Before the regular business was taken up at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the City Council, Mayor Howard read the Lieutenant-Governor's proclamation on the occasion of Edward VII. The members all stood while it was being read, and at the conclusion repeated together: "We with one voice and consent of tongue and heart, pledge allegiance to King Edward VII. God save the King!"

Pressed for Investigation. Mr. Mayor Shaw occupied a seat on the floor of the chamber. A letter was read from him, asking for an investigation into the charges made by the City Council against the City Engineer, Mr. J. J. Fleming, whereby he was to receive the position of City Commissioner. After a great deal of wrangling, he was given an opportunity of addressing the Council.

The charges against Mr. Fleming, which were made by the City Council, were of a very serious nature, and it was not believed that they were made with the malicious intention of injuring Mr. Fleming. It was believed that they were made with the intention of securing the position of City Commissioner for Mr. Fleming.

Mr. Fleming, who was the subject of the charges, was a man of high standing in the City, and it was not believed that he was capable of such a base action. It was believed that the charges were made with the intention of securing the position of City Commissioner for Mr. Fleming.
