SONNET.

Thou speak'st of love, fond fon! as if it were
A passion, thou had st known and inly proved,
And yet thy brow is all undimm'd by care—
The brightness from thine eye is not removed,
Thy cheek too, boy, the rose is blushing there;
And these are tokens that thou ne'er hast loved.

And these are tokens that thou as er hast loves.

Love has his temple in the sunken eye—

Where sorrow dwells will fondest love appear;
His truest language is the secret sigh,
His awastest eloquence the silent tear;
But where the glow and bloom of health are nigh,
Be sure that he is absent—for his sphere
Is in the grief worn heart—there he doth dwell,
Like sainted hermit in his lonely cell.

Cure For Drunkenness.—A medical cor-respondent of the New-York Enquirer, states the following to be Mr. Loisen's remedy for drunkenness, and adds his testimony as to its bent ficial result: Receipt.—Tiucture Assabent ficial result: Receipt.—Tiucture Assa-fætida: Tart. Autimony; Ipecacuanha. Mix these with the particular spirit or liquor which you want to shun, and drink a wine glass full every morning, fasting, for a week, when I will insure a voluntary abstinence for one year.— An infusion of the leaves of tobacco will prove a very valuable auxiliary. As soon as any indisclination is felt to resume the cup, the remedy must be promptly applied, or there will be a relapse. Perhaps some may think the above remedy worse than the disease, and may not feel disposed to subject themselves to the regimen prescribed. I allow it is a hard case—on the one hand disgrace, poverty, disease, (bodily and mental,) and premature death—on the other, assafætida, inpecacuanha, tartar emetic, and to-bacco—momentary suffering and effectual purgation .- American paper.

According to the latest inquiries into the amount of the different populations of the South American States, it appears that they contain near 21,650,000 inhabitants. Mexico is the most populous, containing about 8000, 000. Brazil comes next, and has scarce hal that number. It has been likewise calculated that in America there are 11,650,000 persons who speak English; 10,580,000 who speak Spanish; 3,750,000 Portuguese; and 1,250,000 speaking French; finally, 7,600,000 speaking the various indigenous dialects.
