DOUBLE FEATURES FILL THE IMPERIAL

Victor Moore in "Snobs" and The "Goddess" Make Stirring Picture Programme — "The Great Richards" Springs a Surprise

Victor Moore, favorite comedian of Geo. Cohan's famous aggregation of stars, held the curtain at the Imperial yesterday in a picturization of George Bronson-Howard's comedy, "Snobs." It was a delightful bit of fun, clean and clever. Mr. Moore was ably assisted in the principal roles by Anita King, Constance Johnson and Ernest Joy. The picture was of the Lasky product and a marvel in detail and comic wealth in addition to its being very artistically enacted. It has the distinction of having been played at the Strand Theatre in New York a whole week to crowded houses. "Snobs" is a satire on the newly rich, taking for its leading character a prosy milkman who inherits the title and vast wealth of an English duke. How the milkman-duke hits the high spots of life makes most amusing entertainment and Mr. Moore was an ideal player for the part.

Quite as interesting to many folks was the sixth instalment of Gouverneur Morris' Vitaphone serial story, "The Goddess." In this instalment Celestia (Anita Stewart) transforms the unhappy condition of a whole tenement block by her simple and sweet adjustment of family squabbles, destitution, broken-heartedness and crime. Some of the scenes were very emotional and were warranted to bring tears to one's eyes. Of exciting interest was the part played by Freddie the Perpet in discovering Celestia as a benefactor in his own home and then refusing to disclose her whereabouts to the detectives and the while slave people. The chapter ends with the millionaire's secret police getting a clue as to where they will find the missing girl.

The Great Richards is no longer a mystery. After a light and airy ballet dancer is plentiful and the dancing togs had charmed the people for fully ten minutes—a superb exhibition of toe-dancing—the pretty little lady walked to the footlights and lifting her wig, disclosed a man! Richards certainly put over a splendid joke on the Imperial's patrons who were not slow in recognizing both his art and his wit with lewdly plaudits. This act was elaborately staged in a purple velvet cyclorama and under the brilliant lights and special electrical effects was unusually pretty addition to the other features in the bill there was a very interesting Animated Weekly.

Tomorrow and Thursday the continuation of the new feature programmes will be Mary Pickford in Margaret May's charming little story, Behind the Scenes—a theatrical tale. This dramatized novel and picturization is in five acts and in a fascinating manner contrasts the drama of life with the glamour of the footlights. In the role of a little actress, Mary Pickford, renders some of the best characterizations of her brilliant career. She is ably supported by James Kirkwood and other stars.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG AT THE LYRIC IN "LOLA"

Unusual Story Becomes Strong Picture Drama of Great Interest—Cecil and Mack in Song and Dance

Of the different picture productions seen at the Lyric during the last few months, possibly the screened version of Owen Davis' story, "Lola," as presented there last night by the World Film Company, represented at least the most novel of them all. A difficult subject to handle, the director deserves the greatest credit for the manner in which he exploits the theme. In the cast, featuring of special mention is the work of

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

A LIFETIME OF SICKNESS

Worn Out, Thin and Miserable Until She Took "Fruit-a-lives"

Palmerston, Ont., June 20th, 1914.
"Stomach Trouble and Distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Some time ago I got a box of 'Fruit-a-lives,' your famous fruit medicine, and they completely relieved me. Today I am feeling fine and a physician, meeting me on the street, asked the reason for my improved appearance. I said, 'I am taking Fruit-a-lives.' He said, 'Fruit-a-lives make you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can.'"
Mrs. H. S. WILLIAMS.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Clara Kimball Young, who appears in the name part.

The story in a nutshell is as follows: Lola is the daughter of a doctor who has struggled all his life to perfect an electrical contrivance for restoring life to a body that has been dead only a short time. The girl is happy in aiding the poor, is kind, lovable and sweet. One day she is knocked down by an automobile and brought home dead. Her father puts his invention to good use, and brings her back to life, but instead of having the same disposition before, she becomes irritable, and even dishonest. Her good soul deserts her and instead she is the possessor of an exceptionally evil one. She runs away with Fenway, a man she had before, loathed. She becomes tired of him, first with number of others, and then finally becomes enamored of a man much older than herself. Her doctor tells her that her heart is weak and that a sudden shock might bring death. She returns to her father, who has promised to bring her back to life should this happen. Her father denounces her, and to prove his earnestness in his denunciation, with a hammer smashes the wonderful invention that had taken him years to perfect. The dramatic incidents in the picture are many and, as before intimated, the acting of Clara Kimball Young is in perfect sense of the best, wonderful. It is the kind of a picture that makes a universal appeal, and should be instructive in filling the Lyric Theatre during today and tomorrow. Cecil and Mack were particularly pleasing in some bright song and dance numbers.

EMDEN MAY BE FLOATED ONCE MORE

German Raider, Which the Australians Sank—Worth Breaking up if Cannot be Saved

The Emden, that where H. M. A. S. Sydney's terrific salvo drove her, hard aground on the reef at the North Keeling Island, says a Sydney paper. Her decks are battered, her funnels droop like broken reeds, her foremast has disappeared and her deck hammer is heaving in a disorderly mass on her forward deck. But there are good material and vast possibilities in this wreck of the trim little cruiser that fitted so skilfully about the Pacific in the early days of the war, endangering shipping and making the naval authorities and captains of merchantmen anxious for the safety of the trade routes.

The Commonwealth government has offered for tenders for salvage of the Emden, and the new exists or her valuable parts. To save the hulk would certainly require skilful engineering.

In view of the extraordinary accomplishment of the Japanese at Chemulpo, brought to the surface two Russian cruisers which had been sunk and made them into fighting material again, the salvage of the hulk of the Emden seems to be an easy accomplishment.

Might Break Vessel Up for Metal.
Even if decided that the Emden could not be refloated and brought to some port to be repaired there is a sufficient quantity of metal in the make-up of the vessel to compensate for the expense incurred by her salvage and to show a profit.

There is, of course, in every modern battleship a large quantity of steel and copper bronze and iron, and the Emden is no exception to the rule. In addition to the metal within the ship, there is that most coveted portion of a wreck, the propeller. The propeller of the Emden is made of phosphor-bronze, and weighs two tons. This melted down and sold at the rate of so much a pound would alone bring in a fair sum.

Probably to Singapore.
The Emden would be refloated she would probably be taken to Singapore, as that is the handiest port for repairs. She would, of course, be useless if considered as a fighting unit during the present war; her machinery, being of German pattern, is out of conformity with the general make-up of a British ship and would need to be replaced. This could not be done under about twenty months in a British shipbuilding yard.

This would hardly allow of her taking part as a British fighting ship in the present war, and in any case the naval authorities would scarcely consent, it is thought, to the Emden's taking up space in a shipbuilding yard when there is so much important naval building to be done.

May Bear British Gun.
The Emden has proved herself a useful type of vessel and was built for the Commonwealth naval authorities. She is not an old ship as ships go, and, fitted with British engines, with her top hammer replaced, she would be an ideal type of vessel for guarding troopships and merchantmen and keeping clear of all-important trade routes.

Her guns would need to be removed and replaced by British guns, because the German 4.1-inch gun, an inch longer than the British 4.7-inch gun, would require an entirely new make of ammunition and this is not practicable. The Emden has 10 4.1-inch guns and while it is a difficult experiment, the mounting of fewer and more powerful guns may be a subject worthy of consideration.

TWO BUSINESS MEN'S PLATOONS IN HALIFAX

(Halifax Echo.)

Every day is seeing important enlistments to the business men's platoon. One of the latest recruits is Eric Grant, son of Mr. Grant, of Halifax, and member of the firm of Grant, Oakey & Co., well known and long established commission brokers. Mr. Grant is now the fifth member of his family to be in service in some branch, either of the navy or army, a record which is enviable. He sets an example to many young men of Halifax, who claim that business interests are keeping them back, for with every other member of his family in the service, he could well have claimed duty at home as prior to that for the country. Waiving an opportunity to procure a commission, Mr. Grant has enlisted as a private in the platoon of business men for the 88th Battalion.

What will undoubtedly be a great impetus to recruiting for the business men's platoons, is the announcement that efforts are being made to recruit as many college men as possible, to form at least one, and perhaps two, platoons. These latter will go into the same company as the business and professional men. The business men's platoons and the college platoons are expected to be over strength to such a number that the surplus will form the fourth platoon, and thus complete the company. The first platoon is already completed, the second is well established, and the balance required for the second should be readily recruited among the young professional men of the city.

There are any number of young lawyers, accountants, dentists, bank clerks, clerks of various business houses, engineers, and men engaged in a variety of business pursuits who are eligible for the platoon. They are afforded an opportunity which may not come their way again—an opportunity to continue in the army those associations with friends and comrades which they have had for years in civil life.

The principle underlying the formation of these platoons for the 88th Battalion is one that has been found most practical in Great Britain in the formation of Kitchener's army. There it was worked out among all classes of labor and business. There were longshoremen's platoons, and in some instances whole battalions. There were whole battalions of miners, steel workers, and tradesmen. The same principles were taken up in the athletic world, and a score of other walks of life. Comradeship that would produce an esprit de corps, strikingly better for the men, and productive of better work while in training and better results when the actual combat is reached in Flanders.

WANT LONDON NIGHT CLUBS SUPPRESSED.

London, Oct. 4.—(Montreal Gazette Cable)—The night club scandal is still engaging the attention of the London press, which is urging the government to take action.

The Bishop of London, in a letter to the Times today, states that he has placed before the authorities evidence collected by the London Council for the Promotion of Public Morality, which evidence convinces him that the continued existence of these clubs is a danger to the capital of the empire at war. A Times editorial asserts there are between 150 and 200 of these clubs in Soho which constitutes a crying evil.

The Pall Mall Gazette asks why the government, which is appealing daily for patriotism and frugality, permits the business to continue which is flagrantly subversive of both.

No Rake-off, He Says.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 4.—Indignantly denying that there had been one cent paid in commission or received by any person in rebate or in contributions to party funds, in connection with the purchase by his government for the federal authorities, of the two submarines acquired from the Seattle Construction & Drydock Company, Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, this afternoon, on the witness stand explained to Sir Charles Davidson, who is inquiring into the details of the transactions, his part in securing the boats.

IT'S YOUR LIVER!

YOU'RE BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK

Don't Stay Constipated With Breath Bad, Stomach Sour or a Cold

Enjoy Life! Live Your Liver and Bowels Tonight and Feel Fine

WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

To-night sure! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store now? Eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest, liver and bowel cleaning you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or bother you all the next day like calomel, salts, and pills. They act gently but thoroughly. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and children love them.
