand and stone hauling, excavating, carting the lumber from Brantford, removing the old sheds, etc., has been managed by them to lessen the expense of building. Not only this committee, but the whole congregation have manifested an active interest, and have responded admirably to the calls of this committee for assistance.
