A NATIONAL POLICY LIBERAL. A NATIONAL POLICY LIBERAL.

The "balance of trade" theorists who have been so enthusiastic over the increasing exportations from the United States will probably pause to consider the fact that the exports of manufactures from that country show a decrease of $23,342,583 in the fiscal year 1301 compared with 1900. This will probably continue with the result that there will be congestion in the various industries. This is, in fact, witnessed now, and accounts for the increasing demand for reciprocity with Canada. But this country cannot afford to be made a slaughter market. Mutual trade relations may be open to consideration, but we must watch our own interests.—Ottawa Free Press (Liberal).
