Everything Bids Fair for a Greater Sale of Silverware Than Yet Has Been

LAST YEAR'S Sale of Silverware was large—this year's will be larger. Last year's Sale produced extraordinary values—this year's will produce values even more extraordinary. In quality of materials and excellence of design, as well as in quantity of pieces, the Sale offers greater inducements than any previous event of a similar kind. Only full-plated, standard-grade goods will be featured, the offering including three-piece tea-sets, salvers, bake dishes, butter dishes, marmalade jars, biscuit jars and flatware in plain and fancy designs.

A Stupendous Array of High-grade Furniture at Amazingly Low Prices

THE VERY CREAM of the season's furniture-making has been put into this gigantic Sale—carloads and carloads of the extra fine cabinet-making displayed at the recent trade exhibitions at Grand Rapids, Berlin, Toronto, Stratford, and other furniture centres, 12 carloads being secured from the Toronto Exhibition alone.

Furthermore, many manufacturers in Canada and the United States who had prepared for a normal season, have found that their supply exceeded their output. Our buyers have, accordingly, secured these surplus stocks at figures which barely cover the cost of production.

Then, too, with the advent of such furniture, we have been compelled, as a natural consequence, to reduce to proportionate prices any similar lines already installed in the department.

Finally, let it be emphasized that not one dollar's worth of the furniture was made specially for Sale purposes. Every piece, from the sawing of the logs to the finishing of the polish, has been constructed with the care and thoroughness the reliable manufacturer puts into his standard and exhibition productions.

Never, therefore, at any previous Sale has so remarkable an offering of value plus quality presented itself. All manner of high-grade furniture will be represented—complete sets and odd pieces for drawing-rooms, dining-rooms, bedrooms, living-rooms, halls and libraries in characteristic and period designs in mahogany, walnut, golden and fumed oak, white and grey enamel, and bird's-eye maple. BIOGRAPHER TELLS THE STORY OF GREAT ENGLISH CARDINALS

Lives of Wiseman, Manning, Vaughan and Newman Reviewed at Loretto Abbey by Wilfrid Ward — Was Personal Friend of Church Dignitaries, as Was Also His Father.

Intimate friendship, the association of herculean years of research, were all factors in enabling Mr. Wilfrid Ward, whose fame as a biographer is spread throughout the English-speaking world, to make the four great cardinals of modern England live in graphic pictures before a large and distinguished audience at Loretto Abbey yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Ward had known Wiseman, Newman, Manning and Vaughan. His father, before him was their close intimate, and he himself in later years had the privilege of familiar intercourse with one or more of these men.

Archbishop McNeill introduced Mr. Ward to the audience, as the biographer of distinguished English Catholics, and the fullness of knowledge which this office implies, the wonder was that the lecturer

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bad-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 65, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

succeeded by Manning, who in life had been his right hand and grand vizier. The policy of the new Archbishop of Westminster was one of caution and defence. He was a commanding figure in the eyes of the public, and to his predecessor, anything less boyish than Manning could not be imagined. At eight, he was a finished man of the world.

Manning and the Monk. While Wiseman had been a connoisseur of music, painting and sculpture, Manning did not know one note from the other. A monk who had come from abroad to visit him said: "I came to see a priest and I find the skeleton of a parson." With all this he was a ready speaker, who "could think on his hind legs." He served on the royal commission with the Duke of Norfolk and here his powers were recognized as great.

Perhaps the greatest claim of Manning to the gratitude of posterity is his work in connection with the development of boys' schools and his interest in procuring chaplains for the soldiers and sailors of the country. He believed firmly in strengthening the alliance between church and people.

A Striking Figure. Vaughan, the friend of Manning, had features that recalled those of the great

A GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are the only medicine for little ones that are sold under a guarantee to be perfect. These Tablets are backed by the guarantee of a government analyst to be strictly free from opiates, narcotics and other harmful drugs. The mother may rest assured that she can give them to even the new-born babe with perfect safety. Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones, and from actual experience they can say nothing can equal the Tablets in banishing childhood ailments. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Napoleon. He was worshipped by the boys in the college, where he taught, and when mounted on his magnificent horse he was the embodiment of the knightly soldier. At the home of the son and the artist, Mrs. Cameron, met the lady had been looking for a subject to depict as the popular knight of the round table. Seeing Vaughan, she at once exclaimed: "Alfred, I have found your Lancelot; there he is!"

Newman, the ascetic. A personal charm almost unmatched in history, was the attribute of Newman. In 1841 he was described by Aubrey de Vere as one who glided into the room a combination of an ascetic monk of the drawing room. He had a wonderfully sweet voice which he retained even to advanced old age. Newman believed that theologians should study the science of modern times, that learned men should argue things out and that the church was the only antidote against the rising infidelity of the times and was to act as the concrete representative of things inviolable.

Many Dignitaries. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Ward was given an appreciation of thanks on the part of all present, among whom were Right Rev. Archbishop Cody, Rev. Dean Harris, Justice Kelly and a large number of the clergy from the city and outside.

The noted lecturer has for a long time been friend of the Loretto community at Cambridge, where Mr. Ward first delivered the lecture given yesterday in Toronto.

MUST MAKE GOOD ON PRESENT LINES

Canada Can Not Duplicate Her Transcontinental Railway Programs.

(Special to The Toronto World) CHATHAM, Jan. 30.—During an address tonight before the Canadian Club, Arthur Hawkes of Toronto, in discussing the present Canadian situation, said that the trouble was that Canadians gave an air of magnitudinous mystery to things that were as plain as daylight. It required no more genius to know what was the matter with Canada than it did to count a flock of sheep. The Dominion had been spending very much more money than her increase in production warranted, and had not provided sufficient funds to escape the dislocation of labor and capital which was bound to accompany a decline in the stream of borrowed money poured into Canada. Everybody admitted there had been over-speculation in land and real estate. That meant there had been over-building, which, in turn, meant that the people employed on the actual construction and in making the commodities that went into construction ought not to have been employed. It meant, further, that, in the readjustment which had now begun, the country would have superfluous buildings and plant and labor.

It would take some time, continued Mr. Hawkes, for the production of the country to utilize the machinery that had been provided. While that was going on, the stream of borrowed money would markedly diminish, and people who had enjoyed prosperity because of the expenditure of the borrowed money would have to find other means of livelihood. It was nonsense to pretend that, in a few months, everything would revert to where it was in the real estate era, and in the height of the railway construction period, which, as Sir George Fearn had said, was fast coming to an end. It was impossible to duplicate the transcontinental program of the last few years because Canada had to make good on the lines already built.

Whereas, in 1891 there were 349 people in Canada to support each mile of railway, in 1915 there would be at best, according to "The Canadian Gazette" of London, only 250 people to support each mile of railway. The total of completed miles in that year was expected to be 36,000, and the estimate of nine millions population by the end of next year, or an increase of 1,725,000 since 1911, was optimistic enough for the most inveterate optimist who could read statistics.
