He appeared at his best in the two parts of his second number, Caro Mio Ben (Giordini), and Che Fiero Costume (Legranzi). The play of the emetions expressed in these selections, and the delicate cadences of which he showed himself to be master, won him hearty applause. The aria, Eri, Tu (Verdi), from "Un Ballo in Maschero," and the final number from Massenet each helped to sustain the fine impression George was assisted by Ernest J. ATHENS, Nov. 4, via London, Nov. 5, 3.20 a.m.—The trouble in the cham-per which caused the overthrow of ber which caused the overthrow of Caimis arose over a bill for extra G pay to officers during mobilization or 5 war. A lively discussion ensued. Deputy Vlachos, a follower of M. Venizelos, criticized the bill and in somewhat isters retired to confer in private on the situation.

Called for Apology.

On the resumption of the sitting, M. Venizelos insisted that Gen. Yanakitsas owed the house an apology for his abrupt departure and that unless he apologized the house would be unable to continue its sitting. M. Zaimis then declared that the government considered that no apology was due from the war minister, and demanded a vote of confidence on the question.

A long debate followed, in which all the leaders spoke, M. Venizelos delivering two long speeches, defending his policy and condemning that of the government. The former premier said he deplored the fact that Serbia was being left to be crushed by Bulgaria, Greece's hereditary enemy, who would not scruple later to fall on Greece herself.

Attacked Venizelos.

Several members of the cabinet attacked the policy of M. Venizelos. M. Gounaris, minister of the interior, maintained that the constitution conferred upon the king the right to disapprove of a government, and he sought to justify the cabinet's refusal to assist Serbia.

Seventy-Sixth Arrives

M. Venizelos again spoke at length in defence of his policy, and the vote was then taken, showing a lack of confidence in the ministry.

The Patris, the organ of the Venizelos party, prior to the debate, addressed a supreme appeal to the gov-ernment to drop its neutrality and seriment to drop its neutrality and seize the opportunity to put an end to what it termed the Bulgarian terror, arguing that, as in 1913, the central powers were using Bulgaria as a displomatic tool against Serbia and Greece, and that aggrandizement for Bulgaria mant viin Greece.

Zaimis arose over a bill for extra pay to officers during mobilization or war. A lively discussion ensued. Degret Viachos, a follower of M. Venizelos, criticized the bill and in somewhat unparliamentary language expressed surprise that it should have been introduced by War Minister Yanakitsas, who, he said, was not even a deputy.

M. Vlachos was called to order and offered to apologize, but Gen. Yanakitsas, ignoring the apology, angrily gathered up his papers and left the house, declaring it was impossible for him to remain.

The incident provoked tumult and the sitting was suspended. The ministers retired to confer in private on the situation.

Called for Apology.

On the resumption of the sitting, M. Venizelos insisted that Gen. He was found dead in his room at 9.45 by his landlady, Mrs. Annie Doley, from whom he engaged a room yetereday morning. Mrs. Doley informed the police, who called Dr. Simpson of East Queen street. The doctor stated that Thorntown had been dead about two hours.

Thorntown was discovered lying in bed in his underclothing, with a pearl handled knife tightly clasped in his heard about two hours.

The former premier said he deplored the fact that Serbia was being left to be crushed by Bulgaria, Greece's hereditary enemy, who would not scruple later to fall on Greece herself.

King Not Responsible.

Challenged by another deputy as to whether he thought the king wished the country's destruction, M. Venizelos said:

"I should have preferred not to drag the king's name into the discussion, but since you ask, I will say that in a constitutional government the crown has no place in the responsibility. It is absurd to suppose that the king desires to destroy the country, but our state is a constitutional kingdom, or rather a democracy presided over Mexico City."

Mrs. Doley is greatly upset over the occurrence and had to receive medical attention. She stated last night that she went out about 8 o'clock and returned about an hour and a half later. Thinking it was very peculiar that Thorntown had not made an appearance from early morning she went to his room. She could give no reason "I know the king is a distinguished general, but he is not equally experienced in things political. If I have tolerated the present cabinet it is here."

SOLDIERS'MARCH

Seventy-Sixth Arrives on Sunday.

HAMILTON, Friday, Nov. 5-Word was received from Lieut.-Col. Belson, commanding officer of the 81st Battalion, yesterday morning that it was pouring rain and the roads were in no condition for the trek? to be resumed. Col. Logie immediately ordere dthe battalion to remain in camp, and sent messages along the line for the other battalions to do likewise. The 84th had already started from St. Catharines for Grimsby, but was turned back, while the units between here and Toronto were allowed to proceed on their way.

Later in the morning it stopped raining sufficiently to allow the trek to be resumed, but Lieut.-Col. Chisholm, commanding the 92nd Battalion, had dismissed his men for the day. The delay will cause a setback of one day as far as the moving of battalions is concerned. The 92nd Highlanders will march out today, and the 81st, which spent the day at Grimsby, will arrive in the city this afternoon.

Thus, while one-half of the trek is underway, the battalions between here and Toronto keeping up the schedule, the other half is marking time.

The declaration which was read by Delegate Simpson, strongly endorsed the action of the Electrical Workers' Union in refusing to accept the decision of the Hydro-Electric Commission. "The refusal of the commission to accept the majority award is a serious attack upon the sound principles that underlie the municipal ownership policy, and is an inexcusable attempt to perpetuate the objectionable features of public utilities which call for the subordination of the claims of humanity to the lesser claims of avarice and greed in the administration of industry.

Discussed Strike.

Yesterday was the regular meeting day of the Hydro Commission and the session was held in the afternoon instead of the morning, so that Mayor Church could attend. Of the business discussed the strike was the most important. It was decided that matters concerning the strike will not be discussed unless all three members of the board are present. Altho no official statement was made after the meeting it is understood that the commission decided to hold the stand taken. Office men and draftsmen are doing the work of the men on strike and are working in two twelve-hour shifts in place of the three eight-hour shifts in place of the three eight-hour shifts scheduled to report on duty, and if they failed to report the commission stated that they would not hold their positions open any longer for them, and that steps will be taken to get men to take the place of the strikers. It was stated by an official that the men taken on would be given permanent positions.

The international executive board of the international union has decided not to send a member of the board from the Umited States, but will send their representative from Montreal to assist the local committee.

When asked about the reports that Sir Adam Beck or some other representative man might act as mediator between the men and the Hydro-Electric Commission, Business Agent J. E. Curran of the local union, who is acting chairman of the strike committee, stated that althe the conditions of the strike gave no reason for pessimism on the part of the men, the committee would be wilking at any time to meet in the presence of the members of the Hydro-Electric Commission and discuss the situation with either interested or dislinterested representative men.

The press committee of the men on strike yesterday gave out the statement that the 14 feet of cable laid in the old General Hospital building to accommodate the soldiers was laid by two of the men who are now on strike. Roumania's Position.

Roumania's Position.

Roumania is in somewhat the same position as Greece. A majority of the people of that country favor the allies, while the king and government wish to maintain neutrality, at least until it appears clear that the allies can win the war. There have been continual demonstrations in Roumania in favor of intervention, which have been heightened by the presence of a big Russian force on the northeastern border waiting to attack Bulgaris. In Berlin, according to reports, fear has been expressed that this force will be allowed to march thru Roumanian territory and that it might be joined by the Roumanian army. To discourage this, an Austro-German army is being assembled on the western borders of Roumania. ern borders of Roumania.

Thus the anxiety of the Roumanian Government can be understood. Besides massing troops the allies are taking other steps to persuade Greece and Roumania that it is to their interest to join against their interest. terest to join against the central powers.
