ADVERTISER SPORTING EXTRA

The Advertiser Sporting Bulletin Service, which has now been running for upward of two seasons, is today more popular than ever, and the completeness with which all the big league scores are posted is proving most pleasing to the fans of London.

A week ago last Saturday The Advertiser issued a sporting extra containing big league and local baseball scores, and full accounts of the Woodbine races. The success of the extra was at once made certain, and warrants a continuation of the extra all season.

Next Saturday another extra will be issued, containing full accounts of all local, major and eastern league ball games, the Woodbine races, and any other sports held that day. special wire has been installed.

Tomorrow a list will be published of the places in this city and of the outside towns and cities where the extra may obtained.

The extra will be well illustrated with half-tones and drawings, and will be on the street as soon as complete returns of the various sporting events are obtained.

Buffalo, June 4 .- Yesterday Toronto started off like a whirlwind, but ended like so many lambs. Hits began to fly around the Bisons in the first inning as thick as bugs about an electric Hoffman, lamp. Bisons were running hither and there in vain attempts to get their hands on the flying sphere. There Phelan, were the funniest bingles ever seen, insisting on dropping back of some player's neck or near foul lines, where the gardens do not stand usually. When the visitors stopped doing this sort of hitting, it was found that they had two runs. This was a good start, and it looked all day for Buffalo. But Pitcher Applegate was off to fully as bad a start as Kissinger had encountered upon entering the pitching square. Applegate plugged Nattress in the ribs and did not find the plate until he had .525 floored Schrim with a rap on his wrist. White's out at first shoved the pair along a base each. Applegate, to be .419 sure that the ball was going over the plate, shot them in straight for Murray. There was no bend to the ball's flight, much less speed. This was cream and berries for Murray, for he picked out one of the softest and putting his back to the wood, sent the ball housetop high over the left-field fence and had company home, for

Applegate was sure of the plate during the remainder of that inning, and for the rest of the game for the mings today, and won the game, 11 to 5. fault of Mertes. Sandow, judging from supplanted by a younger, more active man. He did little here with the stick and was lamentably weak in the out-
