PUBLIC IS TO BLAME

So Says Wright Lorimer, the Actor, in Addressing Sunday Night Service.

The statement that the public is argely to blame for the unsavory of many plays was made by Wright Lorimer, playwright and ac-tor, in addressing : rowded house at the 'People's Sunday Service' in the Grand Opera House last night Mr. Lorimer appears at the theatre all this week in his remarkable Bible story play, "The Shepherd King." Mr. Lorimer proved to be an agree able speaker, graseful as to style and with a delivery free from declamator; effort, which might be expected. His subject matter showed thought and facility of expression, and it manne engaged close attention. Probably it was from the force of habit, however, that before his lecture was over he drifted from the table near the wings to the centre of he stage. Mr. Lorimer admitted that he didn't feel altogether at home without the footlights and the blackness beyond them .He had grown to regard the public as a great dim monster, which he never saw, but sometimes heard. He was not a member of any church, nor even a good man, making no pro fession and being purely a man of the world, who had had a very strenuous boyhood and hard work all his

The most important word in the dictionary was "grow" in the estimation of the speaker, who believed that very few people realized the powers that were in them awaiting development and how much broader and bigger mentally and spiritually they might become. In his reflective moods he realized how small and insignificant was his wit as an actor beside that of the great by-gone masters of the

Speaking of his practice of sending invitations to clergymen to see his play, he said that he sometimes received replies to the effect that the so small that if God let His breath blow there would be nothing left but the dust of him.

Everything, the drama included, had its use in helping the soul and mind to grow. The drama was sometimes abused, however. "There are vendors of rotten wares which are all too gladly received by many of you," he said. "The stage might be purged of much rottenness if you wanted to do it. Many managers would be glad to give high-class plays, noble in theme, were it not that the public turn away and go to se the lowest in us."

In allusion to the love of beauty, romance and art planted in many hearts, Mr. Lorimer said that such yearnings were of divine origin, and that the manifold beauties of nature made this clear. The life of the ave rage man who worked in office or factory was in need of more romance, and the drama did good work in keeping the spirit of it alive. He had had evidence that "The Shepherd King" was an agency for good, but he had not written it to this end, but because ne believed a good and noble theme was the highest form of art. Canon Welch of St. James' Cathedral gave an address on the parable f "The Prodigal Son," illustrated with lantern slides, which was intently and reverently listened to. WOMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Susan Jackson Expires Just After Leaving Church.

Just as Mrs. Susan Jackson, 40 Homewood-avenue, emerged with her son from the Christian Science Church on University-avenue last night she became weak and a few minutes later as she was being helped into a carriage she died.
The son, John M. Jackson, 30 years of age, called for assistance, but when someone suggested that a doctor be summoned, he said it wasn't necessary, as they were Christian Scientists However, when Dr. Duncan of Dundas-street volunteered aid the offer was not rejected. Mrs. Jackson was supported to a bench, and P. C. Annis summoned the ambulance. A passing carriage was halled, and Mrs. Jackson was lifted in, but in a few moments she succumbed.

Deceased was a widow in her 60th year, and is survived by two sons and a daughter, Catharine. Mrs. Jackson had suffered much of late years thru an impairment in her breathing. Heart failure is the attributed cause of death.
