NAT. COMMISSION RULES AGAINST TORONTO CLUB

Albert Gould Seems Lost to Leafs for This Season by the Ruling of Baseball Commission.

TORONTO, April 22.—The National Commission has notified President McCaffery that the case of Pitcher Albert Gould will not be reopened, which is another setback for the Toronto Ball Club, Go.lid was with Toronto on option last season, and was expected to be sent back to the Leafs, but the Cleveland club, which owns the services of the player, turned him over to Salt Lake City. Chairman Herrman of the National Commission, in his letter to the Toronto club, states that the Gould ruling was made against the Leafs because of the muddled condition of the affairs of the International League and the chaos which surrounded the organization of the new League. Chairman Herrman also points out that the International League's financial obligations have not been discharged.

Federal Fight Was Costly.
In reply to Herrman's letter, President McCaffery reminds the commission that the International did not pay certain sums owing to the commission, because the owners of the league had to bear the brunt of the Federal League fight, and that the Foderal League fight, and that the fight for food production only, and although the fight for food production only, and although the fight for food production only,

MAGNATES TAKING BIG CHANCES THIS SEASON

Owners Have Small Likelih ood of Coming Out Ahead Financially This Year -Other Sport Dope.

The baseball magnates face the 1918 season with much the same spirit as loes the man who holds a ticket on a 25 to 1 shot in a horse race. The nag may romp home in front-but it's a barren chance. This baseball season may winner from the financial viewpoint-but appearances are against it. Nineteen hundred and seventeen was not a moneymaker for the big leagues True, some few clubs fattened up their bank accounts through the medium of 1917 play. But most of them quit the year with statements showing a deficit. And if that was true last year when the country was just getting into the spirit of the war, and the draft hadn't taken hundreds of thousands of fans from their home towns, what will come about in 1918? Just the same, the moguls have gone ahead with their 1918 program despite the menacing outlook. As a reward for their gameness and their courage, here's the hope that they will cas h in on their "long shot" tickets.
